Three States Call Troops in Textile Riots

TWO ARE SHOT IN BATTLES IN NEW ENGLAND

600 Charge Police; Many Injured.

BULLETIN.

Hartford, Conn., Sept. 11 (Tuesday).—(AP)—Companies F and K, 169th infantry, C. N. G., both of this city, were being mobilized at the state armory here early today and ordered to be ready to move to Willimantic at 7 o'clock.

Providence, R. I., Sept. 11 (Tuesday).—(AP)—Gov. Theodore Francis Green at 2:55 a. m. today announced he had directed Brig. Gen. Herbert R. Dean, adjutant general, to order a skeleton regiment of National Guardsmen into two armories to be ready for further orders in the strike situation.

Lewiston, Me., Sept. 10.—(AP)—Two companies of National Guardsmen were called out late tonight at the request of Mayor Robert J. Wiseman to relieve police on duty in connection with the textile strike. The mayor said he was determined to maintain order.

Boston, Mass., Sept. 10.—(AP)—Two men were shot and more than two score others either bruised or overcome by tear gas in the most serious textile strike rioting in New England since the strike was declared.

The shooting of two members of a crowd at Saylesville, R. I., was the first of this strike in this section of the country. More than 25 other persons were injured, including the 10 year old son of a Rhode Island jurist caught in a crush before the Sayles finishing plant.

A few hours later 15 persons were injured, several seriously in a riot at the Pawdrell & Alexander curtain plant at Danielson, Conn., as 1,500 pickets were dispersed by state police hurling tear gas bombs.

The men shot at Saylesville were said to have been fired upon by a guard of 20 deputy sheriffs armed with shotguns who have been guarding the plant where 2,500 operatives have continued to work despite efforts of organizers for the United Textile Workers to persuade them to join the big walkout.

Push Crowd Out of Town.

The tear gas came from a score of steel helmeted state police assigned to the plant. Not until the shouting, jeering crowd had been literally pushed over the village lines was quiet restored.

Forced to stand behind a "deadline" which had been established far from the plant this morning, the throng did not become unruly until the afternoon shift was due to report. Then it suddenly went out of control.

Practically all of the would-be pickets had come from elsewhere in the strike affected Blackstone valley area and from Fall River, Mass., where the strike has closed every mill.

When ordinary methods of restoring peace at Danielson failed the police laid down a barrage of tear gas that not only swept the crowd back, but permeated nearby houses, causing the evacuation of many.

Board Expects Peace.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 10.—[Special.]—In its first optimistic statement President Roosevelt's special mediation board today announced that it believes a peaceful settlement can be reached in the huge textile strike.

"The problems arising out of the textile dispute are not impossible of solution," the board's statement said in part. "The board believes that a settlement can be reached which will be fair to workers, employers, and the public interest."

Despite the board's hopeful attitude employers and strikers continued throughout the day to stick doggedly to irreconcilable positions. In addition textile mill owners over the country today launched a determined effort to reopen their plants, thus breaking the strike without government meddling.

The only concession made during the day came when Francis J. Gorman, strike leader of the United Textile Workers of America, announced that the union would give the board another 24 hours in which to bring about arbitration of the strike. When Gorman advanced the arbitration proposal on Saturday he stipulated that the employers must agree to arbitra-

SHIP'S OFFICERS SAY TRAGIC FIRE WAS INCENDIARY

Cite Previous Blaze in Hold.

Toll of Disaster

New York, Sept. 10.—[Special.]—Figures that will show the final extent of the disaster to the liner Morro Castle are still incomplete, but latest reports of the Ward line give the following summary:

Dead	87
Passengers	66
Crew	21
Missing	50
Passengers	28
Crew	22
Total dead or missing	137
Survivors	413
Passengers	224
Crew	189
Total	550

The Ward line figured that 550 were aboard, having revised an estimate of 560 based on inability to tell the number of the crew.

New York, Sept. 10.—[Special.]—The roaring flames which suddenly raked the decks of the proud liner Morro Castle early last Saturday morning, causing a great loss of life, were apparently of incendiary origin, Acting Captain William S. Warms and other officers testified at a federal inquiry today.

The rapid spread of the fire indicated that it was fed by gasoline or chemicals, they asserted. They told also of a mysterious blaze on Aug. 27 discovered in the hold which also had presumably been started by some person.

Deny Trouble with Crew.

But when the witnesses were questioned by D. N. Hoover, head of the steamboat inspection service of the department of commerce, concerning a possible motive for such a shocking crime, they became silent. There had been no trouble with the crew, according to their evidence, although they admitted a little "friction" had occurred with striking dockmen at Havana before the cruise.

(Officers of the Grace liner Santa Rita, which arrived at Balboa, C. Z., with a fire in her hold, which also was discovered Friday night, charged that the fire, as well as the one on the Morro Castle, was the result of trouble with an international radical organization, many members of which are numbered among the Santa Rita's crew. Details will be found elsewhere in this edition.)

It was a baffling story that came in halting phrases from the lips of the grim seamen who were sworn to testify. Unanimous in their belief that the fire must have been "set" by some one, they were reluctant to admit that the wild confusion which followed the outbreak of the fire was due to any mismanagement or lack of control of the crew.

Shortly after the inquiry got under way United States Attorney Martin Conboy issued subpenas to all witnesses for their appearance before a federal grand jury tomorrow.

Charges Crew Undisciplined.

While the hearing was in progress the steamboat inspection committee received a message from Representative William Sutphin of New Jersey saying he believed the Morro Castle's crew was "new and undisciplined." The message said:

"Information in my possession leads me to believe the crew was new and undisciplined and that this line hired the crew just before the day of the sailing, dismissing the crew after each trip and engaging another crew before sailing again."

At the hearing itself perhaps the most definite criticism of the conduct of the crew came from Acting Second Officer Clarence Hackney, who followed Capt. Warms to the stand. He aroused the interest of the investigators with the assertion that there was "little real discipline in the crew."

"There could be no organized discipline under the conditions on that boat," he declared. But, for some reason, he was not asked to explain this remark further and was soon excused.

Another witness was Acting First Officer Ivan Freeman, who joined the two other officers in the assertion that

Riot in 'Bug House' Square; Two Wounded

One man was shot and seriously wounded, another was slugged, and twenty were knocked down and trampled last night in a riot at Washington square, Walton place and Clark street, precipitated by four young men in an automobile. Half a dozen squads of police armed with riot guns and tear gas dashed to the park to calm a crowd of 2,000 persons that was milling around there after the shooting.

According to Sergt. John Steffin, the crowd had gathered to hear George Sweci, a soap box orator. The park is known as "bughouse square," where radicals hold forth nightly on a variety of controversial subjects.

Youths in Car Anger Crowd.

The four youths, riding with two girls, forced their car through the crowd which was listening to Sweci in Walton place. Their car brushed against several spectators. This angered others in the crowd, who reached through the car windows and struck the youths.

After pushing through the crowd the four returned a short while later, got out of the car, and rushed toward the speaker's box, two of them firing revolvers.

A bullet ricocheted from the pavement and wounded William Kersten, 78 years old, 230 Willow street, passing through his right hand into his abdomen. He was treated at the Henrotin hospital, and then taken to the County hospital in a serious condition. Raymond Fredericks, 637 North Dearborn street, was struck on the head by a gun butt.

Captured by a Policeman.

As the youths ran back to their car Policeman Anthony Bongiorno of the Hudson avenue station arrived. He pursued them, firing several shots, and finally caught them at Maple and Wells streets.

At the station the youths identified themselves as Eddie Katsowitz, 22 years old, 1633 South Spaulding avenue; William Miller, 23, of 3305 Lexington avenue; James Silverman, 22, of 3420 Roosevelt road, and Jack Glick, 24, of 3306 Roosevelt road. The girls gave their names as Helen Jacobs, 17 years old, 3323 Grenshaw street, and Grace Flato, 18, who refused to give her address.

When the crowd scattered in panic during the shooting, several persons were knocked down by passing automobiles. None was injured seriously. A number of the spectators appeared at the Hudson avenue station and identified the four youths.

N. U.-EVANSTON FEUD BREWING OVER 3% TAX ON FOOTBALL RECEIPTS

A feud is brewing between the city of Evanston and Northwestern university over the attempts of the city to collect a tax of 3 per cent of the gate receipts for all of the school's athletic contests. The feud came to light last night at a meeting of the Evanston city council, at which it was decided to enforce the tax.

Last February, in order to balance the budget, the council adopted an ordinance providing for such a tax, and requiring that a license be obtained for any athletic contest held in Evanston for which admission is charged.

In the budget, the revenue from this was estimated at $10,000. School authorities declined to pay the tax on any of the basketball games and other contests held during the winter.

With the football season impending, George S. Dalgety, assistant business manager of the university, wrote a letter asking what the city's attitude toward enforcing the ordinance would be. Corporation Counsel William Lister wrote in reply that it would be enforced, and that, if the university declined to comply, the university's contests might be halted.

ASKS CASH BACK ON RAIL TICKET BOUGHT IN 1870

In 1870, Mr. John Watt of Auburndale, Mass., bought a railroad ticket in Chicago for passage between Detroit and Boston on the Grand Trunk railway. The ticket, he was told, was good "until used." The other day, according to the Chicago office of the Canadian National-Grand Trunk railways, Mr. Watt finally decided he didn't want to use his ticket. Yesterday it was forwarded to the general offices in Montreal, Canada, with a request from Mr. Watt that the railroad give him his money back.

Sees Ring Missing for 2 Years; Friend Arrested

Two years ago a $250 diamond ring disappeared from the apartment of Miss Onner Belle Lea, 301 Schiller street, Elmhurst, who then lived on the north side. She said she suspected her friend, Miss Dolly Fuller, 28 years old, 3354 Maypole avenue, who had visited her. A week ago Miss Lea said she met Miss Fuller and saw the ring on her finger. Miss Fuller refused to give it up. Miss Lea obtained a warrant charging receiving stolen property, and last night Miss Fuller was arrested in her apartment.

Find Doctor and Son, 10, Slain in Hotel

Dr. Carl F. Bookwalter, 55 years old, Chicago physician, and his 10 year old son, William Ellis Bookwalter, were found shot to death in an apartment in the Hotel Wolford at Danville, Ill., yesterday. It was believed that despondency over ill health and the death of his wife a year ago had caused the physician to kill his son and take his own life.

Dr. Bookwalter had an office at 104 South Michigan avenue and was an assistant professor of otolaryngology at Northwestern university. He lived at the South Shore Country club until last spring, but since then had spent much of his time in Danville. At his office it was said he intended to return to Chicago this month and open a new office. He was also expected to resume his teaching at Northwestern university.

A Native of Danville.

Dr. Bookwalter was born in Danville and came to Chicago after finishing his medical education in the east and serving as house surgeon at an eye and ear infirmary in New York. He lived with his wife and son at 5430 East View Park. After her accidental death from a sleeping medicine a year ago he took up his residence at a country club and his son went to live at the home of an uncle, Robert Bookwalter, an attorney, at Danville. Another brother of the physician, Walter Bookwalter, is a state representative and lives in Danville.

The boy had been at a Wisconsin summer camp and returned with his father to the Danville hotel last Saturday.

Find Bodies in Room.

Hotel attendants were unable to enter the apartment Sunday. Yesterday one of them crawled through a transom and discovered the two bodies. The son apparently had been shot as he slept. The father's body was slumped beside the bed.

Coroner Harry George of Vermilion county found a .32 caliber revolver under Dr. Bookwalter's body. A receipt for a life insurance policy was found on a nearby desk, but there was no note of explanation.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New Orleans, La., Sept. 10.—[Special.]—As a last minute political bomb, which fails to shake the city very much, Senator Huey Long's legislative investigating committee today attempted to "tell where the money went" in the great collections which have been testified to by previous witnesses in connection with gambling and prostitution.

Daniel Knowles, secretary to Mayor T. Semmes Walmsley, whose organization faces that of Senator Long at the polls tomorrow; Superintendent of Police George Reyer, and Chief of Detectives John J. Groesch were summoned before the militia-surrounded committee in the Canal Bank building. They were questioned about bank deposits and certain residences acquired and some figures in what was said over the radio to be a "little black book" written by a lottery operator, detailing payments to police officials and "city hall."

Asks About Arms Rumors.

The committee adjourned until Wednesday, the day after election. Senator James Noe, jr., chairman, who had hurriedly summoned Capt. Henry Clark to the committee room, started to question him about mysterious deliveries from automobiles to his house at 4 o'clock this morning. The captain denied this and Senator Long interrupted him to say:

"I know what you are driving at. I have had many rumors of this sort, that ammunition was being delivered around town. I have run them all down and I don't believe it. Neither side has got a chance to do any rough work tomorrow. There have been a lot of rumors since this fellow Guy Molony [former superintendent of police] came back to town. It is unfortunate that they ever brought him here. With a standing army of 2,000 men here they haven't got much sense to be fooling around with cap pistols. We are going to have a peaceful election. I hear nothing to the contrary."

The committee auditors brought evidence of deposits by Secretary Knowles of $5,500 in August and September of 1931 and $8,300 in May of 1932, when he was receiving a salary of $300 a month.

Knowles Makes Statement.

Mr. Knowles in a statement issued an hour later in the newspapers explained that this was money deposited as secretary-treasurer for various functions, trips, and banquets. One of the largest amounts was for an anniversary banquet given at the Municipal auditorium in honor of Senator Long himself. That was while the senator and the mayor were working together politically. The senator said some very nice things about the mayor a couple of years ago.

Supt. Reyer was asked about his two houses, one costing $16,000 and the other $7,000. He said his salary was $6,000 and that he was paying for the second house. He was shown what were described as "lottery books," although the owner or writer

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Portland, Me., Sept. 11 [Tuesday.]—[Special.]—In the first test of popular sentiment on the New Deal, Maine was almost swept from its traditional Republican moorings in the state election yesterday.

On the face of incomplete returns this morning it appears that Republican Senator Frederick Hale, vigorous assailant of the New Deal, was reelected to a fourth term, but by an exceedingly narrow margin.

Democratic Gov. Louis J. Brann, who was silent on the New Deal but boasted of the government money he procured for the state, was reelected by a substantial majority. He is the first Democratic governor to be given a second term in Maine since the civil war.

New Dealer Is Defeated.

New Dealer John G. Utterback, Democratic congressman from the Third district, apparently was defeated by former Gov. Ralph O. Brewster, Republican.

New Dealer Edward C. Moran Jr., Democratic congressman from the Second district, triumphed over his Republican rival, Zelma Dwinal.

In the Third congressional district Republican Representative Carroll L. Beedy, an aggressive foe of the New Deal, may prove to have been defeated by Simon M. Hamlin, Democratic defender of the Roosevelt program. The latest returns show Hamlin leading Beedy.

Democrats Gain Legislators.

The Democrats made gains in the legislature, which, however, will remain Republican in both houses.

Scores of county offices throughout the state which have been held by Republicans time out of mind were captured by the Democrats. York county, with its large mill population, was swept by the New Dealers.

In the midst of this political shakeup the voters swept out of the Maine constitution the prohibition amendment written into it fifty years ago as the result of the anti-liquor crusading led by Neal Dow. Thus Maine, pioneer prohibition state, joins the wet parade.

Interpretations Are Varied.

As a verdict on the New Deal the results of the balloting are open to varied interpretation. The Republicans retain the senatorship while the Democrats retain the governorship and two of the three congressmen, though not the same two they now have.

Before the election both Senator Hale and Col. Theodore Roosevelt, who stumped the state for the Republican ticket, proclaimed that the reelection of Gov. Brann would be interpreted throughout the country as an indorsement of the New Deal. Senator Hale explained this morning that what he meant to convey was that although the reelection of Mr. Brann would be due wholly to local considerations the country would regard the victory of a Democrat in Maine as approval of the New Deal.

The senator spent the night receiving the returns at the Press-Herald office and went home at 2:30 a. m. saying that he calculated he had been reelected by about 15,000 majority. Six years ago, in the Hoover landslide, he was elected to his present term of office by 30,000.

Hale Piles Up Lead of 8,000.

In the same precincts Gov. Brann received 184,366; his Republican opponent, Alfred K. Ames, 135, 733.

Throughout the election canvass the New Deal was the paramount issue, with the Republicans aggressively assailing the Democrats defending the Roosevelt program.

The Republican congressional campaign committee sent a dozen or more Republican orators of national reputation to stump the state in behalf of a popular repudiation of the New Deal, among them Col. Roosevelt, Senator L. J. Dickinson of Iowa, Representative Hamilton Fish of New York, and Senator Daniel O. Hastings of Delaware.

All of these, as well as Senator Hale and the Republican candidates for the national house, denounced the New Deal as a socialistic experiment which is retarding instead of advancing recovery; undermining the credit of the government at a cost so enormous that it will leave a staggering burden of debt for generations to come.

Noticeable from the start were the precautions taken by Gov. Brann to dissociate himself from defense of the New Deal. Not only did he never mention the New Deal and only rarely mention the President in his speeches, but he barred the importation of national Democratic orators to defend the program.

Brags of His Influence.

He devoted his campaign addresses to expatiation on the 168 million dollars of easy government money which he boasted his influence with the Roosevelt administration had enabled him to procure for distribution in Maine.

Of this amount 2 millions were made available by Washington for personal distribution by the governor during the campaign, the largest campaign fund ever used in a Maine election. Of this, $1,7000,000 was for highway construction and was parceled out by the governor to the select men, mostly Republicans, to whom he personally telephoned the offers of these windfalls.

The governor also warned his audiences that his defeat would mean that there would be no one with the requisite pull to induce the Roosevelt administration to continue the allotment of government money to Maine.

Even Farley Stays Away.

As a result of the ban imposed by the governor, not even Democratic National Chairman Jim Farley appeared in the state during the campaign, although he has carried defense of the New Deal into almost every other state in the last two or three months and only the other day was speaking as close to Maine as Connecticut. There was one outside Democrat of national reputation, however, whom the governor was unable to keep away. That was Bainbridge Colby of New York, secretary of state in the Wilson administration, who spoke here last week under the auspices of nonpartisan patriotic societies. Mr. Colby gave the New Deal both barrels.

Defense of the New Deal devolved chiefly on young Harold Dubord, the Democratic opponent of Senator Hale. Dubord argued at length that the New Deal is not socialistic.

"Is it socialistic," he asked, "to contend that there can be no prosperity and happiness in this nation until there is a more equitable distribution of wealth? Is there anything wrong about advocating policies to promote the welfare, not of the special few, but of the whole?

"Such a program can absolutely be inaugurated under our constitutional form of government."

"Why Rebuke President?"

Alluding to Republican demands for a rebuke of the President and the New Deal he said:

Why rebuke the President and the New Deal? Shall we rebuke him because for the first time since Wilson we have a President who thinks of the humble man and woman?

"The moneyed interests of Wall street would like to destroy the President. They are doing everything in their power to retard recovery. Traitors they are to the nation in which they live and yet they plead to you in the name of patriotism to rebuke the President."

4 PERSONS DIE; FUGITIVES' CAR IN AUTO CRASH

Alliance, O., Sept. 10.—(AP)—Four persons, including a brother and sister were killed late today in a collision between an automobile in which two robbery suspects were escaping from police and a car in which two girls and a youth were en route to Kent State college.

The dead are Gene Quilter, Louisville, O., driver of one auto; his sister Jane, 18; Eugenia Nimereala, 18, Louisville, O., and an unidentified man said by police to have been one of the two robbers.

The unidentified man died tonight without regaining consciousness. His companion, seriously injured, who gave his name as Ward Cobadash of Akron, refused to reveal the dead man's identity.

LOEB, LEOPOLD BEGIN 11TH YEAR IN PRISON TODAY

Richard Loeb and Nathan Leopold will start their 11th year of imprisonment today for the murder of Bobby Franks. Both are in Stateville penitentiary.

Loeb, who is now 29, for the last year has been conducting a correspondence school in the prison, with about 200 convicts as pupils. Leopold, who is 30, assists Loeb. Leopold is a clerk in the prison library.

Attorney Benjamin Bachrach, now public defender, who with Clarence Darrow represented them at their trial, said yesterday that they have no hope of ever being freed and are arranging their lives accordingly. They were sentenced to 99 years for kidnaping and life imprisonment for murder.

5 ARE KILLED AS TRAIN AND AUTO COLLIDE

Oakland, Cal., Sept. 10.—(AP)—Three men and two women occupants of an automobile were killed in a collision between their machine and a Southern Pacific electric train at a street intersection here tonight.

The three men killed were identified as S. S. Jensen, Berkeley chiropractor; E. B. Perry, Berkeley, and R. J. Van Wuch, Berkeley. The bodies of the women were not immediately identified.

NEW DEAL ISSUE IN WASHINGTON STATE PRIMARY

Democrats in Hot Battle for Senator.

Seattle, Wash., Sept. 10.—(AP)—Republican attacks on the New Deal and individual battles within the Democratic party marked the primary election campaign which ended in Washington state today. Tomorrow the voters will choose nominees for United States senator, six congressional seats, and many state officers.

Highlighting the campaign was the acrimonious battle between Lewis Schwellenbach, Seattle attorney and New Deal supporter, and John C. Stevenson, King county commissioner, for the Democratic senatorial nomination.

Dill Indorses Judge.

Senator C. C. Dill, Democrat, who is retiring, indorsed the candidacy of Superior Judge Charles H. Leavy of Spokane. Dr. Harry Deegan of Shelton; John C. Peterson, Seattle salesman, and James W. Williams, Spokane real estate man, also seek the senatorial nomination.

Republican aspirants to the senatorial nomination who attacked the New Deal as a threat against "American constitutional rights" were: Ralph A. Horr, Seattle, former representative; Reno Odlin, Olympia banker; Frank Goodwin, Seattle executive, who says "there are too many lawyers in congress now"; D. V. Morthland, Yakima attorney, and Frank R. Jeffrey, Seattle lawyer.

Veterans Contest in Arizona.

Phoenix, Ariz., Sept. 10.—(AP)—The fate of two veterans in Arizona politics will be at stake in the state primary tomorrow.

Henry F. Ashurst, Arizona's senator since the state was admitted to the Union in 1912, has four opponents for the Democratic nomination. He is seeking a sixth term.

George W. P. Hunt, seven times governor, seeks the Democratic nomination for an eighth term. Gov. B. B. Moeur, who gave Hunt his first defeat two years ago, also seeks renomination.

Four Oppose Ashurst.

Opposed to Ashurst in the Democratic primary are Sidney P. Osborn, Arizona's collector of internal revenue and until recently chairman of the Democratic state central committee; William Coxon, defeated two years ago for Arizona's seat in the house of representatives; Reno L. Jennings, Maricopa county attorney, and Charles P. Rutherford, Phoenix attorney.

For congress, Isabella Greenway, elected in a special election last year to succeed Lewis W. Douglas, is opposed by Frank H. Hilgeman, Salt river valley farmer. Douglas quit the congressional post to become director of the budget. He resigned from that position recently. He discouraged friends who wanted him to run for his old seat.

Woman Out for Governor.

Denver, Col., Sept. 10.—(AP)—Colorado's two Democratic candidates for governor rested tonight from a hard campaign and awaited the primary election tomorrow which will determine whether a man or woman will carry Democracy's banner in the November hustings.

Miss Josephine Roche, coal magnate and nationally known social worker, closed her campaign tonight with an address, while her opponent, Gov. Edwin C. Johnson, spoke before a mass-meeting in Colorado Springs. Their speeches were the two last big guns before opening of the polls at 7 a. m. tomorrow.

Holding to his record as his platform Gov. Johnson asked his renomination on the proposition that he has earned it.

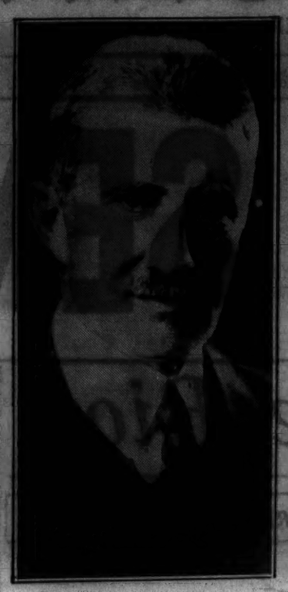
Miss. Roche, described her own election as the only way for Colorado to "get in step" with the national administration.

Contest for Governor.

Columbia, S. C., Sept. 10.—(AP)—Cole L. Blease, iron gray veteran of more than a score of political battles, and Olin D. Johnston, 38 year old attorney, made their final appeals tonight as South Carolina Democrats prepared to chose between them in tomorrow's run-off primary for governor. Nomination is equivalent to election.

Johnston, runner-up four years ago to Gov. Ibra C. Blackwood, led the field of eight in the first primary Aug. 28, with Blease in second place, about 17,000 votes behind.

RUNNING AHEAD IN MAINE



FREDERICK HALE (R). (Ahead for senate re-election.)

GOV. LOUIS J. BRANN (D). (Re-elected.)

MICHIGAN TO VOTE IN PRIMARY TODAY; MANY CANDIDATES

Lansing, Mich., Sept. 10.—[Special.]—Although voters have displayed little interest in either candidates or issues, leaders of both major parties are awaiting tomorrow's primary with utmost trepidation as the distribution of the vote is expected to show whether there has been a pronounced swing back to the Republican fold from the Democratic landslide of two years ago.

Democratic chieftains, whether favoring the present administration of Gov. William A. Comstock or not, have been urging that Democrats vote in their own party primary exclusively.

With at least as many candidates contesting for Democratic nominations as for Republican ballot places it appeared certain that most voters would register their choices in the party for which they intend to vote in November, and that the primary vote thus would be indicative of party strength.

Gov. Comstock has been the target for as bitter criticism from rivals in his own party, Arthur J. Lacy, Detroit attorney, and John K. Stack Jr., auditor general, as from Republicans. He is considered likely to gain renomination, however, because his forces still dominate the state Democratic organization.

The Republican gubernatorial nomination apparently lies between Frank D. Fitzgerald, secretary of state, who got into the race early and pledged most of the state party leaders to his support, and Alex J. Groesbeck, Detroit attorney and former governor for three terms.

was not identified. Reyer aided the committee in identifying names read to him, although he said the book meant nothing.

Shows Payments, Long Says.

There were regular payments, according to the senator, of $50 a week to city hall, and from $87 to $97 a week to "R. and G." He said he had been informed by telephone this was "Reyer and Groesch." The chief laughed and said they could write in the name if they wished to do so. He knew nothing of it. Many police captains and detectives were named for smaller amounts.

Chief of Detectives Groesch also said he knew nothing of these payments or alleged figures. He also was shown pictures of houses and identified two as his own, one costing $7,500 and one $16,500. He said his salary was $3,700 a year.

"Do you know of any gambling in the city?" Senator Noe asked.

"I don't know of any," was the detective's reply.

He was asked about a lock box and said he had one a year ago and that his wife now has one. He was asked again about gambling and admitted that "there was some."

Knows of Vice District.

"Did you know there had been a vice district?" Senator Noe asked.

"Yes, sir," the detective replied.

"No, sir," retorted Groesch.

"What about this book?" countered Noe.

"It means nothing," asserted Groesch.

The detective chief then launched into a defense of his superintendent and the department.

Senator Noe said at the close of the session that there was enough work ahead to keep the committee two or three months.

NEW DEAL LIKE FASCISM IN PART, HOOVER WRITES

Also Sees Communistic, Socialistic Leanings.

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 10.—(AP)—Continuing his broad attack on the administration's policies, Herbert Hoover in the current issue of the Saturday Evening Post declares some Roosevelt measures are "emulating parts" of Fascist, Socialist, and communist systems of government.

"It is obvious that many of these measures," the former President writes, "represent not reform or relief within the boundaries of liberty, but that they are emulating parts of these other systems with the hope of speeding recovery from the depression."

As in Mr. Hoover's first copyrighted article, the portions of "consequences to liberty of regimentation" released for publication by the magazine do not mention by name President Roosevelt or his administration.

The second article, however, refers to "examples of national regimentation we have examined," previously described as delegations of legislative and judicial functions to the executive arm of the federal government.

Strikes at Burocracies.

Declaring burocracy inevitably follows regimentation, Mr. Hoover continues:

"No one with a day's experience in government fails to realise that in all burocracies there are three implacable spirits — self-perpetuation, expansion, and an incessant demand for more power.

"These are human urges, and are supported by a conviction, sometimes justified, that they know what is good for us. Nevertheless, these spirits are potent and possess a dictatorial complex.

"They lead first to subversive influence in elections. They drive always to extension of powers by interpretation of authority, and by more and more legislation. Power is the father of impatience with human faults, and impatience breeds arrogance. In their mass action they become the veritable exponents of political tyranny."

Means Loss of Democracy.

Linking regimentation, Fascism, Socialism, and communism in a discussion of their effects on "representative government," Mr. Hoover declares:

"The whole fabric of popular election, of separation of executive, legislative and judicial powers, and of the separation of national and local responsibilities is integral in the American system. No one will doubt that pure Fascism and communism can exist only under the abolition of every vestige of democracy."

Amplifying an implied theory that there had been attempts to circumvent limitations of the federal government, Mr. Hoover stresses that the constitution provided "machinery for maintaining" the rights and liberties of Americans "in the changing scene of years.

Deny Changes Proposed.

"It will be denied 'that any one of them has ever been mentioned in the country for repeal or modification,'" he adds. "Nor has 't been proposed today that any new rights and securities should be added to those guaranteed by the constitution.

"Therein lies the intellectual dishonesty of the attack upon them. If we have discovered that any one of these liberties is not our individual endowment by the creator, the right thing is to propose a change in the constitution and allow us to examine it, not to extinguish it by indirection."

Asserting "free speech and free press have never lived long after free industry and commerce have been repressed," Mr. Hoover adds "managed opinion" is as much a part of "'managed economy'" as "'managed currency' and "'managed agriculture'."

Propaganda Is Assailed.

"Burocracy has already developed a vast ramifying propaganda subtly designed to control thought and opinion. The constant use of the radio, the platform, and the press by device of exposition, news and attack with one point of view becomes a powerful force in transforming the nation's mentality and in destroying its independent judgment.

"Burocracy's instinctive defense to criticism is to color the information and news with its objective rather than presenting a cold analysis of results. It goes further in resentment to criticism and attempts to meet it with denunciation.

"We witness this vituperative impatience from those who believe they are serving the common good. Critics are smeared by personal attack upon character or motives, not answered by sober arguments. . . All this is the back door to repression of free thought and opinion."

BOY DIES AFTER BROTHER'S BLOW IN FRIENDLY BOUT

A blow under the heart in a friendly boxing bout with his brother yesterday proved fatal to Harry Fuller, 17 years old, 1928 Fulton street. He died without regaining consciousness an hour later despite efforts of a fire department inhalator squad to revive him.

Harry and his brother, Turner, 20 years old, were in the home alone while their widowed mother, Mrs. Ruth Fuller, was at work. They staged a mock bout and Harry collapsed. Turner ran to neighbors, who summoned a physician and the fire department. The physician said the blow had brought on a fatal heart attack. An inquest will be held this morning. Turner was released after questioning by the Warren avenue police.

JAMES P. WARBURG ANSWERS PRESIDENT ON LOST LIBERTIES

New York, Sept. 10.—[Special.]—James Paul Warburg, 38, vice-chairman of the board of the Bank of Manhattan company, has written another book, "It's Up to Us." It is published today by Alfred A. Knopf.

The book is broadside against the New Deal.

The banker-author explains he is opposed to it "not because it seeks to improve the pattern of our lives, but because it seeks to accomplish this end in blind disregard of the realities of human nature and without sufficient understanding of what the system is that is to be improved."

JAMES P. WARBURG.

Mr. Warburg answers President Roosevelt's question, "What liberties have you lost?" at length.

"I think we should say that we have lost quite a little of our liberty," he concluded, "quite a few of our constitutional rights and privileges for the time being. We should say that this would not particularly worry us—though perhaps it ought to —if we felt certain that we should get them back once the emergency is declared over."

PRESIDENT NOW UMPIRES FOR BATTLES OF NRA

Johnson vs. Richberg Is Bout for Day.

BY CHESLY MANLY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hyde Park, N. Y., Sept. 10.—[Special.]—The future of the NRA and the official career of Hugh S. Johnson, its obstreperous administrator, came to a showdown tonight. Johnson went into a conference with President Roosevelt at the summer White House.

Johnson arrived at 6:30 p.m. on an army amphibian, accompanied by Frances Robinson, his $6,000 a year administrative assistant, and went directly to the Roosevelt home from the landing at the Poughkeepsie yacht club. "Robbie" did not go to the summer White House but went instead to the nearby country estate of George Buckley, deputy NRA administrator and former newspaper publisher.

Problems Before President.

Two separate issues confronted the President and his recovery administrator—the permanent reorganization of the NRA, with additional legislation by the next congress, and a temporary administrative reorganization. The latter question involves the future of Johnson's career, for he is under bitter fire from Secretary of Labor Perkins, Donald R. Richberg, director of the National Emergency council, and other radicals of the New Deal.

At Johnson's last meeting with the President he stormed out of the White House, refusing to have anything to do with the Perkins-Richberg plan of reorganization. Mr. Roosevelt had to make overtures of a nursery type to keep him from resigning on the spot. Johnson finally succumbed to the presidential blandishments. He went away on a vacation to "think it over." Richberg and Perkins wanted to put the affairs of the NRA under a board, the members of which were to be chosen from quarters outside of the New Deal, but Johnson insisted that any board would have to come from the ranks of his subordinates and still be subservient to him.

Deadlock Over Powers.

This is the deadlock which the President now has to resolve, whether it means conciliation and a compromise or a complete victory for one of the battling factions.

The administrative changes are to be made within the next few days, the President has indicated. There remains, however, the question of legislation for the permanent NRA setup. This, it is believed, will necessitate eliminating many of the more oppressive features of the so-called recovery organization and the consolidation of many of the codes, which have levied $100,000,000 on the nation's industry for the salaries and expenses of the administrative authorities.

May Drop Price Fixing.

The permanent legislation will maintain the ban on child labor and preserve minimum wages and hours of work, the President has declared, but such matters as price fixing and price posting are expected to be eliminated because of their colossal failure to accomplish anything in the nature of recovery. The principle of collective bargaining is also to be preserved under the President's plan, but there will be changes in the interpretations of section 7A of the recovery act. If the theories of Richberg and Perkins prevail, these changes will represent a further swing to the left, for their idea is to "put teeth" in the labor clause.

To See Steel Chief.

The President's program for tomorrow includes conferences with Gov. Joseph B. Ely of Massachusetts, Postmaster General James A. Farley, who is also chairman of the New York state and national Democratic committees; Myron Taylor, chairman of the United States Steel corporation, and J. C. Penney, chain store operator. The President sent out word that there was absolutely no political significance in the call of Gov. Ely, who made the eloquent nomination of Alfred E. Smith at the 1932 convention in Chicago.

TRIBUNE TELEPHONES SWAMPED BY CALLS ON MAINE ELECTION

Unprecedented interest in the Maine elections yesterday was evinced by Chicagoans in the thousands of telephone calls which swamped THE TRIBUNE'S switchboard during the night. The public interest in the election apparently was due to the fact that it was the first actual test of the New Deal at the polls. Telephone operators at the newspaper's switchboard said the volume of calls was comparable to that after a general election.

H. L. HOPKINS' BROTHER RUNS AS REPUBLICAN

Washington, D. C.—Sept. 10.—(AP)—Harry L. Hopkins, emergency relief administrator and a Democrat, had little news at his press conference today except:

"That Sonuvagun of a brother of mine is running for coroner on the Republican ticket in Tacoma, Wash."

"Can you tie that?" he added. "My father was a good Bryan Democrat in Iowa. He ran for congress time after time."

The brother's name is Dr. Lewis A. Hopkins. And as for his running for coroner on a Republican ticket, said Hopkins: "Well, I thought that party died two years ago and didn't need a coroner."

GARNER GIVEN FERGUSON JOB ON COMMITTEE

Galveston, Tex., Sept. 10.—(AP)—Former Gov. James E. Ferguson resigned today as national Democratic committeemen from Texas.

The state Democratic executive committee immediately adopted a motion notifying Vice President John N. Garner of his election to the committeemanship. Garner has said he could not refuse the honor.

Election of Garner as national committeeman set a precedent in American politics. No other vice president has held such a position.

RULE BY MINORITY IS BEST, HITLER TELLS GERMANS

Nazi Rally Closes Amid Scenes of Tumult.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

NUREMBERG, Germany, Sept. 10.—"Governments run by majorities always fail. Only rule by minority spells happiness."

This was the essence of Chancellor Adolf Hitler's farewell speech at the close of the annual Nazi party convention tonight.

"The best racial forces always are gathered in the minority," he cried. "In Germany the best forces clamored for power. When we finally attained it, Germany gladly placed itself under the orders of this minority. Majorities never have ruled with success."

Calls Germany Happy Nation.

The dictator told thousands of cheering Nazis that Germany today is a happy nation because it is "firmly entrenched in our conception of world philosophy" and because it "sees that the embodiment of its own aspirations and ego holds power now."

He warned that elements which are not truly Nazi will be cast from the party.

"It is possible to win over 40 million, 50 million, or 60 million people, but the true fighters can only be a few," Hitler continued. "They must be the apostles of our cause. Youth supports us. It lives in the proud swastika of Germany. In its ranks we will find worthy successors to our veteran fighters.

"The nation understands that we shall give preference to our best sons and our best leaders. It understands we will not have the majority which lacks knowledge, inspiration and ability. The party will be the state for all time. It will educate its own political apostles and will be a great school in the art of leading the masses. We must be hard as steel, yet flexible."

The convention was officially closed by Rudolf Hess, deputy party leader, with these words:

"The party is Hitler—Hitler is Germany—Hitler siegheil!"

Thousands Cheer Hitler.

At this point the wave of adulation that has swirled around Hitler for seven days reached its crest. Thousands shrieked, "Heil Hitler!" until their voices cracked. Cheering Storm Troopers swept down the broad avenues of this medieval town arm and arm. Girls clung to their sleeves. The milling throngs stopped all traffic.

Earlier in the day the smoke of battle hung over Zeppelin field while 6,000 men of the reichswehr's artillery, infantry, cavalry, signal, engineer and motorcycle corps engaged in a sham battle for Hitler, their new commander in chief.

The military display was a perfect object lesson on what a professional soldier must know for the audience of 200,000 political soldiers, composed of Storm Troopers and the Schutzstaffel, the dictator's bodyguard. The spectacle thrilled the political soldiers.

Old Soldiers Marvel.

The old soldiers put their heads together and marveled.

"Just think how everything has changed since 1918," they said.

To them the details were the object of admiration. The motorization of all units, short wave radio and telephone sets, new machine guns, small armored cars, the stub nosed cars of the signal corps, and the motorcycles, which swished around the battlefield, impressed the veterans. The speed with which the engineer and signal corps operated impressed them still more.

Only the infantry, cavalry, and naval detachments appeared the same as in the days of the kaiser. They, too, were greeted with enthusiasm.

This was the first time the reichswehr and navy had staged a military spectacle for Der Fuehrer. Successor to kings and emperors and a general field marshal, the onetime corporal took over his military command as if born to the colors. A delegation representing the regiment in which he served during the world war came to Nuremberg with the regiment's flags to honor him.

Units Maneuver Separately.

During the display the units maneuvered separately. The Storm Troopers followed the exercises closely. It was interesting to note that the number of Storm Troopers, Schutz Staffel men, and other uniformed political soldiers who witnessed the maneuvers—which were shown twice today—was close to 200,000 men. Germany's entire military force numbers only 115,000 men officially. This figure includes the navy.

The 6,000 reichswehr soldiers made it their business to show the others the vim and vigor with which they engage in battle.

When the retreat was finally sounded the reichswehr was reviewed by Hitler.

Observers estimate the cost of this week's convention at close to $8,000,000. The Nazis assert the figure is lower, since a great number of services were rendered free of charge—"out of enthusiasm for the cause."

$8,000,000 Convention.

A great part of the cost was shouldered by Nazi party members. Even the unemployed had to make a special donation. The minimum was 20 cents. All other members paid proportionately, according to their income.

The Nazi estimate that 4,000,000 members of the party have contributed about $6,000,000 for the convention fund. Storm Troopers, Hitler Youth, and Nazi womanhood also donated. Nonmembers of the party contributed out of "their appreciation of the services of the party which united the German nation."

NAZIS BAR PATRONS FROM STORES OWNED BY AMERICAN FIRM

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

NUREMBERG, Sept. 10.—The F. W. Woolworth company stores were picketed in Nuremberg today with distinctly nasty tempered youths trying to haul customers out of the stores and threatening them.

"Americans boycott us. No decent German has a right to enter a shop with American ties," they cried.

All Jewish stores remaining in Nuremberg were picketed by Nazis in uniform, standing in the doors, and trying to prevent customers from entering.

Nazi Churchmen Deprive Two Bishops of Powers

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Sept. 10.—A fresh attack on recalcitrant state churches was launched today by the Nazi ecclesiastical ministry of the Evangelical church when the bishops of Wuerttemberg and Hanover were deprived of their administrative powers. Close to 1,000 pastors have hitherto been disciplined, Dr. Koch, opposition church leader, declared.

WOMAN SLUGGED AND ROBBED.

WORLD'S MOST COSTLY METAL SHOWN IN OHIO

Protactinium Seen by Scientists.

Cleveland, Sept. 10.—(AP)—The first isolation of protactinium, said to be the world's rarest metal, worth $1,000,000 an ounce, was announced to the American Chemical society today. The new metal is silvery, radioactive, and its rays are more penetrating than those of radium.

One-tenth of a gram of protactinium, all there is to date, was brought here from the University of Chicago on a fine thread of tungsten one inch long.

Isolated at Chicago.

It was isolated at Chicago on Labor day last week, after years of work by Assistant Chemistry Prof. A. V. Brosse. Protactinium is No. 91 in the list of 92 known chemical elements. Its atoms, as indicated by the number, are heavier than anything else, except element 92, which is uranium.

Other features of the day were:

A prediction that arc lights will burn more brightly than the sun, following the first accurate measurement and proof that the carbon arc temperature is 3564 degrees above zero, Fahrenheit. The forecast was made by N. K. Chaney, V. C. Hamister, and S. W. Glass, of the National Carbon company.

Trace Cause of Convulsions.

The cause of convulsions was traced to a peculiar acid which the body makes out of sugar. This discovery was due to a study of kojic acid made by Theodore E. Friedmann of the University of Chicago. The acid, like glucose, was mostly carbon, except that the acid contained a little less water and a slight extra touch of oxygen. This kojic acid tried on dogs in large doses, acted like overdoses of insulin in causing violent convulsions. The kojic acid which acts directly on the nervous system, and also affects respiration, is manufactured in the laboratory directly out of glucose.

OAK PARK WIFE HANGS SELF.

500 STRIKE AGAINST TEACHER; WORKED IN STEEL WALKOUT

Gillespie, Ill., Sept. 10.—(AP)—High school students and adults joined in a strike today, demanding the discharge of one of the teachers, who, it was charged, had acted as a strikebreaker in Alton at the plant of the Laclede Steel company during the summer.

The charges were considered at a massmeeting held last night which was attended by many of the students and a number of the Progressive Coal Miners of America. It was then determined to call the strike.

This morning about 500 gathered and marched to the high school grounds. Acting as pickets, they prevented other students from entering the building. Minor disorder was reported.

U. S. INDICTS 3 MORE AS AIDS OF DILLINGER GANG

Three persons were named yesterday in indictments returned by the federal grand jury before Judge John P. Barnes on charges of conspiracy to harbor and conceal Homer Van Meter, Dillinger lieutenant.

The three are William Francis Finerty, his wife Ella, and Marie Conforti, Van Meter's sweetheart. They will be arraigned before Judge Barnes at 10 a. m.

The indictment charges the three with harboring Van Meter in the Finnerty home at 492 Freeland street, Calumet City, from June 13 to July 22. Assistant United States Attorney Harry N. Connaughton is in charge of prosecution of the case.

Louis Piquett, Dillinger attorney, and three others were indicted last week on charges of harboring both Dillinger and Van Meter.

BY JOSEPH ATOR.

Two Chicago gunmen serving sentences for robbery in the Stateville penitentiary near Joliet were shot to death in an unsuccessful escape plot yesterday. Frank Souder, serving a life sentence for the kidnaping of James Hackett, Blue Island gambler, was wounded, as was a prison guard.

WARDEN WHIPP.

The slain men were Frank Belanger, 28 years old, who entered the prison on Oct. 2, 1931, to serve a term of one to twenty years for robbery, and Fred R. Barry, who started serving a one year to life sentence for the same offense on March 14, 1931.

Four convicts were involved in the escape plot. The only one who escaped the bullets of a party of twenty guards, led into the prison yard by Warden Frank D. Whipp, was Joseph Donahue.

Donahue, sentenced from Peoria for robbery, was the ringleader of the conspiracy, Warden Whipp said later.

Balked by a Railroader.

The convict escape plan involved a scheme often tried but seldom successful in previous prison breaks—the attempted seizure of a locomotive in an attempt to crash through a gate in a prison wall. Its failure yesterday was due to the courage of a veteran railroader, George Tatro of Joliet, 65 years old and a grandfather.

Tatro had driven an Elgin, Joliet and Eastern railroad switch engine past the steel gate in the prison yard and had placed a number of freight cars beside the prison shops. As he was backing out of the yard, the four convicts made their break. It was about 11:30 a. m., and several hundred inmates were working or playing handball about the yard.

The four conspirators sidled toward the deadline established near the south gate, toward which Tatro was running his locomotive. As they passed it, they broke into a run. Tatro divined their purpose. He grabbed an iron slice bar.

Engineer Cripples Convict.

Donahue, leader of the gang, swung up on the locomotive step. Tatro brought the bar down on his arm. Donahue fell back, crippled for the moment. The others attempted to invade the engine cab, and Tatro drove them off, but not before his ribs had been severely pommeled.

Donahue realized then, apparently, that the plot had failed. He raised his arms in surrender. Souder and the other two carried on, however.

They seized William Pentosky, a veteran guard, and hustled him toward the clothing room where are stored the prison made suits with which discharged convicts are outfitted. Their only weapon was a knife, made secretly in one of the prison shops.

Menaces Guard with Knife.

Barry held the knife at Pentosky's back. He demanded that the guard unlock the room and give him and his companions civilian clothing. Pentosky replied that he did not have the key. Then, through a partly completed tunnel passageway, the three convicts hustled the guard toward the baseball diamond at the north end of the prison yard.

Meanwhile an alarm had been sounded in Warden Whipp's office and he and Assistant Warden Walter Niersthelmer had led a force of armed guards into the yard.

As they passed one of the interior towers in the prison yard the bullets from the rifle of a guard in the tower began to spatter about the three convicts and their hostage. Barry slashed Pentosky's back with the knife.

"Tell him to throw his gun down," he demanded.

Pentosky Shows His Mettle.

Pentosky is not a heroic figure. He is past 60 and comfortably fat. He turned and yelled to the tower guard.

"Give them hell," he shouted.

Barry slashed his back again and again with the knife. Then the bullets of Warden Whipp's force of guards struck the convict. He collapsed, mortally wounded. Belanger fell near him also dying. Slugs in the leg and shoulder stopped Souder. A rifle bullet pierced Pentosky's arm.

None of the other convicts, of whom some 200 were grouped about the baseball field, attempted to join in the disturbance. They were all locked in their cells, but were marched to the mess hall last evening for their regular supper.

Belanger Dies on Field.

Belanger died on the baseball diamond. Barry died five minutes after he had been placed on an operating table in the prison hospital.

Souder will recover from his wounds, the prison physicians reported. Pentosky was taken to St. Joseph's hospital in Joliet.

"I knew the convicts were going to finish me if they could," explained the guard from his hospital bed last evening, "so I wasn't very easy to scare."

From beginning to end the whole affair occupied less than ten minutes. Warden Whipp congratulated his guards and Engineer Tatro, saying: "Their quick action and bravery prevented a very serious situation."

Engineer Tatro Described.

Engineer Tatro refused to be interviewed or photographed when he was found at his home in Joliet, but a son-in-law gave a brief character sketch of him.

"Last week," said the younger man, "three young fellows ran into his car when he was parked at the curb and then stepped out and started to get tough with him. He smacked one of them on the jaw and started after another one. The third one ran. We all step lively when the old gentleman speaks."

Gov. Horner, who was in Chicago on business yesterday, went to Joliet to receive a first hand account of the break from Warden Whipp. He left for Springfield after congratulating the warden on the manner in which the affair had been handled.

BUILDING CONTRACTOR KILLED.

URGE THAT DAY OF CONSTITUTION BE NONPARTISAN

Celebration Is Indorsed by Both Parties.

BY PARKE BROWN.

Nonpartisanship in the observance of Constitution day at the Fair next Monday was urged yesterday from both Democratic and Republican sources.

Mayor Kelly started it in the morning with a talk before the Democratic county committee at the Hotel Morrison. He said the fact that the Republican county committee is selling the tickets for the occasion—"$6 worth for $1."—could not be made a basis for any contention that the celebration is Republican exclusively.

"It is no more a Republican day than Christmas day is a Republican day," said the mayor. "The official proclamations here were issued by a Democratic governor and a Democratic mayor. It should be as nonpartisan as the Fourth of July."

Miner Says He's Delighted.

Julius H. Miner, general manager for the Chicago Constitution day committee, said later that he was delighted with Mayor Kelly's statement.

"It has been our purpose from the beginning," he said, "to hold strictly to nonpartisan lines. Political demonstrations would injure a purely patriotic celebration.

"I also hope that, in keeping with his proclamation and in accord with what he said today, Mayor Kelly will see to it that the schools are open only half a day next Monday. It is the opening day of the city's public schools and all that is necessary is for the pupils to enroll, be assigned to their rooms and receive lists of the text books they will need.

Economical Way to See Fair.

"I have heard of many heads of families who want to take advantage of the opportunity to have their children see many of the Fair concessions from which they have been kept heretofore by the expense involved. Now a family of five can go to the Fair and see twenty-two concessions for a $5 bill. Closing the schools at noon would be of material aid."

Mr. Miner also said that the committee in charge of the program hopes to start the evening program with an amplifier broadcast of the speeches delivered at the big national celebration of Constitution day at Philadelphia.

The eastern program in historic Carpenters' hall opens at 7:30 p. m. Chicago time, and it may be possible to reproduce some of the important speeches there before James A. Reed of Missouri, the principal speaker here, is called upon.

Young Men's Rally Planned.

Republican county headquarters, through Judge Edward B. Casey and John T. Dempsey, announced that acceptances for the Young Men's Republican organization convention at the Hotel Sherman next Sunday are coming in so rapidly from all parts of the state that reservations for 1,000 delegates have been made.

George Healy, chairman of the reception committee, also announced that there will be an old fashioned torchlight parade to the Wigwam in the Lincoln exhibit at the Fair as a feature of the convention.

Mayor Kelly Entertains 2 Prominent Democrats

Mayor Kelly was host to two prominent out of town visitors yesterday. One is Mayor Frank Hague of Jersey City, N. J., who is a house guest of the Chicago mayor while visiting the World's Fair. Another is James P. Guffey, Democratic senatorial candidate for Pennsylvania.

VOTE TO CONDUCT TAG DAY WITHOUT COUNCIL PERMIT

Ignoring a warning that their action "will sound the death knell for all tag days," the executive board of the Chicago Federation Charities yesterday voted to hold a tag day next Thursday without a council permit.

The decision came after two peace moves had failed to compose the differences between the federated agencies and the Chicago Associated charities. Thirty-three charity agencies recently withdrew from the federated group and organized the associated group, leaving 17 agencies in the old organization. The city council authorized a tag day for the associated group for Sept. 17, but the older organization withdrew from participation and voted to hold a tag day Sept. 13.

Ald. William A. Rowan [10th], chairman of the city council tag day committee, met with representatives of both groups yesterday, and said it was too late for the council to act on the permit application for Thursday's tag day. He issued his "death knell" warning after federated representatives announced they intended to hold a tag day without a permit.

Later in the day the federated group's executive board decided unanimously to go ahead, despite conciliatory efforts of Capt. R. Patrick O'Reilly, president of the council of official tag day organizations. The board also appointed a committee to investigate the feasibility of bringing mandamus proceedings to force the council to issue a permit.

Identify Suspect as Robber Who Got Teacher's $1,300

Sam Gerdy, 24 years old, 6245 South Sangamon street, was identified yesterday as one of two gunmen who robbed Miss Edna B. Hotchkiss, 9763 Beverly avenue, a school teacher, of $1,352 last week. Gerdy was arrested on suspicion at 63d street and Wentworth avenue by Policemen Lawrence Redelan and Joseph Burke of the Englewood station. Miss Hotchkiss, an art teacher at the Morgan Park High school, had cashed her salary check at the First National Bank of Englewood.

Weds in Waukegan

Miss Harrie Maxine Weaver, 20 years old, queen of the cherry festival in Michigan in 1931, was married Saturday night to George W. Bolling II., 35 years old, in a double ceremony in Waukegan, it was learned yesterday. Both are from Traverse City, Mich. Married at the same time by Justice of the Peace Henry F. Wallenwein in his home were Frank C. Wolff, 32 years old, and Ruth Geraldine Marshall of Chicago.

225 COOK COUNTY SCHOOLS OUTSIDE CHICAGO REOPEN

Nearly all of the schools in Cook county outside Chicago were open yesterday as more than 70,000 pupils entered 226 rural and suburban institutions. An estimated 255,000 students began classes last week in parochial, rural, and suburban schools. The Chicago public schools, expecting 480,000 students, will open on Sept. 17.

Otto F. Aken, county superintendent of schools, reported that 35,000 pupils entered rural schools under his supervision yesterday. Oak Park led suburban enrollment with 4,200 in the high schools and 6,506 in the elementary schools, an increase of 400 over last year. District 99 of Cicero reported 6,000 pupils, and 5,650 enrolled in the 11 Berwyn schools. In the Riverside-Brookfield area there were 935 in the high school and 1,350 in the grade schools.

Evanston estimated an enrollment of 10,000 in districts 75 and 76 and the Evanston Township High school.

BRITISH LETTERS TELL OF ARMS IN STATECRAFT

Would Equip Chinese Through the U. S.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 10.—(AP)—Senate investigators into high pressure munitions sales methods today uncovered a frank proposal that the United States government buy war material from an English concern—described as a semi-official agency—to help arm the Chinese against Japan.

Along with this went testimony—afterwards denied—that state department officials had advised the American Armaments Corporation of New York "to obtain an injunction against the government" to overcome the presidential embargo on arms shipments to Bolivia and Paraguay.

Senators were told also that Representative Britten [Rep., Chicago] accompanied representatives of the American Armaments corporation to the state department in mid-June to seek approval of an arms shipment to Bolivia, a sale outside of the presidential ban.

C. W. Webster, Latin-American distributor for the Curtiss-Wright Export corporation, disclosed a Peruvian incident in a letter to his concern in 1927. Webster said Peru bought English planes at a price $10,000 or more above those of the American company. This was his comment:

"It sounds like highway robbery to me and some one collected at least $100,000 on the contract as 'commission.'"

"Fifty Grand" Mentioned.

Still further talk of bribery in connection with munitions sales in South America was heard. At one point testimony was presented that "fifty grand"—$50,000—was to be paid to a cabinet adviser close to the president of Brazil in 1933 for his assistance in putting across a munitions contract for the American Armaments corporation. That story was told by A. J. Miranda Jr., then a vice president of the American Armaments corporation.

The suggestion that the American government might buy some weapons to help arm the Chinese in their struggles against Japan was described as having been made by John Ball, director of the Soley Armament company, Ltd., of London.

Ball wrote to the American Armament corporation about the huge stock of munitions which Soley had obtained through the British government.

Dreams, Bullets, Far East.

"In spite of all the dreams of the idealists, who imagine that homo sapiens [thinking man] is filled with honor, justice, love, and self sacrifice," Ball wrote in March, 1934, "Japan is going to take a still larger slice of China, and comparatively shortly, while the getting is good.

"To place herself in a favorable position, Japan must either buy over the soviet or fight them—and Japan will do one or the other before attending to some more of China.

"Such a move on Japan's part would seriously affect the United States interests in China, and we think that the United States would under the above circumstances support the Chinese, supply them with arms, etc."

"In such an eventuality, something might be done with the big stocks of rifles here, and we think it might be very advisable for you to approach the United States department for foreign affairs [the state department], and war department and hand them a list of what stocks there are over here, informing the departments at the same time that you are the sole representative for the United States of America."

"I took no action whatever in the matter," Miranda declared from the witness stand.

Miranda Talks of Injunction.

Miranda, however, was staunch in his declaration that state department officials had advised him "to hire the best lawyer" available to get an injunction against the United States government if it tried to interfere with arms shipments to Bolivia.

A letter from him to his Bolivian agent, shortly after the embargo was decreed this year, said he had been told at the United States state department to "try to ship your stuff, and if the government's agencies [presumably the customs] block your way hire the best lawyer available to try to get an injunction against the government."

"That is what you were told at the state department?" asked Senator Homer T. Bone [Dem., Wash.].

"Yes, sir," quietly answered Miranda.

Green Gives His Version.

Joseph C. Green, United States state department official in charge of exports to South America, was waiting in the rear of the room. As a witness Green explained the state department had told munitions concerns they might hire counsel to interpret the embargo, but that "we didn't advise any one to get an injunction against the government."

Miranda said his firm did hire attorneys "but got no injunctions" and that the embargo "has cost us $1,600,000."

Briton and Palm Oil.

The gigantic volume of the British surplus of war material was revealed in a letter to Miranda from Ball which said the value of the munitions was about $30,000,000.

Ball, in his communication to Miranda, his American agent, said frankly that "grease," otherwise bribery, was accompaniment of armament sales in South America, and "we even went so far as to include all arms deals."

"We fully understand," Ball wrote in 1934, "that arms deals are not usually done without some officials getting 'greased,' but if any palm oil is required it has to be added to the price, and as our prices are at least 50 per cent less than factory prices for the same arms they will stand a lot of 'grease' and still be cheaper than the manufacturers' prices."

Miranda said the responsibility was evenly divided between South Americans and arms sellers as to the use of "palm oil."

Miranda said Vickers, Ltd., had opposed his company in South America and had employed women to win contracts.

At one point a letter was read in which Miranda said he knew Amelia Earhart, Clarence Chamberlin, and many other famous aviators and aviation officials and found the acquaintance "valuable." Miranda explained their o. k. of a plane helped to sell it.

CUBAN TROOPS ARREST 25 REDS AS PLOTTERS AGAINST U. S. ENVOY

HAVANA, Sept. 10.—(AP)—Soldiers tonight arrested 25 reputed communists who, they charged, had been observing too closely the movements of United States Ambassador Jefferson Caffery. The men were placed in jail at Marianao, town on the outskirts of Havana.

It was recalled here that an attempt was made on the ambassador's life several months ago, in which one soldier stationed at his home was killed. Since then he has been guarded by police and soldiers.

A few weeks ago army officials revealed that a group of communists, who, they said, were paying too much attention to Mr. Caffery's movements were under surveillance.

Informed of the arrests, the ambassador said "I am very much surprised. I knew nothing of it."

Absolute Freedom of World Press Vital, Briton Declares

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 10. —The absolute necessity of freedom of the world press was emphasized today by Henry J. Wittick in his presidential address at the annual conference of the Institute of Journalists, which is in session at Blackpool.

He told his audience that one of the gravest aspects confronting newspaper men today was the extent in which the freedom of the press is being encroached upon, constituting a challenge which the press would not shirk.

Praises Foreign Correspondents.

"The press of the world must be entirely free," Wittick declared. "Official versions handed out to a muzzled press become a deep evil in its effects. The victims are left in a pitiable spectacle because those in whom freedom of conscience has been implanted are left in a condition worse than that of a slave in chains."

The president paid a glowing tribute to foreign correspondents of newspapers who handled foreign news during critical times.

"Some newspapers have been banned because of their impartial reporting and outspoken comment," he said. "This will not and has not prevented the correspondent from doing his duty, often at great personal risk. Correspondents have indeed upheld the great traditions of the press under circumstances of acute distress. We now pay our homage to them."

Calls Legal Threats "Contemptible."

The speaker went on to express gratification at the fact that newspapers are giving close attention to the increasing tendency to issue legal threats against newspapers on the flimsiest and most vexatious pretexts.

"Adventures of this kind must be thwarted, and a firm stand taken by all newspapers to end this contemptible practice," he asserted.

BRITTEN EXPLAINS AID TO U. S. ARMS PLANT IN BOLIVIAN CONTRACT

Commenting on dispatches from Washington yesterday that he had intervened with the state department for approval of a munitions shipment to Bolivia, despite the presidential ban, Congressman Fred A. Britten declared that he had done so to prevent an injustice to an American concern.

He asserted that, shortly after the embargo edict in May, he was approached by Attorney Edwin W. Sims of Chicago, former United States district attorney, and for 27 years a director of the American Armaments corporation. Sims, he related, explained that the concern had made five contracts with Bolivia for small arms and ammunition.

The contracts were made in good faith, with no idea that an embargo would be declared, Sims assured him, and most of them were nearly completed. If shipment were not allowed, he declared, the firm would suffer heavy losses.

Britten said he took Sims to the state department where the latter explained his position and eventually was told that he might carry out the first three of the five contracts.

HARRINGTON SITS IN COURT AGAIN; HURT ON JULY 19

Judge Cornelius J. Harrington of the Circuit court returned to the Criminal court bench yesterday after spending nearly two months in bed recovering from injuries incurred in a diving accident on July 19 at Long beach, Michigan City, Ind. Six cervical vertebrae were injured when Judge Harrington struck a sandbar. He has been kept in a brace, which was removed three days ago, and is receiving spinal treatments. Except for a slight headache, Judge Harrington said he felt able to proceed with his duties.

At the conclusion of the luncheon Mr. Dawes expressed the appreciation of the Fair for the manner in which the industries represented by the business leaders had coöperated in furnishing Fair visitors with educational and entertaining exhibits. He particularly thanked the guest of honor for the part taken by the electrical industry.

Seek Ideas for San Diego Fair.

The important records established by A Century of Progress, both as to wonders created and the excellence of its business management, were recognized from another source yesterday. The executive board of the California-Pacific exposition, opening in San Diego May 29, 1935, made arrangements yesterday to confer with Fair officials to obtain ideas for their exposition.

The officials, who will arrive this week, are J. David Larson, president; Waldo Tupper, a director, and William Earle, chief of concessions. The California officials have approached every major exhibitor at the Chicago Fair. No exhibiting company has announced its intentions, but the understanding is that many of them will be present at next year's exposition in California. However, no exhibit will be removed or altered until this Fair closes Nov. 1.

After early crowds yesterday indicated that the day's total attendance would be greater than the comparable day of the 1933 Exposition, showers checked the flow of visitors, and at midnight the turnstiles had recorded an attendance of 73,282. Sunday's attendance exceeded the comparable Sunday in 1933 by 17,534.

Slaying of Alleged Auto Thief Is Left a Mystery

A coroner's jury yesterday returned a routine verdict of murder by person or persons unknown in the case of Michael Lamparelli, who was found shot to death in an automobile early in the day near the Lincolnshire Country club east of Steger. Lamparelli was to have been arraigned tomorrow before Police Magistrate August Zeller of Chicago Heights on a charge of automobile theft. Deputy Coroner S. F. Vyzral expressed the belief that Lamparelli had been shot by accomplices to seal his lips.

SOLICITORS FACE A LICENSE LAW IN LAKE FOREST

Lake Forest has become suspicious of magazine salesmen who say they are working their way through school. Chief of Police Frank Tiffany appeared before the city council last night and declared that many of the "salesmen" posed as such only for the purpose of looting homes when they found the families absent.

He recommended that all such solicitors be licensed and required to post a cash bond. The council agreed with him, and directed City Attorney Calvin Trowbridge to prepare an ordinance to this effect.

There will be no charge for the license, but applicants will be fingerprinted. Solicitation without a license will be a misdemeanor.

EX-PROSECUTOR GETS 1-10 YEARS IN $900 FRAUD

CRIMINAL COURT.

Joseph Marek, burglary, sentenced to one year to life in the penitentiary; Lawrence Mathewesski, Peter Oelepka, and Stephan Siezler, burglary, each one year to life in the penitentiary; Thomas Griser, robbery, one year to life in the penitentiary; Robert West, robbery, one year to life in the penitentiary, by Judge Harry B. Miller.

Walter Hein, larceny, sentenced one to ten years in the penitentiary by Judge Donald S. McKinlay.

Bernard Mahoney, veteran west side lawyer who once was an assistant state's attorney, was sentenced to one to ten years in the penitentiary yesterday by Judge Grover C. Niemeyer in the Criminal court after conviction on a charge of embezzlement.

Mahoney, who is 62 years old, was accused by Miss Kate Henry of Framington, Mass., a former client, of appropriating a $900 judgment which he was retained to collect from a Mrs. D. J. Fordyce here. According to the evidence, Mahoney collected various amounts totaling the $900 and interest, and in November last year remitted only $50.

Mahoney in his defense attempted to have the indictment ruled out and the offense changed from a felony to a misdemeanor, which the court would not grant. The change to a misdemeanor would have canceled prosecution under the statute of limitations.

Pending an appeal, Mahoney's bond was raised from $1,000 to $5,000 and he was held in the county jail.

SEEK MRS. ZUKOR AS WITNESS FOR GEM THEFT TRIAL

Mrs. Adolph Zukor, wife of the Hollywood motion picture executive, was sought in every loop hotel and railroad station yesterday by detectives who wished to serve her with notice to attend the trial of two men and two women for the theft of $65,200 in jewels from her suite in the Blackstone hotel last June 14. The trial has been set for Sept. 28.

An attorney representing Mrs. Zukor, who refused to give his name, telephoned Chief of Detectives John L. Sullivan and asked that the jewels held as evidence by the police be returned to his client. Believing that if this were done Mrs. Zukor might not remain here as a witness, Chief Sullivan refused. Mrs. Zukor, the attorney said, was in town.

Inquiry at all leading hotels failed to show she was registered and detectives waited without success at all railroad stations. Chief Sullivan believes Mrs. Zukor may have left either by automobile or by boarding a train at an outlying station.

Those who will be tried are James Weinberg, his wife, Eula; Robert Vestal, and his wife, Helen. The jewels were found in a flat at 1710 North La Salle street.

World's Fair Notes

Teams headed by Capt. Jack Morrison, chief of the press division of the publicity department, and Capt. Jack Reilly of the events division clashed yesterday in a six inning battle for the softball title of A Century of Progress. E. Ross Bartley was umpire. The game was won by Morrison's team when Bill Dudley made a last inning home run, making the score 7 to 5.

More than 1,200 visitors to the Fair arrived in special trains and extra sections of regular trains on the Michigan Central yesterday.

More than 125 photographs already have been entered in the contest sponsored by the Sky Ride in coöperation with the Hall of Photography for the most beautiful picture taken from the tower observation platform. The contest closes Sept. 12.

The electric locomotive installed by the Milwaukee road under the dome of the Travel and Transport building has attracted over 2,121,000 visitors to date. This electric giant is ordinarily operated in the Cascade mountains of Washington.

Mrs. Nancy A. Fuller, 91 years old, of Wilmington, Ill., visited the Fair yesterday. She is one the oldest guests of A Century of Progress this summer.

Stars from villages and concessions will be present tonight when the electricians of the Fair hold their second annual party in the Swiss Village.

CITY OPENS WEEK OF HOMECOMING WITH 2 PARADES

All through the city yesterday the homecoming spirit was apparent as neighborhood communities began their celebrations. Two parades and contests for children were held on the south side. Welcome signs in the loop and in department stores greeted the crowds of former Chicagoans returning to the city for the first annual homecoming celebration.

Several thousand people joined in the parade of the Brighton-McKinley community on the southwest side. Business leaders and a detachment of marines led the march which began at 34th street and Hoyne avenue and ended on Archer avenue near St. Louis avenue. Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, and members of athletic clubs were in the march. There were a dozen floats and several decorated trucks.

Before the parade began Mayor Kelley addressed the crowd.

"I was born in the Brighton district," he said, "and remember it when it was just prairie. I am proud of the way the district has flourished and of how it is coöperating in this homecoming week."

Beverly Hills Celebration.

More than 20,000 persons viewed a two mile parade in the ridge district of Beverly Hills and Washington Heights last night. It took the procession three hours to pass the reviewing stand at 105th street and Longwood drive, where Mayor Kelly, County Treasurer Thomas D. Nash, State Senator Edward Glackin, and Municipal Judge Gibson E. Gorman were guests of honor.

In the Woodlawn district a girls' and boys' pet contest and a girls' doll and baby buggy contest were held in the afternoon. Twenty-five girls and boys, all under 15 years of age, competed in the pet contest, parading west on 63d street from Woodlawn avenue to Cottage Grove avenue.

The winner in the girls' section was Harriet Rashig, 6 years old, of 6126 Ellis avenue. Harriet, a pretty little blonde, had both her dog and herself clad in Scotch plaid costumes. She was presented with a string of pearl beads furnished by a neighborhood jeweler.

22 Wheel Doll Buggies.

The winner among the boys was Fred P. McLouth, 4 years old, of 6123 Kimbark avenue, who entered his two bird dogs in the contest. He was given a $5 merchandise certificate for a neighborhood department store.

After the pet contest 22 little girls, all between the ages of 6 and 8, wheeled their dolls in baby buggies on 63d street from Dorchester avenue to Woodlawn avenue. The winner was Vilma Karr, 7 years old, of 6336 Evans avenue, who will receive a free photograph of herself from the Ray studios at 1035 East 63d street.

Crack drill teams of the Woodlawn post of the American Legion gave an exhibition at Woodlawn avenue and the midway last night.

Girls from the north side competed last night on the Midway boardwalk at the World's Fair in the first of three preliminary contests to pick "Miss Chicago." Tonight beauties from the west side will be chosen and tomorrow night south side girls will have their contest.

Indians Strut on State Street.

The north side winners were Irene Foy, Eunice Ruder, Ann Nielson, Ruth Hagstrom, Ruth Thorsen, Alice Pearson, Dorothy Schmidt, Louise Pocrass, Georgianne Sakish, and Virginia O'Dare. They will compete for the beauty title with girls chosen from other sections of the city when the homecoming festival culminates Sunday night at Soldiers' field in "The Drama of Chicago on Parade."

Two Indian braves in war regalia held the attention of loop crowds on State and Madison streets yesterday morning. The Indians—Lightning Shattering the Tree and Whirling Thunder—pitched their tepee on the corner. This was part of the homecoming celebration arranged by State street merchants.

Trafic policemen joined in the festival spirit, wearing white arm bands with the inscription "Welcome to Chicago-Homecoming Week—Sept. 9 to 16," signed by Mayor Kelly.

Among the events scheduled for tonight are parades in the Lincoln Park, Kenwood, Hyde Park, Oakland, and Irving Park districts.

BEG YOUR PARDON

On information supplied by the City News bureau it was incorrectly stated in THE TRIBUNE of Sept. 7 that the $21,000 estate of Andrew McEldowney was left to several relatives. The estate was left to Miss Margaret McEldowney, who is also named executrix of the estate.

SHIP'S OFFICERS SAY TRAGIC FIRE WAS INCENDIARY

Cite Earlier Suspicious Blaze.

the fire must have been started by some one. He only shrugged his shoulders when asked about discipline and remarked:

"The crew carried out all the orders given. They were capable."

Obviously, the officers, who had themselves shown heroism by remaining on the boat at the peril of their lives, hesitated to accuse any seaman of cowardice or rebellion against orders.

Acting Captain Warms was asked if he could explain why one lifeboat landed eighty seamen and only four passengers safely.

"I don't know anything about that," he said.

A thin, gray haired man, obviously shaken by the ordeal through which he had passed, his face drawn under its sea tan, Acting Captain Warms answered the questions put to him in short, unpolished terms. He gave an appearance of gruffness, but this impression was dispelled when his voice broke and tears came to his eyes as he spoke of the death of his chief, Capt. Robert D. Wilmott.

He based his opinion that the blaze was incendiary on two facts; First, because on Aug. 27, on a previous voyage to Havana, there was a suspicious blaze in the No. 5 hold; second, because reports to him indicated that the writing room locker, in which the fatal fire started, exploded. The flames, he explained further, acted "like gasoline or kerosene," and fire extinguishers had no effect on them.

Believes Fire Was Set.

"I think some one put something in that locker," he declared. "I think it [the fire] was set."

"Because you had a suspicious fire, you think this one was set?" he was asked.

"Yes, sir," he replied. "Either that or a cigaret might have been thrown into that locker."

So far as he knew, only ink and writing paper were stored in the locker. There was no gasoline stored in that part of the ship.

He ridiculed the repeatedly published report that lightning had struck the ship. There was a heavy rain, he said, but no lightning in the vicinity of the ship.

He said that he could not account for the rapid spread of the fire through the entire superstructure of the ship, but suggested the possibility that the luxurious carpets, the curtains, the highly polished floors and furniture in the public rooms and the de luxe staterooms might have proved unusually inflammable fuel for the flames. The ventilating system, which might have sucked the blaze through the vessel, was not in operation, he testified.

In connection with his belief that the fire was incendiary, he was questioned about labor trouble on the Morro Castle. He stated there had been none whatever, and that furthermore there had been no insubordination.

Tells of Passengers Drinking.

He hinted that drinking among the passengers played a part in the appalling loss of life. Many of the passengers, he declared, refused to leave their staterooms when the alarm of fire was given.

Capt. Warms denied that he had delayed ordering an S O S sent out after discovery that the fire was getting out of control. The blaze started a few minutes before 3 a. m., he testified, and an emergency stand-by call crackled over the liner's wireless at 3:15.

"At that time," he said, "at 3:15, that is, I thought we could hold the fire."

In Charge When Skipper Dies.

He took over command of the Morro Castle about 8 o'clock Friday night, Capt. Warms said. His voice broke as he told of the death shortly before from a heart attack, of his superior, Capt. Wilmott, whom he referred to as "an old pal of mine."

"It was getting pretty thick when I went on the bridge," he continued. "I put extra lookouts on duty."

Q.—Did you turn in at any time? A.—No, sir. I took a brief rest at 1:30 a. m., but did not turn in.

Q.—When did you hear of the fire? A.—At 2:30.

Q.—What did you do? A.—I sent Mr. Hackney to the library, where the fire was reported. It was Mr. Hackney who told me about the fire.

Q.—Did you look at the fire indicator? A.—Yes. It did not show anything until after I saw flames and smelled smoke.

Q.—When should the indicator operate? A.—At 160 degrees.

Q.—How did you know the fire was in the library? A.—Because the watchman told me.

Remains on Bridge.

Q.—Did you investigate yourself? A.—No, sir. I had to remain on the bridge.

Q.—Were extinguishers used? A.—Yes, but they were not helpful.

Q.—When did you sound the fire alarm? A.—A few minutes before 3 o'clock.

Q.—You sounded a general alarm? A.—Yes. I told the men to find tin pans and anything to make a noise.

Q.—Was there fire anywhere except in and around the library? A.—Not then.

Q.—Were all the fire screens and fire doors closed? A.—I don't know.

Q.—How did the passengers react? A.—Some wouldn't leave their rooms.

Q.—How did you account for that? A.—Some of them had been drinking. There had been a number of parties the evening before.

Q.—Did you have any direct reports of drinking? A.—Yes, I was told of a case of six girls who were all very drunk in one cabin.

Q.—Was there more drinking than usual on this trip. A.—I don't know, because I rarely mingle with the passengers. As for the girls who were reported to me drunk in their cabin, they had to be put to bed by stewardesses, but there is always drinking on a boat, so we don't think much about it. I suppose they were dead men in the engine room?" he was asked.

INQUIRY WITNESS

"No, sir," was the reply. "It was all like one big happy family."

Call Water Pressure Strong.

Questioned about reports that there was a lack of water pressure in the fire hoses, Capt. Warms made an emphatic denial of the charge.

"That's not true," he said. "All the hoses I saw on the A deck had plenty of pressure. That's the top deck. There must have been pressure on the lower decks unless the hoses were shut off."

"Were they shut off?"

"I don't think so."

At intervals in his testimony Capt. Warms consulted with an attorney for the Ward line, operators of the doomed vessel, who sat beside the witness chair.

The inquiry then turned upon the captain's failure to beach the boat when the fire occurred.

"If I had beached her, sir," he said, earnestly, "I doubt if one person would have been saved. Ships couldn't have reached us and we might have been stranded far from shore."

Tries to Save Captain's Body.

The witness again was near the breaking point as he told of descending to the captain's cabin in an endeavor to recover the body of Capt. Wilmott, which had been laid out there. He injured his hand and was forced to return to the bridge, he said. He was finally transferred to a coast guard cutter with other officers and a few members of the crew not long before the liner broke her towing hawser and was beached.

He voluntarily rendered a vigorous defense of his crew.

"The men were absolutely competent," he declared. "Discipline was very good. The lifeboats were regularly tested. The deck crew was of long experience. The only heavy turnover was in the steward's department."

Hackney, the next witness, added his opinion that the fire had been started by some one. He said that hand extinguishers were useless because of the ferocity of the flames and added that the fire seemed to have started in at least two places in the smoking room.

Fire Doors Kept Open.

Q.—About the fire doors, were they closed? A.—They couldn't be closed, as all the passengers would then have been trapped.

Q.—Were efforts made to marshal passengers around lifeboats? A.—I don't know. I am not sure, but I don't think there was any roll call.

Q.—You considered the crew an experienced one? A.—Yes. Most of the crew had been with us a long time.

Q.—Who gave the order to lower boats? A.—The captain.

Q.—Did he give the order to you. A.—Not personally.

Q.—What boats were lowered? A.—I'm not sure. Most of those aft, I believe.

Q.—Were all boats lowered. A.—No.

Q.—Why not? A.—The flames, smoke, and heat drove men away from some.

Q.—Can you account for the crew taking most of the space in some of the boats? A.—The crew was more familiar with the boats, and when the passengers wouldn't enter them the crew did.

Sees Four Boats Get Away.

The witness said he knew of four boats getting away "all right" and that he thought there was no panic attending their getaway.

Q.—Which was your boat? A.—No. 4 on the port side.

Q.—Did you lower it? A.—I couldn't get near it because of the fire.

Q.—Have you any opinion as to how the fire started? A.—It may have been set by somebody. It started from the inside and burned outward.

Q.—Did you smell any gasoline near the lockers where the fire may have started? A.—No, I wasn't around there.

Q.—What did the fire smell like at first? A.—Paper and wood.

Q.—Smell any rubber, such as insulation? A.—No.

Q.—Did you go near the writing room? A.—I grabbed a fire extinguisher and went to the room, but could not get in because of the heat.

First Officer Agrees.

The acting first officer, Freeman, the third witness, also voiced the opinion that the fire was "deliberately set."

"Every one was in bed by midnight," he explained. "The room where the fire started was deserted. No member of the crew was allowed to go there anyway. It would have been easy for some one to get the flames started.

"If it was a cigaret or cigar that started it the blaze certainly couldn't have spread so rapidly," he said. "Why, when I got there the place was like a furnace, with the floor, walls, and ceiling burning."

He, like the other witnesses, said he had not smelled gasoline or other inflammables. There was much black smoke, he said, but that might have been due to the burning of the heavily varnished hardwood furnishings of the place.

"But wasn't there some organized effort to save the passengers?" Hoover wanted to know. "Were they just left to themselves?"

"I don't know," responded the witness, vaguely. "But there was so much smoke and fire that nobody could do much."

Hearing in Custom House.

The hearing was conducted in the custom house in a small room that was packed to suffocation by a public eager to hear details of the disaster. The activities of moving picture men, photographers, and radio broadcasters added to the confusion typical of such public inquiries. In addition to Mr. Hoover there were three other members of the board of inquiry.

The board inquiry will be resumed tomorrow. Members of the crew will be questioned and several passengers will also be summoned. Witnesses will include William O. Sullivan, deck storekeeper, who has asserted to interviewers that the water pressure failed in the hoses and that crew members were ordered into lifeboats before passengers. He has asserted also that the fire had spread throughout the midship area of the vessel before the alarm was sounded.

All of these witnesses were named on subpenas issued by U. S. Attorney Conboy. He also interviewed George W. Rogers, radio operator, who is still ill from the effects of breathing smoke while he was sending out the SOS. He also will testify before the grand jury.

WHAT SHIP OFFICERS SAID BACKING THEORY LINER WAS SET AFIRE

New York, Sept. 10.—(AP)—The officers of the Morro Castle, expressing their belief the fire was set by arsonists, said:

Acting Captain William F. Warms—"A library locker blew out soon after the smoke was reported by the watchman. I think somebody put something in that locker that burned and smoldered fire a long time. It smoked and we saw that smoke first and then it burst into flames. On a previous trip there was an attempt to set a fire in the cargo hold. I found charred bits of paper in the cargo. The watchman had put the fire out with an extinguisher. In that fire it was necessary to throw the paper over a fire screen from the cargo hold passage."

Second Officer Clarence Hackney—"Ten minutes after the fire was reported, there was a flash from the burning library locker."

Third Officer Irwin Freeman—"Every one had gone to bed by midnight and the fire was not seen for three hours more. A cigaret could not have started a fire that would have gone on unnoticed for three or four hours without a report coming to the bridge. A watchman makes the rounds every hour. For these reasons I think the fire was set. In the first place, I eliminate lightning striking the gasoline tanks because they are right beside my room and I passed within two feet of them and they were not afire. As for a time bomb or fire machine, they could not have gone unnoticed for 48 hours under our systematic ship search." to the world and didn't hear the alarm.

Explains Delay in S O S.

"How do you explain the delay between the time the fire was discovered and the time the radio message was sent?" inquired Mr. Hoover.

"I thought I could handle the fire," said the captain in a low voice.

He declared he did not think it "possible" that a lifeboat was lowered with the great majority of the occupants seamen and only four passengers. Certainly, he asserted with conviction, he saw no such occurrence.

"I could only see four lifeboats from the bridge," he added. "Normally eight would have been visible. I did see two women holding back and refusing to get into a boat and I yelled down: 'For God's sake, get in!' They got in then. A little later I saw a woman being lifted bodily and put into a boat."

The engines of the ship were stopped at 3:20 a. m., the captain said. The engine room was then so filled with smoke that the men could not stay there, he said.

INSPECTOR FINDS FIRE SWEPT SHIP BUT METAL HULK

Works Way Into Interior of Vessel.

New York, Sept. 10.—[Special.]—Nothing but the metal of the Morro Castle still holds its form, and it is little more than white-hot wreckage, Capt. William Hall of the Ward line reported this afternoon when he came back from a hasty and courageous inspection of the wreckage of the liner off Asbury Park.

Before he went aboard in a breeches buoy to learn whether a salvage crew can be put aboard, two explosions in the depths of the ship hurled blazing pieces of wood and red fragments of iron into the sky. The explosions were not repeated, however.

Capt. Hall penetrated the skeleton of the ship as far as Capt. Robert R. Wilmott's quarters behind the bridge. The captain had died of heart disease the night before the disaster and his body was abandoned in the panic of the final catastrophe early Saturday morning.

Find Body of Captain.

A body believed to be that of Capt. Wilmott was discovered tonight in the master's quarters aboard the hulk. The body had been badly burned and could hardly be identified. Near it, however, were keys with a tag bearing the word "captain." The body was found after firemen had poured tons of water into the ship during the afternoon, making it possible to continue the search.

"There was nothing there but the hot skeleton of the cabin's metal frame," Hall said. "Even the frame was twisted all out of shape. And everything in the cabin was burned to ashes."

A conflict between the underwriters and the Ward line about salvage and jurisdiction aboard the wreckage was settled by Capt. Hall in a conference before noon with City Manager Carl Bischoff of Asbury Park, Police Chief Alfred N. Giles, and Frank B. Conover of the New York board of underwriters. The underwriters withdrew their claims to the wreckage, and the line will have full charge of the salvaging operations.

Sea Gives Up More Dead.

The sea today continued to release its dead.

The body of a man, thought to have been a victim of the disaster, came ashore on the morning tide and was removed to coast guard headquarters at Allenhurst.

The body of another man was reported caught in a jetty a short distance off shore. Coast guardsmen were endeavoring to reach it.

Some of the coast guard men at Asbury Park are convinced that as many as thirty bodies are still on the ship, mostly of passengers who were overcome by fire and smoke in their cabins. Capt. Hall's report makes it doubtful if the bodies can be found if some do remain on the ship.

POLICE PENSION INQUIRY VEXES SEIPP; HE QUITS

Edwin A. Seipp, grandson of the late Conrad Seipp, brewer, resigned yesterday from the Citizens' Association of Chicago, announcing in his letter of resignation that he was "dissatisfied" with the investigation into activites of the members of the board of trustees of the police pension fund.

The inquiry into the actions of the pension board was begun almost 18 months ago. One report in which alleged irregularities in handling the $10,000,000 trust fund were cited, was suppressed. A second report made by the auditing firm of George W. Rossetter was completed a month ago. In this attention was called to $100,000 in "unusual profits" made through transactions with the board by a brokerage firm in which Hugh McCarthy Jr. is a member. Police Captain Hugh McCarthy, father of the young broker, has been a member of the investment committee for the board for six years. Both reports now are in the hands of the state's attorney's office.

Last evening Mr. Seipp, who is manager of his family estate, refused to comment upon his resignation when reached in his office at 105 South La Salle street.

PUPILS TO MARCH MONDAY AT LANE TECH DEDICATION

Completed plans for the dedication Monday of the new Lane Technical High school, Addison street and Western avenue, were announced yesterday by John C. Christensen, school architect who designed the $6,000,000 building.

The school plant will be open for public inspection at 9:30 a. m. At 11 o'clock a parade of the 7,000 pupils to enroll at the school will form on the grounds, pass a reviewing stand where city and school officials will be assembled, and enter the building. Bands and R. O. T. C. units of seven other high schools will participate in the parade.

The dedication program will be held at 12:30 p. m., following a flag raising ceremony, and will be broadcast over station WGN. Dr. Walter Dill Scott, president of Northwestern university, will be the chief speaker. Other speakers will be Mayor Kelly, James B. McCahey, president of the board of education; and William J. Bogan, superintendent of schools. A luncheon for invited guests will be held in the Lane dining hall following the ceremony.

HAVERS FEDERAL PENSION FUND IS INSOLVENT

New York, Sept. 10.—[Special.]—The federal employés retirement fund is "completely insolvent," with the national government more than 2 billion dollars in arrears in its payments to the fund, according to E. Claude Babcock, president of the American Federation of Government Employés.

Addressing the third annual convention of the federation here today, Mr. Babcock said:

"It is a fact that if every federal employé resigned today the fund would be insufficient by 200 million dollars to repay what the employés themselves had put into it. The fund is in a condition which no bank or insurance inspector would permit to exist for three minutes in a private business."

SECOND BURNING SHIP'S OFFICERS TELL ARSON PLOT

Blame Radicals in Crew for Fires.

BALBOA, Canal Zone, Sept. 10.—[Special.]—Officers of the Grace liner Santa Rita, which came into port here this morning with a fire in her hold, today blamed that blaze and also the destruction of the ill fated Morro Castle on an international radical organization.

The fire on the Santa Rita was discovered by one of the liner's 65 passengers last Friday while the vessel was off the coast of Colombia. For 48 hours the crew fought the flames. The ship had cotton, nitrates, wool and coffee in its hold.

During the last 50 miles of the trip the liner was accompanied by a detachment of Canal Zone firemen who had steamed out to sea on the tug Favorite to lend assistance. They carried 70 tons of fire fighting chemicals.

Tell of Radicals in Crew.

As fire authorities of the Canal Zone began an investigation into the fire, the serious charge concerning its possible origin was made. Some of the officers on the Santa Rita disclosed that they had been troubled by radical elements in the crew.

The officers said that on July 23 the Grace line had sent a circular message to all its vessels asking the formation of the "Grace Line Marine association," designed to obtain closer coöperation between the ships' personnel and the owners.

The men voted affirmatively on the formation of such a body but the officers voted against it, they said.

"We are more than willing," these officers said, "to coöperate with the owners and we always have been. But we are unwilling to coöperate with the radical elements of the crew.

"If the association were formed the crew would have an equal voice in the affairs of the ship, according to the suggestion from the main office and which we are unwilling to concede.

Members on Every Ship.

"Aboard every ship is a member [of the radical organization] who had plenty of opportunity to start the fire from the time the cargo was loaded until the hatches were apparently closed.

"The radicals of the crew are most antagonistic to the owners and you will see more fires aboard ships very soon."

As the investigation got under way it was disclosed that the crew of the Santa Isabel, another Grace liner, threw its boatswain overboard some time ago when the liner was docked at Balboa. The crew demanded the right to elect its own boatswain, but the captain refused their request.

When the Santa Rita docked today the 65 passengers aboard were reported as having been extremely apprehensive. They all disembarked at Balboa.

After the ship reached dock, a Canal Zone fire department lieutenant was overcome by gas while he and his men were wetting down the smoldering cargo.

The fire was thought to be extinguished this afternoon but a short time later blazed forth again. Lime water was used to overcome gases in the hold as stevedores worked to unload burning cotton.

CHICAGOAN ON RESCUE SHIP TELLS OF SCENES DURING SEA DISASTER

Miss Clara Thorndike, 308 North Waller avenue, who was on board the rescue ship Monarch of Bermuda, in the Morro Castle disaster, returned to Chicago yesterday and described rescue scenes. Miss Thorndike, accompanied by Miss Marion Jeffrey of Evanston, was returning from a vacation trip to Bermuda.

"I was awakened at 6 a. m. Friday," she said. "Looking out a porthole I saw the Morro Castle in flames. There were about 45 persons on the decks of the blazing ship.

"Several lifeboats from our ship were picking up survivors and bodies in the ocean.

"Because of the heavy sea, lifeboats were unable to reach a woman who was in the water alongside the burning ship holding a small girl and had to pull away without saving them.

"A man about 60 years old, who was picked up in the water and brought aboard our ship, told of seeing his wife slip through the life preserver, which was evidently not fastened securely, and drown."

U. S. AIDS HUNT FOR DAUGHTER OF T. S. GATES

Washington, D. C., Sept. 10.—[Special.]—Investigation of the reported disappearance of Miss Virginia Ewing Gates, daughter of Thomas S. Gates, president of the University of Pennsylvania, from a ranch in Wyoming has been started by the department of justice.

Not Worrying, Brother Says.

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 10.—[Special.]—Although members of her family deny she has disappeared, it became known today that the department of justice has been searching for Miss Virginia Ewing Gates, daughter of Thomas S. Gates, president of the University of Pennsylvania.

"We are not worrying about Virginia," her brother, Thomas S. Gates Jr. insisted. "She is motoring here from a ranch in the west, where she spent the summer. We have not heard from her for two or three days, but that is natural, as she is motoring leisurely and stopping wherever she cares to."

HAVANA POLICE CHIEF SAYS REDS BURNED LINER

Begins Sabotage Quiz on Mendieta's Order.

BY GUSTAVO RENO.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, Sept. 10.—Firm in his belief that the fire on the liner Morro Castle was an act of sabotage, Maj. Cayetano Fraga, chief of the secret police, tonight urged that United States authorities "grab immediately every Latin American in the Morro Castle's crew.

"In my opinion they have the best key to the real cause of the catastrophe," he said. "There is no question in my mind but that this is a clear case of sabotage by members of the secret international maritime sabotage organization which received direct instructions from the third internationle at Moscow. I have proof that the organization has branches in New York and Havana. Members of the radical port workers are affiliated with secret anarchist and communist organizations."

Mendieta Orders Quiz.

Maj. Fraga was chosen by President Carlos Mendieta to investigate the possible sabotage of the liner as well as the activities of the international sabotage organization.

Mendieta ordered the investigation after a conference with Ambassador Jefferson Caffery of the United States. The president relieved the famous technical police from all other duties and assigned the force exclusively to this investigation.

The police tonight checked reports that trouble existed among unionized dock workers and strike breakers—free labor—employed by the Ward line in Havana when the Morro Castle left there last Wednesday. Reports that a conspiracy existed among unionized workers to destroy the Ward line's business here by destroying the Morro Castle also were being investigated.

Red Leader Reported Seized.

"Dispatches from the Grace liner, Santa Rita, which caught on fire in the Pacific under similar mysterious circumstances, convinced me that sabotage destroyed the Morro Castle," Maj. Fraga said.

It was reported late tonight that Maj. Fraga's police had arrested a "prominent leader of the communist party who confessed friends had told him that twenty members of the Morro Castle crew were anarchists enrolled here." The twenty, it was said, worked in the engine and boiler rooms of the burned liner.

ALCOHOLIC CODE CHIEF EXPLAINS NEW PERMIT PLAN

Regulations for the new system of permits to wholesalers of liquor were outlined last night to 150 members of the alcoholic beverage wholesale industry in Illinois at a meeting in the Sherman hotel with federal code authorities.

The new system, effective Sept. 17, according to Joseph De Granahl of Washington, D. C., divisional code supervisor, provides for a permit to each wholesaler. If he violates the code his permit will be revoked, Mr. Granahl explained, and if he continues in business without a permit he is liable to federal prosecution.

Although De Granahl asserted that the regulations gave a chance to eliminate the bootlegger and "self-police" the industry, the NRA regulations were the target of numerous attacks.

Arthur Magill of the Old Highland Wine and Liquor company said he was unable to understand why business men should be backed into a corner and then told what they could do or could not do in their own business. He added that "this code business" would finally resolve itself solely to a matter of politics.

Magill was silenced by De Granahl's admonition that he didn't want the meeting "turned aside into a political discussion." Other complaints, also overridden, included that the "self-policing" of the industry would turn distillers into little better than government stool pigeons.

TO MEN who think they must take "something strong" when they need a laxative—

WHY take a violent, harsh laxative when there is a mild, gentle way to relieve constipation?

Violent cathartics are just as bad for strong men as they are for children. They shock the system. They weaken you. Some of them even nauseate you.

Try mild, gentle Ex-Lax! One trial will convince you that harsh measures are entirely unnecessary. And you will never go back to rough-acting purgatives again.

EX-LAX—THE GENTLE, EFFECTIVE LAXATIVE

Ex-Lax acts gently yet thoroughly. It works over-night without over-action.

You take Ex-Lax just when you need a laxative—it will not form a habit. You don't have to keep on increasing the dose to get results.

Children like to take Ex-Lax because they love its delicious chocolate flavor. Grown-ups, too, prefer to take Ex-Lax because they have found it to be thoroughly effective—without the disagreeable after-effects of harsh, nasty-tasting laxatives.

For 28 years Ex-Lax has had the confidence of doctors, nurses, druggists and the general public alike. It is the family laxative in millions of homes. Over 50,000 druggists sell Ex-Lax—in 10c and 25c boxes.

WATCH OUT FOR IMITATIONS!

Ex-Lax has stood the test of time. It has been America's favorite laxative for 28 years. Insist on genuine Ex-Lax—spelled E-X-L-A-X—to make sure of getting Ex-Lax results.

GREEN DEMANDS 30 HOUR WEEK FROM INDUSTRY

Alternative Is 50 Million Idle, He Tells Printers.

Industry must either put itself back thirty years by dismantling its machinery, or adopt the 30 hour week, if the taxpayers are not to support 50,000,000 idle, William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, told delegates to the International Typographical union in convention yesterday at the Palmer house.

The national recovery act was praised by Green for establishing the right of labor to organize and bargain collectively. But he criticized its administration, which he declared permitted employers to establish codes of such elasticity that the 40 hour maximum work week was stretched out of shape without adequate compensation for employes.

"Long Week Can't Continue."

"We cannot continue the long week without economic disaster," said Mr. Green. "Either industry must put itself back 30 years and unmechanize itself, or adopt the six hour day, five day week, at the same rate of pay.

"The only alternative is for the taxpayers to support 50,000,000 persons through government relief. It is unthinkable that this should continue."

Mr. Green declared that the purpose of the NRA had been thwarted by employers who balked unionism whenever an attempt was made to take up the slack of unemployment. He asserted that in practically all codes the maximum hours were too high and the rates of pay too low.

Assails Code Exemptions.

"It is most misleading for a code to establish a 40 hour week, and then in a series of exceptions permit 48 to 60 hours," he said. "The exemptions for apprentices and key workers especially have been abused. Some employers have found that they were permitted to increase hours under the codes.

"The 40 hour week should have no place in our economic setup. The scientists and inventors have made it obsolete by having the work done by machines instead of by human hands."

Touching on the textile strike, Mr. Green expressed himself as apprehensive over the situation, but with hope that the President's board of mediation could settle the issues in dispute.

"I cannot overemphasize the seriousness to the entire country of the textile strike," he declared. "It is causing much suffering, particularly to the dependents of the workers. They were forced to strike.

Foresees More Clashes.

"A most unusual thing has happened. By some authority the mill owners have armed non-union workers. You know what that may mean. We have the right to picket, and where there is picketing there is bound to be clashes. When one side is armed, and one is not, there is bound to be slaughter!"

After his speech Mr. Green departed for Washington.

Among the resolutions to be voted on at the printers' convention are several declaring for the 30 hour week. Others call for extending the length of apprenticeship from five to either six or seven years.

Ex-Judge John A. Sbarbaro Given Italian Decoration

The Order of Commendatore, an Italian decoration, was conferred yesterday on former Municipal Judge John A. Sbarbaro, in recognition of his leadership in Italian civic affairs in Chicago. The presentation was made by Dr. Antonio Ferme, acting Italian consul general in Chicago, in Mr. Sbarbaro's law offices at 10 South La Salle street. Mr. Sbarbaro was chairman of the committee which welcomed Gen. Italo Balbo after his flight here. He is a master in chancery of the Circuit court.

Baby Burned in Cradle Fire Dies of Her Injuries

Mary Therese Larkin, 11 months old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Larkin, 7635 South Michigan avenue, died last night of burns received earlier in the day when her cradle caught fire. The baby's cradle was in the kitchen as Mrs. Larkin was preparing a meal. An overheated coffee percolator ignited the tablecloth and the flames spread to the cradle before the mother was aware of what was happening.

F. A. PRESTON HEADS $2,500,000 CAMPAIGN OF COMMUNITY FUND

[Moffett-Russell Photo.]

Fred A. Preston, vice president of Poor & Co., railway supply dealers at 80 East Jackson boulevard, will direct the annual campaign of the Community fund of Chicago for $2,500,000 to be distributed among more than 100 of the city's leading welfare agencies.

The announcement, from the fund headquarters at 111 West Washington street yesterday also named Philip D. Armour and Ralph A. Ward as vice chairmen to assist Mr. Preston in forming the campaign organization. All have served as team captains or in other capacities in former campaigns.

The drive will be divided into four classes, according to Mr. Preston—for sponsors, special gifts, trades and industries, and a women's division. Citizens asked to take charge of these divisions are expected to accept their appointments this week.

Last year's campaign by the Community fund, Allied Chicago Charities, brought in about $3,000,000. The organization this year will be virtually the same, except for the change in name and in certain of the participating agencies.

MAYOR TO NAME EDWARD UPTON AS CITY SEALER

Mayor Kelly announced yesterday that he would submit the name of Edward J. Upton, Democratic committeeman of the 30th ward, to the city council tomorrow as his appointee to the office of city sealer. Victor Klebba, who has held the office temporarily since the resignation several months ago of Joe Grein, will return to his former duties in the mayor's office.

Mr. Upton has served one term in the Illinois house of representatives from the 21st senatorial district, and was renominated last April. In that election he also was named committeeman of the 30th ward, succeeding Ald. John S. Clark, chairman of the council finance committee, who did not run again for the committeeman post.

Until three years ago Upton was a district sales manager for the Standard Oil company in Chicago. He is 44 years old, lives at 5072 West Monroe street, is married, and has two children.

Employers Stand Pat.

After a grueling six hour conference with President George A. Sloan of the Cotton Textile institute today, the President's board was still unable, however, to get the employers to agree to arbitration. It then requested and obtained from Gorman an extension in his deadline until 6 o'clock tomorrow evening, thus giving the board another day in which to strive for a settlement.

In agreeing to this concession Gorman hinted that a still further extension might be granted if necessary.

"In order to support the President's board," he said here shortly after the first deadline had expired, "our proposal for arbitration is extended 24 hours, or until 6 p. m. eastern standard time tomorrow afternoon.

"To this announcement we attach this condition: Settlement will be made when it is made, whether by arbitration or otherwise, with the textile industries as such. That means there must be settlement with the entire cotton textile industry, with the entire wool worsted industry, with the entire silk industry, and so on. There will be no settlement, mill by mill, in any of the divisions of the industry."

This new condition added a new stumbling block in the way of the President's board. Sloan had been insisting throughout the day that strike settlement is a question to be decided by individual mill owners and their employés, not by any single spokesman for all mills and all workers.

Meanwhile in New York a united front was voted by workers in the silk and rayon industry. Seventy eastern and southern leaders met for the first time since the strike began.

Hold Two Long Sessions.

Summoning Sloan to Washington to discuss the arbitration offer with him, the President's board kept him "on the carpet" throughout two sweltering sessions, one this morning and a second one this afternoon. Although neither Sloan nor the board members would discuss their conversations, it was evident that the board was endeavoring to apply pressure and wring some concessions from employers.

As far as could be learned, Sloan stuck to his guns.

In order to circumvent Sloan's objection that he cannot speak for the industry, the board is understood to have persuaded him to summon to Washington tomorrow key employers in the industry so that the board can put the arbitration question squarely up to them.

While Sloan argued with the mediation board, industrialists throughout the country opened their first concerted counter offensive against the strike. Protected by the militia or by special armed guards, scores of mills which had previously been closed by the strike today sought to reopen.

About sixty mills scattered over the country succeeded in resuming operations, according to independent surveys. Most of them, however, had only skeleton forces.

19 Reopen Under Guard.

Charlotte, N. C., Sept. 10.—[Special.]—National guardsmen and special officers were on guard today as 19 strike-closed Carolina textile mills reopened. About 4,000 workers returned to their jobs under armed protection.

The worst of the day's disorder in this state occurred near Cherryville, where a dynamite bomb wrecked a section of the roadway leading to the Howell Mill in that city. Considerable damage was done. The Howell is the only one of Gaston county's 104 plants now running.

Intensive picketing was begun at the giant Cannon mills at Kannapolis, N. C., where troops escorted 10,000 persons to their jobs. It was estimated there were 106,000 still idle in the two Carolinas, with 202 mills closed and 131 open.

BOMB FOR USE IN CHURCH FETE MAIMS 3 BOYS

Three boys were maimed yesterday by the explosion of a homemade aerial bomb they were examining in a vacant store at 260 West 23d street.

The injured are Anthony Santa, 8 years old, 245 West 23d street, who is expected to lose the sight of his right eye; Joseph Williams, 19, of 2339 Wentworth avenue, whose left hand was severed at the wrist; and Arthur Pasafine, 14, of 269 West 23d street, who lost three fingers of his right hand and suffered burns about the face and body. All were taken to the County hospital.

The bomb was one intended for use Sunday night as a part of the celebration of the feast of Santa Maria Incarnata, sponsored by the Madonna Incarnata church, 216 Alexander street. Apparently it had been lost and was found by one of the boys.

The Rev. Joseph Lazzeri, pastor of the church, said the fireworks portion of the program is held each year without the approval of the church.

Dear Miss Del Rio:

Our aim, when we created Old Golds, was simply to produce a smoother cigarette than America had ever known before. . . .

A cigarette that would appeal to everyone by reason of its mellow mildness—its freedom from rasp and bite.

The tobaccos used in Old Gold are free from artificial flavoring and other seasonings. Hence the throat-ease . . . without any irritation even for the most sensitive throat.

Sincerely,

LEAGUE COUNCIL ACCORDS RUSSIA PERMANENT SEAT

Assembly Votes to Probe Chaco War.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

GENEVA, Sept. 10.—A permanent seat in the council of the league of nations—a distinction now held by only Great Britain, France, and Italy—awaits Soviet Russia when she is formally admitted to the league.

At the opening of the league session today the three big powers, which have by diplomatic activity been promoting Russia's entrance, circulated among delegates an invitation to join the league which is to be signed and dispatched to Moscow.

Next the council of the league announced it had reached an accord "in principle" to grant Russia a permanent seat in the council. It is expected that only Argentina and Portugal will express disapproval, abstaining from voting. As soon as Moscow reports her willingness to enter, a league resolution in favor of admission will be passed.

Will Probe Chaco War.

Asserting its delegated rôle as peacemaker, the league assembly voted to make an investigation of the war in the Chaco Boreal between Paraguay and Bolivia. The league had an investigating commission in the Chaco a year ago.

Richard Sandler of Sweden was elected president of the league assembly by a vote of 49 out of 52. President Eamon de Valera of the Irish Free State was a leading candidate, but withdrew in favor of Sandler.

Sandler is a Social Democrat in his own country and was appointed delegate to the assembly in August, 1929. In league activities he has been interested chiefly in the Jewish question.

Dr. Eduard Benes, perennial foreign minister of Czechoslovakia and leading statesman of the little entente, delivered an oration on the successes and failures of the league.

Counts League Successes.

On the side of successes he enumerated the increased cooperation of the United States, efforts to bring Russia into the league, settlement of the boundary dispute between Peru and Colombia, and pacts of friendship and peace.

On the other side he listed the inactivity of the disarmament conference, the departure of Germany and Japan from the league, the Chaco war, the Russo-Japanese and Sino-Japanese conflicts in the far east, and the ineffectiveness of the world economic conference.

The tension between Russia and Japan is especially grave, Benes declared, and the relations between China and Japan are of deep concern. If any power brought about a similar situation in Europe it would be open to direct penalities by the league and moreover would bring about a general catastrophe, he asserted.

Destructive Forces at Work.

The league is still a great force in the world, Dr. Benes declared, and its disappearance would bring the international organization of the world into chaos.

"There are doubtless many destructive forces at present at work in the public life of the world," he said, "and they are acting with extraordinary violence and energy. They are, however, being opposed and neutralized by positive beneficient forces and tendencies which are no less energetic and effectve. The first and most important of these vital factors is the league itself."

Poland Demands Big Powers Adhere to Minorities Pact

BY DONALD DAY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WARSAW, Sept. 10.—Following soviet Russia's admittance to the league of nations Poland intends to fight for a showdown on the minorities question. The fight, it was stated here today, will decide whether or not Poland is entitled to consider herself as a great power in European affairs.

Briefly, Poland's stand on the minority question is that the 14 countries which signed the minorities treaty at Versailles May 31, 1929, should be released from their pledges or that the great powers—the United States, France, Great Britain, Italy, and Japan—who drew up the treaty should also be bound by its contents.

Causes Most Complaints.

Poland expects action on this question during the present session of the league, which opened at Geneva today, since the minorities question is of vital interest to the following countries: Jugo-Slavia, Czechoslovakia, Rumania, Greece, Austria, Bulgaria, Hungary, Turkey, Albania, Lithuania, Latvia, Estonia, and Finland.

Without exception all these countries are dissatisfied with the minorities treaty, which gives their hyphenated populations an opportunity to carry complaints to the league. The press of these countries agrees that the minorities agreement has been the cause of more international frictions and open conflicts than any treaty originated at Versailles.

The Poles have seized the opportune time to open discussion on the question, since Poland has 4,000,000 of its nationals living in Russia, and Warsaw is demanding that Russia also be compelled to sign the minority treaty.

Two Classes of Nations.

Reverting to the question of international law, Poland contends that each member of the league is equal, this equality including the fundamental right of national sovereignty. In reality the league membership consists of two categories of nations, [1] those whose sovereign rights are limited by the minority agreement and [2] others who are not accountable before the league for the treatment of national minorities within their borders.

Poland is prepared to prove this contention with volumes of evidence of mistreatment of Polish minorities residing in Lithuania, Germany, Czechoslovakia, and even France, which is employing harsh measures in attempting to force 250,000 Poles she imported to replenish her man power after the war to return to Poland.

That Poland's side of the slate is not clean is admitted by Warsaw, but in explaining Poland's rough handling of the German and Ukrainian minorities, officials of the ministry of interior attempt to place the blame for the beginning of her minority troubles upon Germany, which is alleged to have begun the persecutions.

Field of Many Jobs.

Serious opposition to annuling the minorities treaty is expected, since the secretariat of the league dealing with this question has developed into a large burocracy with many succulent jobs.

Another important source of opposition is the Jewish minorities in the involved countries. Often their groups have organized and led other minority groups in opposing internal and foreign policies of these states, Poland claims, going so far as to hold frequent international minority congresses whose sessions have aggravated minority questions instead of promoting solutions.

GERMANY SEES CHANCE FOR WAR IN EASTERN PACT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Sept. 10.—Germany refuses to join the eastern Locarno pact because "her central position amidst highly armed nations compels her to exercise special caution," it was announced in an official statement tonight.

"There is no real political need for planned special guarantees under which Russia will take over a guarantee for the Locarno pact and France will take over a guarantee for the eastern pact," the statement declares. "In any case, Germany can expect no advantage from such guarantees."

Pointing out that the eastern Locarno presupposes that the partners are members of the league of nations, the German government comments: "There is no possibility of entering such an international pact system as long as Germany's equality in armaments is rendered doubtful by certain nations. This also applies to Germany's future relations with the league of nations. . . . Germany can assume no obligation which would draw her into all possible conflicts in the east, and probably make her the scene of war."

TELLS BENEFITS AND EVILS OF LOSING TONSILS

Rochester Doctor Speaks at Eye-Ear Conclave.

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

Operations to remove children's tonsils should be undertaken with far greater discrimination than is now exercised, according to Dr. Albert D. Kaiser of the Eastman clinic, Rochester, N. Y.

He spoke yesterday in a symposium on tonsils conducted at the 39th annual convention of the American Academy of Ophthalmology and Otolaryngology in the Hotel Sherman. Eye and ear-nose-throat specialists from all English speaking America are attending the convention, which will continue through Friday.

"The last few years have brought a setback in tonsil operations," Dr. Kaiser declared, "because previously too much was promised by physicians. Now the mother whose first child had his tonsils removed when it was perhaps unnecessary, is disappointed because the child has continued to have colds, and she doesn't want her second child's tonsils removed, although the tonsils are diseased.

Effects of Operation.

"Having his tonsils out will make little difference in his susceptibility to colds, and bronchitis occurs more frequently in tonsilectomized children, and the same is true of pneumonia.

"On the other hand an infected tonsil may develop local trouble, may be a factor in systemic disease such as nephritis or heart disease, and may be a cause in less easily classified but threatening diseases such as excessive fatigue. It also may be a factor in scarlet fever and diphtheria."

Dr. Kaiser, who is a professor of pediatrics in the University of Rochester School of Medicine, reported on a group of 4,400 children in Rochester observed over a 10 year period. Of this group, 2,200 had been the subjects of tonsil operations, and the same number had tonsils remaining intact.

Heart Disease Complications.

"In children who developed muscular rheumatism, only half as many in the operated group showed an instance of heart disease accompanying the rheumatism as were found in the group which had not been operated on.

"Among those who were victims of korea, a disease whose origin is debatable, it not being agreed whether it is rheumatic, we found that the occurrence was of greater frequency in the children whose tonsils had been removed. But again the instance of heart disease in the korea victims was decidely less among the tonsil-free children.

"In a study of 1,25[illegible] cases we found that the mortality among children who developed heart disease with rheumatic infection was twice as great among those who had not had their tonsils removed."

Dispute Function of Organ.

"From a study of these 4,400 children we found that those subject to tonsilitis, enlarged glands of the neck, and ear trouble derived much benefit when the diseased tonsils were removed."

Dr. Kaiser declared physicians still "at sea" about the function of the tonsil. The pathologists assigned to the tonsil the rôle of a defensive mechanism, but clinical evidence, he asserted, failed to bear out their theory. Nevertheless, he pointed out, research has determined that vitamin C is present in the tonsil tissue in eight times the quantity that obtains in the blood, which suggests that a normal tonsil tissue has some immunizing qualities.

"The attitude toward tonsils should vary in different climatic conditions," he said. "Each case must be considered as individual. A large tonsil is not always dangerous. It may subside later. On the other hand some harmless looking tonsils may have obstructive qualities. The appearance does not always indicate whether it is diseased or not.

Useful in Infancy.

"Unfortunately we developed a generation which thought every tonsil should be removed and this made for loose diagnosis. The history of the child's infection and his physical condition must be studied."

Dr. Harris P. Mosher of Boston pointed out that the tonsils in infancy have a certain protective function and that many physicians would rather defer the operation in ordinary cases until the child is 6 years old.

A warning against sedatives or sleeping powders of the "barbital group" was pronounced by Dr. Charles H. Watkins of Rochester, Minn. He said continued use of sleep producing drugs with a barbituric acid base caused a shortage of white blood corpuscles.

MAYOR WARNS POLITICIANS TO END TRAFIC FIX

Asserts Police Offenders Must Face Trial Board.

BY HAL FOUST.

Mayor Kelly yesterday ordered that any policeman who tries to fix a trafic ticket should be taken before the civil service trial board. At the same time—speaking before his "Keep Chicago Safe" committee at a luncheon in the Hotel Sherman—the mayor broadcast to the politicians of the city that it is no longer the politic thing to fix tickets.

"I want the word to go out from this meeting to the ward politicians, Democratic as well as Republican," he said, "that it is no longer profitable for them to take care of their friends' trafic troubles. The public is becoming educated to the fact that the fixer is a public enemy.

"This effort to bring about respect for the trafic laws and to reduce our automobile accident toll is not a joke nor is it a passing fancy. It is an earnest and a continuous fight to save lives—as serious a campaign as the one waged by the city years ago in overcoming typhoid fever."

Clerk Gill Cites Figures.

Joseph Gill, clerk of the Municipal court, said he knew personally that not a ticket had been lost in his office in the last two months.

"I don't think any of us realized to what extent the fix had grown until figures were published in the newspapers recently," said Clerk Gill. "In the first six months of this year 3,245 minor trafic law violators asked for court trials. Of this total, the judges discharged 1,784. Fifty-two were fined a total of $90. And 1,409 never appeared in court."

Chief Justice Sonsteby of the Municipal court announced that the court and the police were inaugurating a so-called Detroit system of recording trafic violations. Hereafter, in any case where the prosecution is halted, the reason for the halt and the name of the person who requested it will be of public record.

New Type of Summons.

"We have also prepared new summonses for the police to issue in trafic cases," the chief justice continued, "so that a duplicate will be filed in the police commissioner's office for comparison with the court records of its final disposition.

"Trafic offenders are to be listed for ready reference as criminals are handled at the police bureau of identification. This will expose the repeated violators to more severe punishment from the courts.

"Our plans also provide for a new method of collecting fines in trafic cases. If the defendant fails to appear in court, instead of issuing a warant for his arrest a fine would be entered against him ex parte. A notice of the fine would be mailed to the defendant. Another notice would be sent to the city collector's office. The motorist would not be able to get a wheel tax windshied sticker until the fine is paid. This would expose him to arrest on the streets."

'L' GIVES REASONS FOR STOCKYARDS BUS LINE PLANS

Lacks Cash to Build, Commission Is Told.

The Chicago Rapid Transit company yesterday presented evidence before the Illinois commerce commission to show why it should not at its own expense restore elevated service into the Union Stockyards. At the same time the company closed its case for a certificate of convenience and necessity to operate a feeder bus system to replace the service offered before the yards elevated structure was destroyed by fire on May 19.

In answer to a citation by the commission to show cause why the elevated service should not be resumed, the transit company argued that the wrecked structure should be rebuilt by the Chicago Junction Railway company. The railway company, which leased the structure to the "L" lines, holds that the transit company should rebuild the structure.

Fear Permit Complication.

James R. Clark, examiner for the commission, who conducted the hearing, pointed out that the streets on which the elevated company proposes to operate its buses are privately owned by the Chicago Stockyards and Transit company. This circumstance, he said, might prevent issuance of a certificate of operation. He asked attorneys to present law on this point at a hearing on Sept. 24.

Attorney Cyrus Adams, representing the transit company, said yards officials had been unwilling to discuss this question with him. He added that if the commission granted the certificate the problem could be settled in a court action.

In support of the plea for the certificate, Harvey J. Johnson, trafic manager for the elevated lines, gave testimony on the technical phases of the proposed bus operation. He said the bus line would be operated over a slightly greater distance than the former elevated structure served. He estimated the extension would bring 241,000 additional riders during a year.

Estimates of Trafic and Cost.

He said that if trafic returns to the peak that obtained before the fire, 25 buses would be operated. If the trafic remains at the present level he asserted it would require only 10 buses. He estimated the annual cost of the former type of service at $82,000 a year and the latter at $48,000 a year.

On cross-examination by Attorney Luther M. Walters, representing the Chicago Live Stock exchange, Mr. Johnson testified the cost of service, if the structure were replaced as it was before the fire, would be $38,000 a year. He also said such replacement would increase the number of riders. Attorney Walters estimated this increase at 1,200,000 riders a year. The witness said he was not certain the estimate was correct.

Attorney Walters then recalled that at a previous hearing the cost of restoring the structure was estimated at $90,000, including elevated tracks and electrical work. Exclusive of such work he said the structure and foundation would cost $61,000. The witness confirmed these figures.

Lacks Funds to Rebuild.

Attorney Walters pointed out that the company would save approximately $44,000 a year if the structure were restored—the difference between $82,000 for the bus service and $38,000 for the operation of "L" trains. He asked whether the company could not, in view of such a considerable saving in operating expenses, erect the structure.

In answer to his question Attorney Adams introduced a financial statement of the company showing that it has no available funds with which to build the structure. The statement gave the assets of the company at $2,824,056 and its liabilities at $5,216,362.

TAILORS DEMAND VOICE IN PARLEY AMONG CLEANERS

A new factor was injected yesterday into the cleaning and dyeing industry strife in Chicago, when the Unity Retail Cleaners and Tailors' association, representing 5,000 small tailors, demanded that it should have a voice in the final settlement.

In a letter to Frank Harschor of the Cleaners and Dyers' association, Alex Smied, president of the Unity group, declared his members wanted an early settlement so they could get back to work, and also wanted to "sit in" on the negotiations.

According to Smied, the Unity group favors price stabilization, but wants a differential for "cash and carry" work.

Smied also said his group opposed the "closed solicitation" method, under which the small tailor must send his cleaning work to one designated plant, and no other, whether he is satisfied with the work or not.

WOMAN GETS 10 DAYS IN CELL AS A DRUNK DRIVER

A woman and a man were ordered to serve ten days in the Bridewell by Judge Harold P. O'Connell in the Safety court yesterday for driving while intoxicated.

The woman is Mrs. Loretta Weber, 25 years old, 234 Englewood avenue, a divorcée. She pleaded guilty on two charges of drunken driving. She was arrested Sept. 7 after her automobile had collided at 63d street and Campbell avenue with cars owned by Roy Graves, 6155 South California avenue, and Alvin Cohn, 2459 West 63d street.

Graves testified that Mrs. Weber drove away after colliding with his car, then returned to the scene and crashed her automobile into the Cohn car. Judge O'Connell imposed a $100 fine and a ten day Bridewell sentence on each of the charges, but ruled that the Bridewell terms should run concurrently.

The man who must serve a ten day sentence is Frank Gawran, 44 years old, 1814 North Leavitt street. He was sentenced last Friday and his motion to vacate it was overruled yesterday. He was arrested at home Aug. 19 after his automobile had struck Catherine Fogarty, 14 years old, 812 North Damen avenue, at Damen and Chicago avenues.

CULTURE IN EVOLUTION

A choice offering at The University College during the first semester is a course entitled "The Evolution of Culture." Under the guidance of a brilliant lecturer, students will be permitted to see the human struggle for values, in perspective. They will, in imagination, stand at the distant edge of the beginning of human society and observe the dramatic surge of human thought as it becomes crystallized in cultural form through the ages.

Understanding of our cultural dilemma will come as contemporary conflicts are seen in historic perspective. The human venture in which we all share will take on a new and thrilling challenge.

This is one of many remarkable educational opportunities which the university offers the men and women of Chicago who are intellectually curious and mentally awake.

PROBLEM OF LIFE BEYOND SCIENCE, MARCONI ADMITS

Dr. Compton at Study of Electro-Radio-Biology.

[Copyright: 1934: By the Associated Press.]

VENICE, Sept. 10.—Science, Guglielmo Marconi told the international congress of electro-radio-biology today, has absolutely failed to explain the problem of life.

This fact, said the man who invented wireless telegraphy, "would be truly frightening were it not for faith."

Eight Nobel prize winners, including Dr. Arthur Holly Compton, the noted Chicago physicist, were among the distinguished members of the assemblage which heard the Italian scientist say:

"The mystery of life is certainly the most persistent problem ever placed before the thought of man. There is no doubt but what from the time humanity began to think it has occupied itself with the problem of its origin and its future—which undoubtedly is the problem of life.

Resort to Faith.

"The inability of science to solve it is absolute. This would be truly frightening were it not for faith."

Then Marconi continued, in the complete silence of an attentive audience:

"If we consider what science already has enabled men to know—the immensity of space, the fantastic philosophy of the stars, the infinite smallness of the composition of atoms, the macrocosm and microcosm whereby we succeed only in creating outlines and translating a measure into numbers without our minds being able to form any concrete idea of it—we remain astounded by the enormous machinery of the universe."

Man Adapted to Nature.

"If, then, we pass toward the consideration of the phenomena of life, this sentiment is accentuated, the complexity of the different organs which all work out in coördinated and determinate functions, the constant preoccupation for the conservation of the species, man's marvelous adaptation of his constitution to surroundings, the tranmission of instincts, the mechanism of thought and reasoning, and, lastly, the specter Death places man, who wishes to explain the tormenting mystery, before a book closed with seven seals."

Prof. R. W. Wood of Johns Hopkins university gave the assemblage an illustrated talk on high frequency waves.

Opening the congress in the name of Il Duce and the city of Venice, Senator Marconi briefly outlined the objectives of the conference which is to last until Sept. 15.

Study of Radiation.

Explaining these purposes in laymens' terms, officials of the congress said much emphasis would be placed on studies of the emission of radiation by organic matter. They said this must not be confused or taken to include the phenomena of mediumism, telepathy, and similar manifestations.

The effect of ultra-violet X-rays, radium, and cosmic rays on living tissues will be discussed in detail. Similarly cases of ray emanations from living tissue will be on the agenda. One of the most interesting of the latter cases, said to be scheduled for discussion by Marconi, or another Italian authority, is known here as the "electric woman" of Trieste.

SPAIN'S PUBLIC SAFETY CHIEF IS SHOT TO DEATH

SAN SEBASTIAN, Spain, Sept. 10.—(AP)—Manuel Andreas Casaus, second director of public safety under the new republic and one of the leading figures in its political life, was shot and killed tonight as he stood at the corner of the busy Colon square.

A pistol was found near his hand, giving rise to reports that he shot himself, but several bystanders insisted that one or more assailants fired on him at close range, disappearing into the crowd immediately afterwards.

Casaus drew his pistol as he fell, in an effort to return the fire, these persons said.

NEW DEAL IN U.S. DOOMED, BRITISH SCIENTISTS AVER

[Copyright: 1934: By the New York Times.]

ABERDEEN, Scotland, Sept. 10.—America's New Deal was pilloried without mercy today, chiefly by college professors, at the meeting of the British Association for the Advancement of Science.

Every speaker who mentioned the United States during the discussion of economic planning appeared to have his own grievance against President Roosevelt and his own reasons for thinking the American experiment is doomed.

Sir Josiah Stamp, famous banker and economist, found particular fault with the Roosevelt program for placing obstacles in the way of profits.

Stresses Need for Profit.

"What appals me about the American new order," he declared, "is not merely the speed at which things are being done, but the fact that men are being encouraged to suppose you can revive industry while you are still sitting on the mainspring. After all, the mainspring of all individualistic enterprise of any kind, outside Russia, is the making of profit. Unless you are getting people to make money, you will never get reëmployment.

"Yet this is the last thing that seems to have been thought of in America. If the result of all your regimentation is a red ink figure, you will always have a trade depression."

More resentful still was Prof. David MacGregor of Oxford, who complained bitterly that President Roosevelt was moving too fast and with "too much fuss."

"We dealt the cards of the New Deal long ago," he exclaimed. "It is not a New Deal at all, but it is just dealing in a hurry."

Industrial codes and social insurance, he said, had been part of the British economic picture ever since the Lloyd George budget of 1909.

Remark Draws Laughter.

"Roosevelt is now thinking of social insurance," he said, and there was a roar of laughter from the economists crowding the room.

"He is trying to crowd into six months what we in this country have accomplished over a period of 25 years. Yet our economists go to America and come back and shout through the microphone as though the American program were something new."

Another objection was voiced by Prof. Alexander Gray of Aberdeen university, who said the planners in the United States were overestimating the future population of their country.

"We know—as far as we can know these things—that the population of the United States is approaching a stationary stage," he said. "Can it be said that the United States has not in many respects builded for a larger population than it is likely to achieve?

Speakers Praise Planning.

"In such matters as railways, electricity, housing, and schools the relationship between population and demand is obvious and any plan must be framed on the assumption of a certain population."

Despite these and other attacks on the Roosevelt program, however, all speakers professed devotion to the ideal of planning. Their dilemma was expressed by Sir Josiah Stamp when he confessed that he was still trying to find his own "economic niche" somewhere between the communist planning of Russia and the old unrestrained individualism of the Coolidge era in the United States.

Uncoördinated individualism had led to many mistakes in the past, he said, but absolute planning was "equally likely to lead to a ghastly muddle."

INJURIES FROM FALL FATAL.

Fred Reinhardt, 47 years old, 2048 Southport avenue, died in the county hospital yesterday from injuries incurred in a fall on Sept. 3.

JUGO-SLAVS BOO IL DUCE AS BALBO VISITS DALMATIA

[Copyright: 1934: By the New York Times.]

BELGRADE, Sept. 10.—The visit of Gen. Italo Balbo, governor of Libya, to Dalmatia has been marked by anti-Italian demonstrations by the inhabitants of various Dalmatian towns.

Gov. Balbo arrived at Split [Spalato] on his yacht yesterday and was greeted by the Italian colony. From the balcony of the Italian consul's residence he delivered a speech. A crowd of natives of Split greeted the Italian demonstration by denunciations of Italy and boos for Mussolini and Fascism. The police charged the crowd several times before they could end the demonstration and enable Gov. Balbo to return to his yacht somewhat hastily. Ten young men arrested during the demonstration were sentenced to ten days in jail. Police took steps to prevent a resurrence of rioting.

Gov. Balbo arrived today at Sibenik, where the resident Italians acclaimed him. The police had taken special precautions because the townspeople had threatened to organize a large anti-Italian demonstration. Gov. Balbo left Dalmatian waters this evening after thanking Jugo-Slav authorities for their courtesy. Belgrade fears such visits by Italian officials are dangerous, because violence by young hotheads could cause serious trouble, endangering the peace of Europe.

"Give me but the liberty of the press and I will give to the minister a venal house of peers. I will give him a corrupt and servile house of commons. I will give him the full swing of the patronage of office. I will give him the whole host of ministerial influence. I will give him all the power that place can confer upon him, to purchase up submission and overawe resistance; and yet, armed with the liberty of the press, I will go forth to meet him undismayed. I will attack the mighty fabric of that mightier engine. I will shake down from its height corruption and bury it beneath the ruins of the abuses it was meant to shelter."
—Richard Brinsley Sheridan.

WHO'S GETTING THE BIG MONEY IN RELIEF?

The relief industry is the biggest in the United States today: bigger than steel, bigger than automobiles, bigger than meat packing. The government outlay has been running this summer at 125 million dollars or more a month. As winter and election day approach the cost will rise.

The political implications of this unprecedented pauperization of the American people cannot be exaggerated. Tammany built an almost impregnable political machine on picnics and an occasional sack of coal to the poor. Tammany never dreamed of such cash distributions as are being made today. In New York City alone the monthly dole amounts to nearly 14 million dollars in midsummer. Even if Mr. Hopkins, the almoner-in-chief, does not know what it is all about, the astute Mr. Farley does.

Despite claims of business betterment, the relief rolls are growing longer. The drouth is not an adequate explanation. It might account in part for the increase of 55.7 per cent in Illinois relief in rural areas between November, 1933, and June, 1934, but it can hardly explain the urban increase in the same period of 15.8 per cent.

These increases have occurred in spite of the fact that the number of relief administrators is mounting. These functionaries are supposed to restrict the benefits to the worthiest and neediest, but it is a matter of common knowledge that the increase in administrative personnel has not resulted in a proportionate saving. Rather the contrary. As Mr. Farley knows, every case worker, clerk, and stenographer in the relief industry is like the "clients" on a government pay roll. When the colleges reopen this autumn hundreds of "emergency" relief workers will receive additional training at government expense and their places will be filled by new case workers who no doubt will be waranted in regarding their jobs, also, as permanent.

Billions are being given to millions of voters, and millions are being paid to thousands of charity dispensers, who also have votes. Nor is that the whole story of the degradation and debauching of the electorate. An important aspect of the relief industry is the distribution of supplies, including such items as coal.

If a general policy on coal purchases has been formulated, the statement of it has escaped our notice. Presumably the method which was suggested as the one to be adopted in Chicago is being widely used. Competitive bidding was declared out. A list of dealers was to be posted from whom the relief recipients could order their coal, each family being free to order from the dealer of its choice.

How a dealer's name was to be placed on the favored list was not made clear, but may be guessed. How the quality of the coal delivered was to be checked as to weight and quality was not suggested. The price would have been high enough, in the opinion of some experienced observers, to encourage less scrupulous dealers to pay cash premiums to relief clients for the privilege of delivering fuel to them.

That scheme was put forward in all seriousness and nearly adopted. Only widespread publicity, accompanied by protests at the adoption of so wasteful a plan, led to its modification, and even now it is far from certain that a huge scandal is not in the making.

What is true of coal is, of course, no less true of a long list of supplies furnished by the relief industry to its pensioners. Tens of millions of dollars in purchases by the government are being made while the safeguards of specification, inspection, and competitive bidding are coming to be regarded in some instances as too troublesome to bother about.

Relief is a politician's paradise. It makes vote buying and contract irregularities respectable.

NEW DEAL PRAYER.

One thing of which the New Dealers very definitly cannot be accused is a refusal to accept new ideas. They decided at one time that national planning was a very fine thing, and later they announced it was not at all what they had in mind for the country. They fixed the price of bread one day, on the next they reported they were through with price fixing, and on the third they fixed tobacco prices. They took the air mail contracts away from private companies and gave them back again. They announced a sound currency must be maintained and they devaluated the dollar. They cracked down on three elderly Chicago sisters, ordered them to cease supporting themselves at home, and then graciously permitted them to start in again. They decided the national labor relations committee couldn't remove the Blue Eagle from the Chicago Motor Coach company, and then they took the company's Blue Eagle away anyway. They have alternately established and abandoned a multitude of projects. It is quite obvious that the New Deal prayer begins: "Give us this day our daily idea and forgive us what we thought yesterday."

ANOTHER SIDELIGHT ON PLANNING.

Mr. Ford has not given his reasons for expanding his steel mill at Detroit, but they are not hard to guess. Mr. Ford knows that if he is to sell automobiles they must be priced as low as possible. He knows that the existence of NRA has legalized price fixing in the steel industry and has therefore put the buyer at a great disadvantage. His only protection under the circumstances is to have his own steel mill with a capacity great enough to meet his normal requirements.

Mr. Ford is relatively fortunate. He needs so much steel that he can afford to build a mill of economical size. Also, he has the money with which to build it. All of his competitors are not so fortunately situated. They must still depend upon the steel companies. If Mr. Ford's steel mill gives him an advantage over them, they can thank the uniform price system created by NRA.

Incidentally, the announcement of Mr. Ford's plans may be read in connection with the claim of NRA enthusiasts that their scheme of control will prevent the construction of excess plant capacity. For three or four years now the steel mills of the country have been producing far less than their capacity. At present they are about two-thirds idle. Mr. Ford has been encouraged by NRA restrictions to add to the excess of plant and equipment.

THE PRODIGAL SON.

Recent intelligence from California indicates that Douglas Fairbanks is on what his English friends would term "the spot" in Hollywood. It is reliably reported that news reels of his arrival in New York, in which he said with a marked English accent that he was jolly glad to be back in America, have been hissed in that Pacific garden spot. In fact, so coldly has he been received in Hollywood he has retaliated by firing his press agent, refusing to see reporters and friends and going into seclusion.

His retirement has done nothing to lessen his place as the present topic of conversation for Hollywood. There is under constant discussion the terrible rumor that Fairbanks plans to desert California for a permanent home in England; a move so obviously a reflection on the sun kissed Golden state that it is likely to become a matter for official consideration by the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce. Then there are those who are dissatisfied with what rumor or report has alleged of Fairbanks' association with Lady Ashley.

But most important of all is the matter of Mary Pickford. His rift with America's sweetheart has cost Fairbanks much esteem in Hollywood. Their match, as it might be expressed in the illuminating, if somewhat confused, rhetoric of the Hollywood film magazine writer, was meant to be a thing apart, a thing eternal; its sublimity untrodden by the pointing finger of marital suspicion which has reared its ugly head in so many homes.

Fairbanks probably does not realize how important it is for him to win Mary back. He has been in England so long that he is not aware of the great change Hollywood has experienced since the silent flicker days when Jackie Coogan could try a cigar and Tony the Wonder Horse could eat some wild oats without creating a lot of unfavorable comment. He should be told of the idyl of Lupe Velez, the Quaker Maid, and Johnny Weissmuller; of the marital steadfastness of Gloria Swanson and Constance Bennett; of the devotion of John Gilbert to a single dream wife. It will become clear to him then why HIS divorce, which will point the spotlight of publicity on the movie capital, won't be tolerated by Hollywood.

Editorial of the Day

FIRST THINGS FIRST.

[Grand Rapids Press.]

With the federal government finding time to concern itself with widows making artificial flowers in their homes, the government of Michigan is scarcely to be blamed for checking up on kids along the Kent county roadside selling worms to fishermen. In seeking to collect the dollar license and the three per cent sales tax from these little merchants Michigan is only carrying out to a logical conclusion, as did Uncle Sam in Mrs. Budd's case, the principle contained in the bulk of the legislation passed within the last two years. This principle, arising from the growing ruthlessness of the chiseler, is that government should not only be a "partner" in business but also an active, club-wielding partner that polices the unruly members of the trade. In subscribing to this belief, business may be expected to call upon either the federal or state authorities for help when any uncoded or untaxed competition springs up to cut prices.

In the New York case the President found himself appealed to by the flower-making widow because the NRA had attempted to prevent price cutting in that industry by equalizing labor conditions. In Michigan the complaint of established fish bait stores who paid their taxes and licenses led the commonwealth to search out the little roadside salesmen and impose an equal burden on them to more nearly equalize costs and hence prevent price cutting.

The position in which the authorities are placed by such inconsequential appeals is an embarrassing one, for the government is made to appear much as a bully picking on the helpless. The fact is, however, that such a predicament is only the fruit of too much consistency in administration. Recovery of a sense of proportion must take place in governmental circles if the spectacle of worm sellers, flower makers and pants pressers being given an economically paternal slap is to be done away with. The big problems are just as challenging as the little ones and infinitely more important in demanding solution. In President Roosevelt's own words, "First things must come first."

SCOTLAND WAY.

A friend noticed Dugald riding along the street on a woman's bicycle.

"How came ye by that?" he asked.

"Well, it was like this," said Dugald. "I was walking out with Maggie the other evening, and when we came to a darkish part of the moor she looked up at me and said, 'I love ye, Dugald; I love ye so much I'll give ye anything ye like.' So when I had thought it over I took her bicycle."—London Tit-Bits.

THE FRENCH are certainly great optimists. One of their speakers at the anniversary of the battle of the Marne a couple of days ago said: "France and America may have sharp controversies or even quarrels, but they will be only temporary. At great moments we will find ourselves spontaneously side by side for right and justice." If it's a case of right and justice we may march right along by the side of the French; we're strong for right and justice. We may march by their side and fight by their side and die by their side. But darned if we'll lend 'em any more money.

"THE DUKE OF MARLBOROUGH Sponsors Currant Jelly."—Headline in Sunday's papers. Good old England, slow but sure. They may not be able to go lickety split from shirt sleeves to shirt sleeves in three generations, but if it takes 'em nearly three centuries to do it, they can go from Ramillies and Blenheim to sponsoring currant jelly!

THIS THING of the gals taking up a new fad and painting their faces green and putting some sort of illuminating paint where their eyebrows used to be has got me all worked up. How am I going to keep from driving my auto right straight into Mr. Lincoln's statue if I meet a green painted lady in Lincoln park? Barelegged blondes on bicycles have already made me dent my fenders three times against Mr. Lincoln's statue, and if the gals suddenly blossom out with their faces painted green—well, if the city council hasn't got any insurance on Mr. Lincoln's statue they'd better get some right away.

WORSE THAN WINTER.

Mist in the valley of my breast,
Or rain runs there:
Birds whipped to their hidden nest
By angry air.

All of sorrow has limped my way,
Even its heart broken.
That grief must build a longer day
Its only token.

I have not wept so much for winter
As I have for this:
That love could ever, ever splinter
Her own mouth's kiss.

THEY REALLY DO SOME THINGS in England much better than we do them over here. For instance, at Sir Oswald Mosley's Fascist rally in Hyde Park last Sunday the anti-Fascists did not hurl tear gas bombs, brickbats and naughty words at Sir Oswald and his Black Shirts. The dispatches from London say the crowd who didn't like the Fascists merely yelled at them. "Who put the pepper in the cat's milk?" It was a perfectly genteel and polite question and while it carried the remote suggestion that the English Fascists were ordinarily as meek and harmless as an old tabby cat until some rude person put pepper in her milk, still it could hardly be branded as a mortal insult. And from an English standpoint there was only one proper retort to be made to it: "I think you are distinctly rude and I wish you to go away from here immediately."

THE MAINE ELECTIONS are terrible things. Every time after they have one everybody we meet says, "Well, you know that as Maine goes, so goes the nation." There ought to be a law against it. Write to your congressman today!

"THE PERSISTENCE OF MEMORY," by the Spanish new school artist, Salvador Dali, which is mystifying so many visitors down at the Art institute, is really no mystery at all if you look at the picture a long time and use your brains. The watches, some soft boiled and some fried, which hang around limply in the picture, mean that your memory will get like that if you keep thinking and thinking over something that happened a long time ago and get it all heated up. When your memory gets heated it will melt and run all over the place and mess everything up. Memory should be kept cool and under perfect control and then it will click properly and not make any trouble. Or the picture may just be a warning against leaving your watch lying too long on a red hot stove. For, as you see in the painting, it doesn't do a watch a bit of good.

BLENDED WHISKY is all right, of course, but suppose you go into a whisky store and you are asked three bucks for a pint of blended whisky and you lay down in payment a silver dollar, a plugged quarter, three Canadian dimes, four used transfers on the North Clark street car, three rain checks to baseball games, a suspender button and six poker chips and say, "All right, I'm paying you blended money." Question: Would they throw you out the door or right through the plate glass window?

THE LOVELY THINGS MUST GO

All the lovely things must go—
Hyacinths and daffodils,
Cherry blossoms white as snow,
Violets on greening hills;

Roses born of sunny June,
Hollyhock and golden-glow:
Summer passes all too soon,
All the lovely things must go.

They will vanish, so today
I must live and laugh and sing,
Garner beauty by the way,
Cherishing each perfect thing.

Then when winter brings the cold
And the cerements of snow,
I shall have some dreams to hold,
Though the lovely things must go.

UPTON SINCLAIR says that if he is elected governor he can get "five times as much federal money for California as Gov. Merriam can." That's the stuff! We sovereign voters are commencing to get a strangle hold on politics at last. What's a government for anyhow? Huh! R. H. L.

MADAME CURIE AND RADIUM

LESS than forty years ago A. Henri Becquerel, then professor in the Paris Ecole Polytechnique, discovered that certain substances possessed radioactive properties. They produced an effect upon a photographic plate similar to that of sunlight. Through the use of uranium salts Becquerel was able to photograph the shadow cast by an aluminum plate. Later the mineral pitchblende was found to possess the same properties as uranium.

Becquerel interested Pierre Curie and his wife, Marie, in the phenomenon. They secured a ton of pitchblende (the mineral source of uranium) from the Austrian government and through an exceedingly laborious chemical process succeeded in extracting what is now known as the element radium. In 1903 the Curies shared with Becquerel the Nobel prize for the discovery of radioactivity. In 1911 the Nobel prize in chemistry was awarded Marie Curie.

In 1906 Pierre Curie was accidentally killed and to his post in the Sorbonne his wife succeeded him. Her recent death recalls our debt to the Curies for their outstanding contributions relative to the properties and uses of radium. It was not long before it was found that cancerous growths on the skin responded readily to the destructive action of radium. Then followed years of experimental work through which it was determined that not only skin cancer but malignant growths within deeper tissues would yield at least in part.

The world's supply of radium is approximately 20 ounces and of this amount nearly 8 ounces are owned in America. Because of the vast amount of labor involved in extracting this rare element the price is high. One-thirtieth of an ounce is priced at approximately $50,000. Radium-containing ores occur in the United States, chiefly in Utah and Colorado.

For use in the treatment of cancer radium is converted into a salt of the metal, usually the bromide, and is then sealed in platinum containers. These in turn are inclosed in either rubber or aluminum boxes.

The rays emitted by radium are known as alpha, beta, and gamma. Of these the gamma ray is the most powerful in destroying malignant cells. The alpha and beta rays are filtered out by the platinum in which the radium salt is encased, thus permitting the gamma rays to exert their full effect. For massive radium therapy the radium bomb has been devised. This apparatus usually contains from two to four grams of radium and is provided with numerous openings so as to permit the concentration of the gamma rays directly upon the malignant growth.

Radium must be carefully protected not only because of its great value but because of its danger. Radium burns can occur just as readily as burns from X-ray or a hot iron. They are often deep and are slow to heal. Before we learned how to handle radium, and the same was true for X-ray, many pioneer workers in the radium field died as a result of cancer originating in tissue burned with radium. Furthermore, radium causes marked destruction of the blood cells of the body with resulting anemia, and it was this slow progressive anemia, no doubt caused by her exposure to radium, that finally claimed the life of Marie Curie.

Fortunately for progress in radiology, the daughter of Pierre and Marie Curie, Irene, and her husband, F. Joliot, are carrying on investigation and adding new laurels to those already achieved by the Curie family.

Quinidine is used for what is called auricular fibrillation. This is a condition in which the auricles beat many times to each beat of the ventricle. Quinidine should not be taken continuously except on the advice of a physician. Poor circulation is probably the cause of your tired feeling.

TEHERAN, Persia.—One hundred airplanes, included in the reported large order placed in England by the Persian war department, have already been delivered at a Persian gulf port. They are being put together to be piloted to Teheran by the young Persian officers who have been taught flying in other planes.

So far it has been impossible to find out the exact number of planes in this large purchase which are of American make. There is no doubt whatever that American airplanes are included in the purchase in England, however, for the last 40 American planes which came from London not long ago have given complete satisfaction to Shah Riza Khan and to the military authorities in general.

No Persian department under the present régime is so strict in holding back news as the war office, however, and therefore it is impossible to discover the number of planes supplied by the United States.

Persia's five year plan for the development of an air force is a huge one. But the physical nature of the country, with its large tracts of mountains, hills, and deserts, is such that land forces of any nature cannot be of great service to the country. It is only recently that Riza Khan, who is by Persian constitutional law head of the army and navy, has begun to limit greatly the expenditures on land forces, in which Persia is now fairly strong, and to follow the example of the western states in attaching more importance to the air force.

Persia can do much in this way for at least one-third of the country's yearly increasing revenue is swallowed by the war office, and it would cause no surprise if Persia's purchases in planes should rise to hundreds every year.

IMPROVEMENT.

Mattoon, Ill., Sept. 7.—No doubt everybody in the United States disagrees somewhere along the line with the Roosevelt New Deal policies. I myself have a few pet grievances. However, I am sure that this country has been for a number of years, to quote a plain speaking friend, "in one hell of a fix."

Conditions are much better today than they were two years ago when we were voting for Roosevelt instead of Hoover, and when THE TRIBUNE was for Roosevelt because he wanted to change the constitution by repeal of the 18th amendment.

Fifty cent corn is a lot better for the farmer than ten cent corn. Eight cent hogs are better for the farmer than three cent hogs. Two hundred dollars a ton for broomcorn is better for the farmer than $80 and $100. The farmers of central Illinois are beginning to see daylight in their long climb from the Republican depression hole. The benefits the farmers are now receiving will be passed on to others. The railroads will receive their share because the farm products are moving instead of being used for fuel or left to rot in the fields. The farmers are paying their debts to merchants and to banks. The Roosevelt administration is really doing something to benefit the people of the country as a whole.

For God's sake let us use a little ordinary horse sense and stand by an administration that is really trying to pull us out of the hole.

What business is it to the people of Illinois if the Democrats of California want Upton Sinclair for governor? Roosevelt realizes that he has no authority to dictate the nominees for governors of the states. It seems that some United States senators feel that they ought to be permitted to name nominees for governor. Do they all want to be Huey Longs? EDWARD F. POORMAN.

FALSE PRETENSES!

Chicago, Sept. 7.—I am not a lawyer, but am under the impression that obtaining money under false pretenses is a crime.

How about politicians, including the President, who obtain well salaried positions by making promises before election which they break immediately after they obtain their positions and the money? We elected Roosevelt and Democratic senators and congressmen on their platform promising to cut expenses, balance the budget, preserve the money standard, and immediately after obtaining positions and the salaries connected with them they turn around and do the opposite. O. A. H.

OF A DIFFERENT BREED.

Evanston, Ill., Sept. 6.—I have just read the resolutions adopted by the National Council of Methodist Youth. My Methodist forbears were of a different breed. My grandfather preached fifty-two years, and neither his Methodism nor his Christianity seems to have been injured by the fact that he was a chaplain in the Union army, that his son was a lieutenant in the Union army, and two of his daughters were nurses during the civil war.

"Greater love hath no man than this, that a man lay down his life for his friends"; if the Methodist youth of today followed this gospel teaching would they not feel dulce et decorum est pro patria mori? So my father felt when he enlisted in 1861 and served four years with the Union army. It was his proudest boast that he "fought with Thomas at Chickamauga and marched with Sherman from the mountains to the sea." LUCY S. STEWART.

NURSES' HOURS AND PAY.

Chicago, Sept. 6.—Since every one else is gone on a strike for shorter hours, what do you say if we nurses do the same? Our hours are from twelve to twenty and even twenty-four. At least some of the public would like to have us work twenty-four. We also work seven days a week, holidays, and Sundays. Our salary is cut to almost nothing.

We work three to four years for nothing for our training, and, believe me, we work. Couldn't all the registries, and especially the doctors, help us out? Where would the public and the doctors be if it wasn't for us nurses? RUTH HARRIS, R. N.

EVERYBODY'S BUSINESS.

Chicago, Sept. 7.—In the heart of Hyde Park there is an eight flat building bankrupted by the state taxes and gutted by the neighborhood hoodlums, so that more money may be required to make the building livable than the building is worth.

Now I would like to know if the future government owned building projects will receive the same dose of hoodlumism due to everybody's business being nobody's business. The wrecked building is in the 5400 block of Kenwood avenue. G. M. GRIDLEY.

BUILDING STRUCTURALLY SAFE.

Chicago, Sept. 8.—[Friend of the People.]—We are sending you a copy of a letter sent to the mayor, the fire department, health and smoke nuisance bureaus, relating to action to condemn an unsafe building in our neighborhood. We have written numerous times, but have not been able to get any results.

N. N, O.

I have had a very careful examination made of this building, including all of its structural parts, and it has been found to be in structurally safe condition. The building is old, and in need of carpentry and several coats of paint, but only structural faults justify condemnation. The authority to condemn a building can only be exercised by this department when the building is a menace to public safety. However, this department will use all means within its power to have the condition of the building remedied. RICHARD E. SCHMIDT,

"USING THE MAILS TO DEFRAUD."

Stoughton, Wis., Sept. 7.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Can you give me any information in your column on [1] what constitutes using the mails to defraud, and [2] what the punishment is for infringing on patents? H. R. H.

1. The term itself seems reasonably descriptive. Obviously, it would be easier for you to state your facts than for us to try to cover all possible facts.

2. In general, the patent holder is entitled to recover damages that he sustained by the infringement.

ANOTHER TAX CUT FOR SMALL HOME OWNERS URGED

437,000 Entitled to a 5% Reduction.

Recommendation of a further reduction in taxes for Cook county's 437,000 single home and small flat owners was chief among a series of important developments in the tax situation yesterday.

GEORGE F. NIXON.

The recommendation was made by George F. Nixon, Republican member of the board of tax appeals, who estimated that home owners are entitled to a reduction of from $2,000,000 to $3,000,000 in their 1931 and 1932 tax bills to give them equality with other taxpaying groups.

Almost simultaneous with Mr. Nixon's recommendation came a ruling by County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki that six of the 1932 tax levies, representing $15,625,624, were illegal, and that 7 per cent of the taxpayers who protested the levies at the time of payment are entitled to refunds.

Nash Disburses $13,557,000.

Another development of the day was the disbursement by County Treasurer Nash of $13,557,165 of 1932 tax collections he had held up pending disposition of protests made by taxpayers while paying their bills.

Mr. Nixon's recommendation was based on 5 per cent tax reductions allowed railroads and other large property interests on their plea that certain tax rates were illegal or excessive.

"Smaller taxpayers have inquired whether they too are entitled to a similar reduction," Mr. Nixon said. "The board has served notice that it will not tolerate discrimination between any classes of taxpayers."

Applies to 1932 Taxes.

He declared that small home owners "unquestionably" are entitled to the 5 per cent reduction, and added that "not to extend this adjustment to the great mass of the taxpaying public would be to perpetuate a discriminatory tax levy." The proposed reduction would apply chiefly to 1932 taxes, he said, since most of the 1931 bills have already been paid.

Of the $13,537,165 released by the county treasurer after Judge Jarecki had made his ruling, $8,850,000 went to the city. Other taxing bodies and the amounts they received are: State, $1,100,000; sanitary district, $1,150,000; south parks, $900,000; west parks, $200,000; forest preserves, $190,000; Lincoln park registered bonds, $150,000; county, $480,000; country towns, $369,365; northwest parks, $21,500; Irving Park, $13,000; Lake View township, $10,000; North Chicago township, $8,000; Lincoln park commission, $75,000; Old Portage parks, $6,150; River parks, $3,000; Albany parks, $2,000; Jefferson parks, $2,700; North Shore parks, $4,250; Ridge avenue parks, $1,500; Forest Glen parks, $100; Hollywood parks, $300; Ravenswood Manor parks, $200, and Sauganash parks, $100.

$1,000,000 Is Withheld.

In his announcement of his release of tax money on the strength of Judge Jarecki's ruling, the county treasurer said he was withholding about $1,000,000, which would be ample to care for refunds made necessary under the ruling. A majority of the objectors paid only 90 per cent of their 1932 tax bills and thus will not be entitled to refunds, he said.

The sanitary district will use 23 per cent of its share to take up tax anticipation warants, and the remainder to redeem bonds and pay interest. The schools' share will be used to call in tax warants.

The improved tax situation was reflected in an announcement by Mayor Kelly yesterday that city employés, starting tomorrow, will begin receiving $1,900,000, their salaries for the last two weeks in July. Next week they will get their pay for the first half of August, and on Oct. 1 the rest of the August salaries will be paid, Mayor Kelly said. Then salaries for city workers will be only a month in arrears, and efforts are being made to take up this slack by Jan. 2.

Crotalaria or Rattlebox.

BY FRANK RIDGWAY.

September 10, 1934.

THERE was great relief when Clarence Thurow came running out of the house this afternoon to tell his fellow workers that he had found in his dictionary an easy name for crotalaria, a new and strange legume now growing at the farm. From now on crotalaria will be called "rattlebox"; that is the name found in the dictionary. Not many years ago the word alfalfa was a stranger to farmers. Before many years the name crotalaria may become as common as alfalfa.

Ever since the crotalaria seed arrived last spring that name has been backfiring on the tongues of men at the farm.

Crotalaria is a legume, of about 600 species. Only four are being grown this season on THE TRIBUNE experimental farm; they all are annuals. Crotalaria incana appears to have made the best showing of the four species being tested. The plants of this species are through blooming. Most of them are from 25 to 32 inches tall. They have medium sized pods, each containing many seeds. They resemble short, fat peapods, about two inches long. The plants are fairly thick in the rows. The seeds of incana seem to have germinated better than the other three varieties of crotalaria.

Blossoms began coming out about July 10 and continued for about two months. Men at the farm say it would likely make a good hay crop. The test crop would yield hay at the rate of about a ton and a half to the acre. It may prove to be a good crop to plant after early grain crops have failed. Crotalaria incana hay is considered more valuable than alfalfa.

Rattlebox is the name applied here to East Indian crotalaria juncea, a species that yields sunn or Madras hemp that is lighter and stronger than jute. It is used for rope and bags.

Crotalaria juncea plants made a fair showing in the test plots on the farm. They are a fibrous crop that apparently could be used for pasture if grazed down early in the season. Otherwise it would be necessary to harvest it for fiber or turn it under to improve the soil. It is not considered good for hay.

The juncea plants at the farm are now about 5 feet tall except where the rabbits nipped them back early in the summer. The plants are about five inches apart in the rows. None has bloomed but some of them are beginning to develop heads. They might mature if planted early enough for the crop to have at least 200 days. Men at the farm believe that juncea's greatest value this far north would be in plowing it under to enrich the soil.

Crotalaria striata, one of the four in the test plots, has been given second place at the farm. It appears to be late. It was only about nine inches high on July 15, when incana was two feet tall. Striata today is only about 15 to 18 inches tall. It has been blooming since the middle of August. Practically all of the flowers are open. The yield is estimated to be at the rate of only one-half a ton of hay to the acre.

Two different kinds of crotalaria spectabilis, Nos. 18096 and 22059, are in the test. The first one is nearly through blooming, while the second one has not yet opened any of its flowers. The plants of both are now from 30 to 36 inches high.

No. 18096 has fat pods, large ribbed leaves, and as it gets older the main stalks become more fibrous and the plant loses its feeding value. It would make poor hay compared with incana or striata. It began blooming about Aug. 10. New plants have sprung up in the rows lately, indicating that some of the seeds did not germinate until extremely late. This delay would be unlikely in a normal year. No. 22059 appears to be rather late for this section of the country. Both of the spectabilis varieties are worth trying as midseason forage crops.

COOK LOSES LEAD AMONG COUNTIES IN RELIEF OUTLAY

Averages 17th Because of Drouth Downstate.

Cook county has failed for the first time to outrank all other Illinois counties in the average amount expended on its relief recipients, according to figures made public yesterday by the Illinois Relief commission. In fact, Cook county has fallen to 17th place. Its average outlay per resident family declined from $37.41 in June to $33.98 in July.

Downstate relief payments, on the other hand, increased because the drouth entailed purchases of seed, of feed for farm stock, and of necessaries for farm families.

State Average Increases.

Chief Statistician Robert J. Myers of the IERC, who made the survey, said that the state-wide increase of 18 cents for the average relief case would have been substantially more had it not been for the decrease in Cook county, which in July had 126,667 families on the rolls. Meanwhile the downstate average rose from $20.44 to $23.44, because of 9,383 families getting drouth relief.

Ogle county, one of the regions most afflicted by the drouth, was at the top of the list with an average outlay of $62.57 a family. It has 87 families receiving drouth aid. Three counties, Boone, Ford, and Grundy, reported averages between $50.01 and $60. They listed a total of 186 getting drouth relief, besides those drawing aid of other kinds.

Heavy Outlay Groups.

An average family budget of from $40.01 to $50.00 was reported by six counties, Brown, Hancock, Iroquois, McHenry, Marshall, and Stark. This group had a total of 1,145 families getting drouth relief, led by McHenry, the dairy county north of Chicago, with 435, and Iroquois with 309.

Also ahead of Cook county were Fulton, Henderson, and Kankakee counties, where the relief averaged between $35.01 and $40. They had 289 families on the drouth aid list.

Seven counties were bracketed with Cook county in the group which received between $30.01 and $35 on an average per family in July. They were De Kalb, Du Page, Knox, Lee, Mercer, Putnam, and Woodford. Knox county contributed 517 drouth stricken families to this group's total of 1,197. Cook county had 136 families receiving the special aid.

CHARGE WASHINGTON RELIEF SEEKERS MOTOR TO BUREAU FOR DOLE

Washington, D. C., Sept. 10.—(AP)—The Washington Taxpayers' Protective association contended today that relief seekers at a local office of the federal surplus commodity distribution bureau arrived in taxicabs, private cars, and in one instance in a truck belonging to the United States senate.

The organization said an actual checkup showed 10 per cent of the 6,000 who received relief from Aug. 29 to Sept. 5 arrived at the bureau in automobiles.

Resale value of the cars was placed at $60,000.

DISTRICT FIXES PARK TAX RATE UNDER 24 CENTS

The Chicago park district adopted yesterday its 1934 tax levy, totaling $19,956,612.03, and prepared to begin the administration of properties of 22 small park units it superseded.

The 1934 tax levy which, with $400,795.57 receipts from various park concessions and other revenues will care for the $20,357,407.60 budget adopted last week, is to be spread against an estimated 1933 valuation of $2,295,596,744, bringing the tax rate for corporate purposes within a 24 cent limit, 6 cents under the 30 cent tax limit fixed by law.

The levy, to be filed with the county clerk today, will be for all park purposes, including $10,355,451 for obligations of superseded parks. Of the total $5,433,232 will go to meet the actual 1934 operating costs of the park district.

The park commissioners yesterday elected James M. Slattery, former Lincoln park attorney, attorney for the district board.

RULES COUNTY IS ENTITLED TO TAX PENALTIES

Assistant State's Attorney Hayden Bell in charge of tax matters, in an opinion yesterday, held that the county alone is entitled to penalties paid on delinquent taxes. Although in normal times these penalties averaged about $500,000 a year, the total last year, because of delays in tax payments, was about $10,000,000.

The opinion is directly opposed to one given several months ago by Attorney General Otto Kerner, which maintained that such penalties should be prorated the same as other tax revenues.

"Penalties should properly go toward the cost of collecting taxes," Mr. Bell said in commenting on his ruling. "County budgets anticipate this revenue, without which it would be necessary to levy an additional rate to cover collection costs."

Although suits to compel proration have been threatened since he gave a similar opinion in 1920, none has ever materialized, Mr. Bell said. Attempts to legislate in favor of proration have also failed, he pointed out.

DON'T LET COMMON CONSTIPATION DULL THE JOY OF LIVING

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN Brings Relief

Constipation takes the sunshine out of your days. It may bring headaches, loss of appetite and energy, sleeplessness, sallow skins, pimples.

Fortunately, you can avoid this condition by eating a delicious cereal. Laboratory tests show that Kellogg's ALL-BRAN provides two things needed to help overcome common constipation: "bulk" and vitamin B. ALL-BRAN is also a rich source of blood-building iron.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that of leafy vegetables. Within the body it forms a soft mass. Gently it clears out the intestinal wastes.

How much better than dosing yourself with patent medicines. Two tablespoonfuls of ALL-BRAN daily are usually sufficient. With each meal in chronic cases. If seriously ill, see your doctor—ALL-BRAN is not a "cure-all."

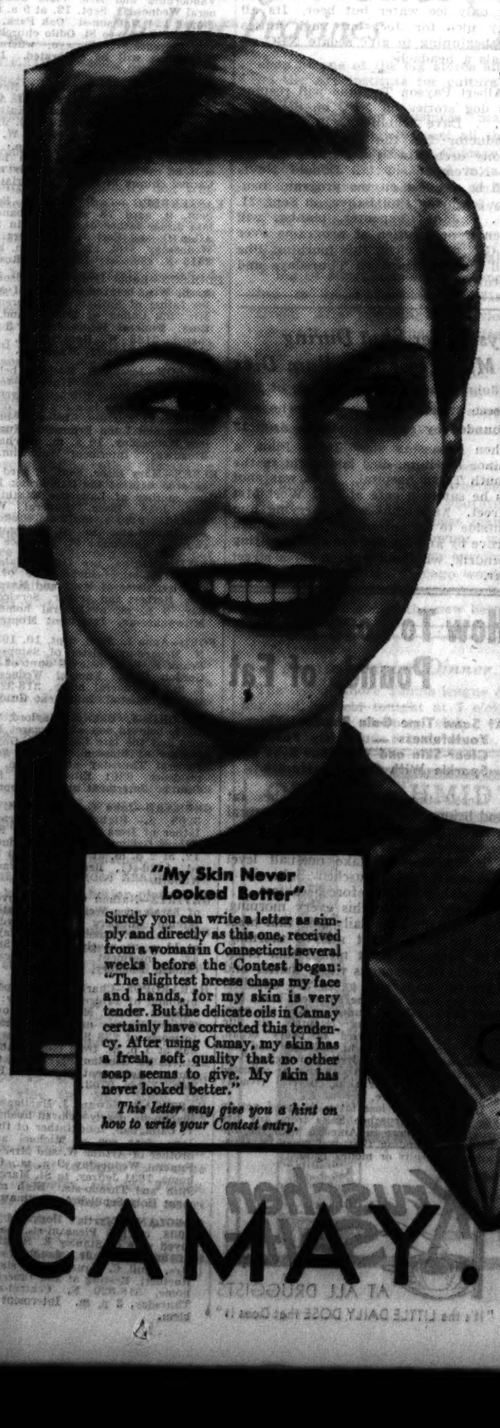
FOR A SHORT, SIMPLE LETTER ON . . .
"Why Camay is the Best Beauty Soap for My Skin."



"My Skin Never Looked Better"

Surely you can write a letter as simply and directly as this one, received from a woman in Connecticut several weeks before the Contest began: "The slightest breeze chaps my face and hands, for my skin is very tender. But the delicate oils in Camay certainly have corrected this tendency. After using Camay, my skin has a fresh, soft quality that no other soap seems to give. My skin has never looked better."

This letter may give you a hint on how to write your Contest entry.

Enter Now!
BEFORE IT'S TOO LATE!

CAMAY, the Soap of Beautiful Women, is one of the most popular beauty soaps in America. Thousands of women use it. It's such a pure, creamy-white, delicate soap. It lathers so generously. It keeps the feminine skin so smooth and lovely.

And to get 2,000,000 more women to try Camay, Procter & Gamble, the makers of Camay, planned this Prize Contest.

Think what it would mean, to win $1,000 a year—every year—all your life long! That's just the first prize. 553 other big cash prizes—each to be paid to some woman like yourself! See the list at the right.

Consider This—
$1,000 a Year!

How much happiness it could bring you! A whole new wardrobe of clothes! A chance to indulge your hobby! A grand vacation!

Read the rules. Then try Camay. Before you've used it very long you'll discover how gentle Camay is on your skin.

Next, write 100 words or less on why you prefer Camay. Write on a plain piece of paper and attach to your letter 3 green and yellow Camay wrappers or 3 copies drawn by yourself. Then mail it—don't delay another day! No entry blank required.

Simple and Sincere Letters Are Wanted

You don't have to be an expert writer to win this contest. A brief, clear statement is better than a complicated literary effort. Simple, sincere, easy-to-write letters are sure to win the prizes.

As you use Camay you'll notice how gently it cleanses, how soft and fresh it leaves your skin. Even if you don't win a money prize—the improvement in your complexion will be a worthwhile reward. For Camay is almost sure to benefit your skin as it has done for thousands of women who use it.

100 EXTRA PRIZES FOR QUICK ACTION

If your entry is received between September 15 and September 30, 1934, it may be awarded a special prize of $10 to be given for each of the 100 best letters received from women during this period. Winning one of these prizes will not in any way affect your opportunity for winning one of the 554 regular Contest prizes.

MOTORIST KILLED IN HEAD-ON CRASH WITH STREET CAR

Pedestrian Hurt by Truck That Hit Trolley Dies.

Charles Phillips, 85 years old, of 7503 Jeffery avenue, was killed yesterday when his automobile collided head-on with a crowded street car in Wentworth avenue near 42d street. The crash shook about 40 passengers on the street car, but none was hurt. John Wolf, 4878 Magnolia avenue, motorman of the street car, told Stockyards police he did not see the automobile until it struck. He was taken to the police station for questioning. Phillips, a salesman for the H. Lang & Son Ice company, was driving a company car. He was divorced, and had three children.

This death and four others increased the 1934 toll of traffic deaths in Cook county to 829. The others:

Edward Fritz, 22 years old, 567 Madison street, died in the West Side hospital. He was struck on Madison and Market streets by a newspaper truck which overturned after colliding with a street car. John McCastland, 29 years old, 7159 Yale avenue, driver of the truck, was taken to St. Luke's hospital in a serious condition.

Miss Sophie Paske, 43 years old, 1240 Sinnott place, died at the county hospital Sunday of injuries incurred on Wednesday when she was struck by a truck while alighting from a street car in front of 1106 West Grand avenue.

John O'Toole, 72 years old, of 6200 South Winchester avenue. Died in the Southtown hospital of injuries suffered Aug. 26 when he was struck by an automobile driven by John Schaefer, 31, of 6424 South Damen avenue, at Damen avenue and 63d street.

Louis Siebold, 70 years old, of 5712 South Laflin street. Died at the Southtown hospital of injuries suffered Saturday when he was hit by a car driven by Robert Roegner, 20 years old, of 21124 Homewood avenue, Homewood, at Ashland avenue and 53d street.

Wheaton Boy Fatally Hurt.

Earl Allen, 6 years old, was fatally injured when he ran behind a delivery truck which was backing out of the driveway alongside the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Allen, 724 South West street, Wheaton.

The body of Mrs. Marion V. Montgomery, wife of John R. Montgomery Sr., former president of the Illinois and Chicago Bar associations, will be brought here from Jamestown, N. D., where she died Sunday of injuries incurred in an automobile accident near there Wednesday. Mrs. Montgomery, who was 64 years old, lived in Hubbard Woods.

JOSEPH KAROLYI DIES IN HUNGARY; LED LEGITIMISTS

[Copyright: 1934 By the New York Times.]

BUDAPEST, Sept. 10.—Count Joseph Karolyi, leader of the Hungarian legitimists died today after a lingering illness. He was 50 years old.

Count Karolyi enjoyed the special confidence of the former Empress Zita of Austria-Hungary and was a proponent of moderation in legitimist policies. In the last two years his illness prevented him from participating actively in the movement. Count Anton Sigray acting as his deputy.

It is believed that Count Sigray will succeed him as leader, in which case a more active policy is likely to be followed looking toward restoration of the Hapsburgs in Hungary.

News of the Radio Stations

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

When Freeman Gosden [Amos] arrives on Saturday morning from California he will be hiding behind a mustache. While vacationing in Alaska Amos developed a substantial beard, which his wife implored him to cut off. A compromise was effected. Amos chopped off all the whiskers except the handle bars. Charlie Correll [Andy] will get in from Europe on Thursday. He plans a week-end fishing trip to recuperate from his vacation. When Amos 'n' Andy return to the air on Monday they will no longer be heard on WMAQ, but will do their stuff twice each evening—at 6 o'clock and again at 10—over WENR-NBC. Frank Buck, who has been pinch-hitting for the comedians and intrenching for a long stay in broadcasting himself, will move his radio show to New York next month while he makes a number of personal appearances in the east.

Henry Weber, W-G-N's new musical director, is leaving for New York today for a several weeks' stay. While there he will see the première of Max Gordon's "The Great Waltz," in which Marion Claire, his wife, will be starred.

Commemorating Paul Revere day at the Colonial Village at the Fair in a broadcast over KYW and NBC at 1:30 o'clock today, E. H. R. Revere, great-grandson of the illustrous Paul, and Rufus C. Dawes, great-grandson of William Dawes, who spread the British alarm in another direction, will discuss reasons why Dawes' ancestor is not as well known as Revere's. DeWolf Hopper will read Longfellow's famous poem about the midnight ride.

"What radio needs," Joe Cook asserted the night he made his bow on the now well known NBC House Party show, "is a microphone that dispenses ice water." Now when Cook does his "balanced" broadcast from the top of a revolving ball he has at hand a red, white, and blue mike, which—when the ball careens against a foot pedal—will dispense not only ice water but beer. Its all very nice for Joe, but such antics are beginning to give sedate NBC officials a headache.

Albert Payson Terhune will resume his dog stories on NBC on Sept. 23. . . . Dave Rubinoff will be guest conductor for the Cincinnati Symphony orchestra at a regular concert in November. . . . Donald Novis will be a guest on the program, usually featuring Phil Baker, on Sept. 21. . . . Jane Carpenter, pianist, will open a new series of programs over W-G-N at 9 o'clock this morning. She will also be heard on Thursdays and Saturdays.

Bystander Shot During Murder of Hoodlum Dies

John Sandrik, 23 years old, of 1018 Reese street, Whiting, Ind., who was wounded by stray bullets on Aug. 12 when assassins slew Jerry Pilot, a minor hoodlum, died last night in the South Town hospital. Pilot was shot as he sat in a café at 3201 West 51st street. As friends were carrying him outside to an automobile, the gunmen drove by and opened fire again, hitting Sandrik, who was waiting for a street car.

How To Lose 20 Pounds of Fat

At Same Time Gain Physical Vigor—Youthfulness — Swiftly Possess a Clear Skin and Vivacious Eyes That Sparkle With Glorious Health.

Here's the recipe that banishes fat and brings into blossom all the natural attractiveness that every woman possesses.

Every morning take one-half level teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts in a cup of hot water before breakfast.

Be sure and do this every morning, for "It's the little daily dose that takes off the fat."—Don't miss a morning. The Kruschen habit means that every particle of poisonous waste matter and harmful acids and gases are expelled. At the same time the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels are tuned up and the pure, fresh blood containing Nature's six life giving salts are carried to every organ, gland, nerve and fibre of the body and this is followed by "that Kruschen feeling" of energetic health and activity that is reflected in bright eyes, clear skin, cheerful vivacity and charming figure.

If you want to lose fat with speed get an 85c bottle of Kruschen Salts from any live druggist anywhere in America with the distinct understanding that you must be satisfied with results or money back.

Smart Clubs Prepare for Party Season

Casino Being Redecorated —Busy Nights Ahead.

BY JUDITH CASS.

THE smart little Casino on East Delaware place that has been quiet during the summer months is the scene of great activity these days for it is being redecorated and put into shape for the fall opening on the 18th, a week from today. No changes in the attractive decorative scheme are being made, just a general renovating and cleaning up of the familiar furnishings, but the bar that was opened last May proved so popular that it is being enlarged. A room that was a private dining room—since repeal private dining rooms aren't in such demand as they were during the prohibition era—is being turned into a part of the moderne red, black, white and chromium beverage room that Ambrose C. Cramer designed for the club.

Having just returned from Ontario where the rooms in which beers and wines are served are called beverage rooms, we have decided that that is a far better name than any of the nomenclature by which we designate public or semi-public places in which American women imbibe alcoholic beverages.

The Casino is a busy place now, but it will be a much busier one during the Christmas holidays for already it is booked solidly for private parties during that jolly season and the lights will not be extinguished in it until long after midnight any night during the time the debutante and the school sets are having their gay holiday whirl.

Plans for resuming the popular Thursday night buffet dinners and entertainment will be discussed at a board meeting early in October and the annual meeting will be held in December.

Smart Arts Club to Reopen Oct. 1.

The Arts club, another smart club that has been dark all summer, will reopen on or about Oct. 1 with a tea, but the exhibition season will not start until November. Mrs. Charles B. Goodspeed, the president, made arrangements for some very interesting shows when she was in Paris early in the summer, but it isn't certain as yet which exhibition will be here in time to be the first to be hung in the galleries this year.

Miss Alice Roullier, the capable and energetic exhibition chairman, is returning today or tomorrow from a ten days' visit to the members of the Winterbotham clan who are summering in Vermont, and before long she and Mrs. Goodspeed will have formulated plans for the club's exhibition season. No changes are being made in the decorations and furnishings of this club which occupies rooms on the second floor of the North Wrigley building, either, so it still will be a reminder and a monument to the talent and distinctive taste of its creator and long time president, the late Rue Winterbotham Carpenter.

The Fortnightly clubhouse on Bellevue place, another that was closed during the summer, already is open to members but the official opening will not take place until the last of this week. The Fortnightly, the Friday, and the Contemporary clubs, the literary societies that meet in its spacious and charming rooms every winter, will not resume their meetings until October.

Visits Mrs. P. C. Hill and Mrs. Winterbotham.

Miss Roullier visited Mrs. Patrick C. Hill [Ginny Carpenter] at Charlotte and Mrs. John H. Winterbotham at Vergennes. The latter's daughter, Mrs. Alfred P. Shaw, and her little son, are visiting in Vergennes and Mrs. Shreve Badger is leaving next Tuesday to join her mother and sister for a vacation. She has been so busy all summer working with Miss Peggy Hambleton arranging the fashion shows in the Good Housekeeping Gardens at the Fair that she hasn't been able to leave home, but the last show is to be given on Friday of this week and then she will take a rest of about a month.

Miss Priscilla Morse and Miss Durie Malcolm are to be the debutantes in Friday's show which is entitled "A Debutante's Tea." Miss Malcolm made her debut last Saturday and Miss Morse will make hers this coming Saturday.

Plan Many Parties for Eleanor Cushman.

Numerous parties are being given for Miss Eleanor Cushman who will be married a week from tomorrow to Charles H. G. Kimball.

Last Friday Mrs. Dudley Palmer and her daughter Anne, gave a tea at home. Today Mrs. Frank H. Sims is giving a luncheon for the bride-to-be at the apartment of her father, Frank McNair, on Lake Shore drive and tomorrow Mrs. William B. McKenzie will give a luncheon at her home in Hubbard Woods.

Miss Eleanor Sherman has planned a tea and kitchen shower for Friday afternoon at her home and has placed a limit of 50 cents on the cost of the gifts.

Miss Antoinette Lackner will give the spinster dinner at her home in Winnetka Friday evening, and since the bride and her attendants all will wear the dresses they wore at their debuts the dinner should be a merry one. The elongated hip lines and uneven skirt lengths will provoke reminiscences as well as furnish a good deal of laughter. Mr. Kimball will have his bachelor dinner at the same time, provided enough of the out-of-town ushers are here that evening.

Miss Jean Armstrong and her brother, Frank H. Armstrong II., will give a dinner Saturday night at the Glenview club, and Sunday Miss Helen Bell will give a sports luncheon at the Winnetka home of her parents, the Laird Bells. That evening Miss Virginia Hobart will enter-

Miss Eleanor Kirkland, a fashionable tennis enthusiast, who will be presented to society on Saturday.

Miss Eleanor Kirkland is one of the seven young girls who will be presented formally to society this coming Saturday. She will be introduced at a tea to be given by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Weymouth Kirkland, in Lake Forest, where two of the other buds will receive that afternoon also. They are Miss Caryl Ely and Miss Priscilla Morse.

The others who will make their debuts Saturday are Miss Deborah Butler, Miss Frances McPherson, Miss Barbara Bersbach, and Miss Charlotte Chandler, all of Winnetka.

The first three will make their bows at teas and Miss Chandler at a dance. Miss Kirkland will not be here for the entire season, for she is returning to Vassar, where she will be a sophomore, later this month, but she will be at home to take part in the gay whirl that is a debutante's life during the Christmas holidays.

Front Views and Profiles

By June Provines

A READER, seeing the story in Saturday's column about Michael MacLiammoir and his vision of a ghostly door swinging open in his bedroom, during a visit in Ravinia, and a ghostly dog trotting through, was struck by a coincidence. The pet that had been killed by a speeding motor, two years before, accurately described by Mr. MacLiammoir, as well as the present dog, Mary Seraskier—Mimsey for short — had been named after characters in "Peter Ibbetson."

Coincidence—Retort—Spelling—Sightseeing.

"You will recall that in 'Peter Ibbetson,' the Duchess of Towers, née Mary Seraskier, was Peter's companion during his revisitations of childhood scenes," she writes. "These visits he called 'dreaming true.' . . . Mr. MacLiammoir's experiences in 'dreaming true' seem parallel with those of Peter Ibbetson, and the coincidence of nomenclature even between a family pet and the heroine of the book made it impossible to resist writing information you probably possess already."

WHEN John P. Harding received his appointment as president of the civil service commission, an enterprising photographic studio rang him up to ask if he would make an appointment for a sitting.

"No, I have all the photographs of myself that I want," said Mr. Harding.

The young woman on the telephone was very insistent.

"But," she pleaded finally, "we can take a much better picture of you than you already have."

"My dear young lady, if you took a better picture of me somebody else would have to sit for it," he retorted.

FROM the new Chicago publication Inland Topics:

"The average child comes to Chicago to see the Enchanted Island, ride the Sky Ride, the double-decker bus and to do the zoo.

"The average humans in their twenties want to dance to Wayne King's orchestra, see the Follies, and buy something with a smart Chicago label in it, to proudly show the folks back home.

"The average matron wants to shop at one of the big stores and do the Art institute for culture's sake.

"The average business man comes to Chicago to meet all the charming hostesses in Chicago's night clubs, get plastered in all the well known bars, see Sally Rand, and incidentally put over a big business deal."

IN the morning mail. "Speaking of signs, here's one belonging to an undertaker on 31st street. After itemizing the service accorded for $75, the advertiser adds:

"'One Herse and Lemonsine.'

THINKING over the above we find it hard to decide whether we're child, average youthful human, matron or business man. If we were an out-of-towner, we feel sure that included in our list of things to do in Chicago would be the zoo, the Follies, the Art institute, and some of the new bars.

Dinner Dresses Offer Glamor for the Thrifty

They're of Slinky Velvet That Pleases Youth.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Poking around the shops looking for new things with which to intrigue your interest, we found some ravishing new dinner and dance dresses that are the last gasp in youthful glamor. Clipped with price tags to please even the most thrifty soul, they are the surprises of the season so far. Of course, most of them are made of velvet, the soft supple stuff that shimmers and drapes in the proper slinky manner beloved of the extremists in the younger set. But what will make you stop and buy are the dull crêpes combined with glittering metallic tops.

All the skirtlines are long, ardently clinging and flounced, then slit abundantly, but not excessively to show the ankles and your pet pair of dancing slippers. The tops are demurely high in front and cut to the waistline in back.

You'll adore a minutely checked gold and cream brocaded top that looks like gingham in the grand manner. This climbs to the tonsils in front, dividing evenly in the back into two strips that leave the spinal column exposed to the waistline. Over this shining example of 1934 cutouts is worn one of the fetching new butcher boy jackets, lovely things made of the pinchecked metallic brocade cut with a yoke in the back, short sleeves and a flared back section that extends perkily 'way out in the air.

Another dull crêpe sheath gown effect with double straps at the back and over the shoulders is contrasted with a scarlet velvet short cape crossed with silver fox tails. The same thing in white crêpe has an emerald velvet cape also trimmed with fur.

Still another black dull crêpe has a complicated clear white top of crêpe cut like a large bib, that winds around the waistline and ties in a bow. Two glittering clips hold it in place at the front. Lots of interesting black velvet creations, cut literally to ribbons at the top, trimmed with airy bits of starched white Irish crochet lace will make you spend the last cent of your weekly clothes allowance.

Mosaic No. 9.

It is amazing to note how many different arrangements in quilt blocks may be made by the use of triangles. "Mosiac No. 9" favors the same right triangles used for a previous mosiac pattern, yet the arrangement and effect are as widely opposite as day and night. Lavender, blue, and white are more intriguing in the color combination than vivid reds, yellows, or greens.

Beauty Trend Puts Emphasis on Femininity

BY ELEANOR NANGLE.

You've got to look fragile, sister. No two ways about it.

At the fourteenth annual convention and trade show of the National Hairdressers and Cosmetologists association which opened yesterday at the Edgewater Beach hotel, the assembled beauticians learned that the blatantly sophisticated lady is just about ready for the mothballs. The trend in feminine beauty is distinctly toward lavender and old lace.

Makeup, for example, is going completely feminine, according to Mme. Myndall Cain of Minneapolis, program chairman of the convention and a noted beauty authority. She predicted that this year only the light, cameo shades will be used in an effort to further the illusion of delicacy.

Hair styles, too, will be ultra feminine. The famous Coiffure Guild of New York, which came in a body for the three day session, has put its august stamp of approval on coiffures that are ladylike almost to the point of coyness.

Ears, delicately rouged, by the way, will be universally exposed this year and the hair style proper will be thoroughly demure. Bangs, puff curls and even the pre-war "spit curl" will decorate the feminine head. Decorative trifles of jewels and feathers will serve as ornamentation for evening.

In the morning Emil Rohde, president of the national group, gave an address of welcome, following a memorial service for the late Charles Meeker Kozlay, the founder. In an effective pageant, the services that contribute to the ultimate perfection of the beautiful woman were represented by living models.

Afternoon sessions were devoted to educational features, with experts from many parts of the country demonstrating finger waving, hair cutting, the skilful use of hair pieces and the latest tricks in finger waving.

The old fashioned hair bow is going to play a return engagement in children's hair styles, according to Agness Schmitt of Lincoln, Neb., who gave a special demonstration with a group of youngsters.

Last night the Chicago and Illinois Hairdressers association, of which Marc Gartman is president, was host to the national group at a reception and dinner dance in the Marine dining room.

A special feature was the reproduction of a number of historical hairdresses by Max Roeder, former wigmaster of the Chicago Civic Opera company. For one—a coiffure of the period of Marie Antoinette—it was necessary for Mr. Roeder and his assistants to work on ladders, since the coiffure towered all of five feet above its wearer's head.

ENGAGEMENTS

From Evanston this morning come two engagement announcements of interest. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ellsworth Barrows of 1041 Ridge avenue are announcing the betrothal of their daughter, Eileen Kilroy, better known as Betty, to Thomas Olney Greenough, son of Mrs. Henry Wadsworth Greenough of Profilt, Va. Mr. and Mrs. William F. Hanchett, whose home is at 1914 Sheridan road, are making known the engagement of their daughter, Josephine, to John E. McFadden, son of Mr. and Mrs. Everett Barr McFadden, also of Evanston.

Miss Barrows' engagement will be followed closely by her wedding, for she and Mr. Greenough are to be married at 10:30 o'clock next Saturday morning by Dean Gerald Moore in the Lady chapel of St. Luke's church, Evanston. The ceremony will terminate a college romance, for it was while Miss Barrows was a student at Smith and Mr. Greenough a student at Amherst that their friendship developed. Mr. Greenough prepared for Amherst at Andover.

Miss Barrows and Mr. Greenough are not certain now whether they will be making their home in the east or in England. Last year Mr. Greenough spent in study at Cambridge university and he may return for further study this winter.

Miss Hanchett was prepared at the Roycemore school in Evanston and then went to Northwestern university, where she was a member of Delta Gamma sorority. Mr. McFadden attended Asheville and Brown university, where she was a member of Phi Kappa Psi fraternity. No date for their wedding has been set.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

Three new home treatment kits of excellent scalp preparations are especially designed for those whose hair is too dry, too oily, or perhaps taking absence without leave.

Some eminent scalp specialists have recently done all of us a great big favor. They've brought out rather individualized home treatment kits that reduce hair care pretty much to its simplest terms.

If you've dry hair, for example, you can now buy their kit of products for that condition. There's one for oily hair too—and, praise Heaven, there's a third for the treatment of dandruff. Know your ailment, pay the really small sum, and waltz out with the medicine for your sick scalp. It's an ideal presentation of products, we think.

In the treatment kit for hair that's falling or that is outraging the ad writers by shedding dandruff is a good sized bottle of a special remedy for just those two beauty ills. It's pleasant smelling, you'll be glad to know, and easily applied. Best of all, it's of tremendous value in getting rid of the white flakes that cling so desperately and in accelerating a new growth of hair. There's a jar of pomade too, to be applied sparingly to the scalp in the vital spots such as the temples and the crown of the head.

In the home treatment kit for dry hair there is pomade too, to help the cause of luster, and there's also a bottle of excellent tonic that should be used daily until the dryness and brittleness give way to the influx of natural oil.

For the other extreme—too much oil—the tonic is of a different type, definitly astringent and a great help in controlling the unwanted greasiness. This, too, is to be used daily.

The products in each box are for special needs and with each come some sound suggestions for home treatment. In particular, the import in controling the unwanted greasiance of brushing is stressed heavily. These specialists are sane enough and honest enough to tell you that even their excellent products aren't cure-alls in themselves. Intelligent care, plus, these, is the answer.

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

The showboat Dixiana, which has boldly carried the old tradition of popular American melodrama into the upper reaches of the north branch of the Chicago river, staged its second revival last night to roars of jocular approval from its enthusiastic customers. "The Convict's Daughter," a rousing piece of old school villainy ending in a perfect demonstration of poetic justice, was the bill, and it proved to be a richer bit of unconscious caricature than its forerunner, "No Mother to Guide Her."

Plays of this type may seem prehistoric to the bright young folks of today, but as a matter of fact they are not as ancient as they sound. They were the folk-drama of forty and fifty years ago; they carried over until well into the twentieth century, and they only perished when the motion pictures began to repeat the same stories of persecuted heroines, black-hearted conspirators, and virtue triumphant after many woes.

"The Convict's Daughter" dates itself by a reference in the dialogue to the election of 1892. Early in its career one of its minor rôles—Sadie, the maid—was played by a child actress who called herself Gladys Smith. She is now world famous as Mary Pickford, and is still capable of looking like an ingénue. This melodrama, however, is naïve enough to have been written in the fourteenth century.

The company of showboat troupers who call the Dixiana their home again refuse to become "arty," and also "smarty," in their treatment of these theatrical fossils. They play "The Convict's Daughter" with lusty woof-woofs of melodramatic ferocity and bosoms throbbing with honest sentimentality.

There is no touch of Greenwich Village burlesque in the interpretation. The players strive for the real thing instead of a travesty, and thus provide their audiences with a high old time instead of a wornout joke. "Kidding," on the Dixiana, is the monopoly of the people in front of the footlights.

In Harry Owens this showboat has a man who can act silk-hatted villains who are worthy of a choice location in a museum of American folklore. His contribution to "The Convict's Daughter" is a full-blown specimen of the aristocratic knave that used to enrage the noble hearts of bygone gallery gods.

By WILLIAM MacLEOD RAINE

SYNOPSIS.

Mary Landis inherited the Lazy B ranch from her uncle. It adjoins the Circle 3 T ranch, owned by Chet Radbourne, powerful boss in the county, and Mary's legal guardian. He has been stealing Mary's cattle and trying to force her to marry him. To escape his tyranny Mary marries Cole Sanborn, fearless young outlaw and suspected train robber, within an hour after meeting him. There is bitter warfare between Cole and the Circle 3 T brand. The marriage is one in name only, giving them both better advantage to fight their common enemy. Cole finds a home for Mary in Jonesboro with Mr. and Mrs. Peters, leading citizens. Cole leaves town with two of his men, Dave Pope and Pete Daggett. He drops in on Radbourne, who is arranging with Curt Jordan to get Cole. Jerry Haskell, Radbourne's foreman, and his riders appear and a fight ensues. Cole escapes. Haskell and Jordan are injured. Chet sends Jordan to Jonesboro to lie in wait for Cole.

TRUSTED WARRIORS.

Cole drew up his horse and gave a hail. From the foot of the precipice a voice shouted answer. Two horsemen loped out to meet him.

"You durned old alkali, I'm sure plumb glad to see you," Dave Pope cried joyfully. "I was scared you never would come back from that crazy trip. We been restless as a pair of toads on a hot skillet."

"D-did you s-see Radbourne?" Pete Daggett stuttered.

"Yes, I saw him," Sanborn replied. "Had a nice little chat with him."

"Well, fellow, hop to it," demanded Dave. "Yore story moves like a snail climbing a slick log. What happened?"

Sanford showed his white teeth in a gay grin. "Nothing much. I told him where to get off, took a crack at him, and said, 'Adios, amigo'."

"What you mean, took a crack at him? Did you have trouble?"

"Me? No, I didn't have any trouble. I left some at the Circle 3 T, I reckon, because some of the boys got on the prod."

"You kill some one?"

"No. They got to kinda crowding me and my old 'Tried and True' stopped a couple with a pair of pills. Haskell and Jordan. Only winged 'em."

"Haskell and Jordan!" Excitement blazed in Dave's pale blue eyes. "You're not just a-loading us, Cole? You did get those death artists?"

"Nothing permanent about it," Sanborn apologized.

"S-sounds like it might have been h-hotter than hell with the lid on," Pete suggested. "T-tell us more."

"You're so dadgummed tight you never give another guy a chance to get in on the fun," the lank puncher complained querulously. "It would have cost you nothing to have taken me an' Pete along. But no, you gotta play a lone hand."

"You know why I didn't take you, Dave," his chief said amiably. "My

From the summit of the ridge, after a long climb, they looked down on a caldron of opaline mist which filled the valley into which they were about to descend.

only chance was to drop in on Chet unexpected. If I took an army with me I couldn't do that. As it turned out, my luck stood up fine. I saw Chet and we had our talk. Seems I've done him wrong. He's quite a friend of mine, by his way of it."

"You don't say."

"Yes. He's plumb glad I married his ward, because now he won't have to spend his time looking after her affairs."

"Fine. Now tell us all about it. Begin at the start."

Cole told his story as the three rode side by side into the canyon which cut like a sword cleft through the hills. They moved up a dry arroyo until it pinched out, after which they clambered up a steep rock chimney, loose rubble sliding down under the hoofs of the horses. This brought them among the hilltops. They turned south, struck a ledge trail, and dropped down into a pocket wooded with live oaks.

Here they found a camp, and in it a man just aroused from sleep. He jumped for the shelter of a tree before asking any questions.

Cole hailed him a second time. "Don't get busy with that scatter gun, Dunc," he added. "We ain't after your scalp. Friends. Dave and Pete and Cole."

Duncan McCoy emerged from cover. "Might as well kill a fellow as scare him to death. I was sleeping awful sound when you woke me. Thought maybe it was old Magruder with a posse. You never can tell."

"If you'd live a good life the way I do you wouldn't have to roost 'way up here where a fellow had orta have hooked horns to reach," Dave reproved the camper.

McCoy was a blue eyed man, with red hair and sandy complexion, somewhere between 35 and 40. He was bullnecked and heavyset, but he had moved with extraordinary rapidity when he had jumped for the tree. There was not an ounce of fat on his thick body.

He spoke with the faintest brogue. "I've admired your good life, David man," he said. From his pocket he drew a poster which could not be read in the dim light. "Now this tall man in jeans, wanted for robbing the K. & J. express. It wouldn't be David Pope by any chance, would it?"

The Scotchman's pawky smile robbed the question of offense.

"No, Dunc," Dave answered cheerfully. "And the rangy blackhaired bird in corduroy trousers and polka dot bandanna wasn't Cole. I'm wondering if the heavyset one in lethers was the well known hoot man, Dune McCoy. Course you don't have to confess, old oat-meal-and-scones, if you've been holding up trains, as seems likely."

Cole was no longer in corduroy trousers, so far as could be seen by the naked eye. If he wore them, a pair of well worn shiny chaps hid the incriminating fact. But the polka dot bandanna and the decorated Stetson were in evidence.

"You looking for the K. & J. holdups, Dunc?" he asked. "If you are, there's no reason why you can't go back to Jonesboro and join Magruder's posse. I've brought you good news. That fellow Gildea that you plugged is going to make the grade. You didn't shoot straight enough. Also, those present when the fracas took place say Gildea was reaching for his gun when you cut loose. So all's well along the Potomac. Except, of course, that some of the other Circle 3 T warriors may not like what you did."

Relief showed plainly on the rugged face of McCoy. This was better news than he had dared to expect. But he chose to comment on the sentence of Sanford that was of the least importance to him.

"You're damned whistling they won't like it," he admitted. "I'll have to roost a long way from their range."

"Unless you throw in with us, Dunc," Cole said. "We've declared war against the Circle 3 T. One of these days hell's going to pop."

"It started popping tonight," Dave put in. "Cole went up to old Chet's bailiwick and read him the riot act. Haskell and Jordan crowded him and he gave 'em hail Columbia."

"M-made 'em step high as a blind dog in a field of stubble," Pete grinned.

The cold blue eyes of McCoy glittered. "Tell me about this war, Cole. I might be interested."

Sanborn told him what had taken place in the last eight hours. Before he had finished the tale McCoy had made up his mind.

"Count me in," he said quietly. "There'll be no peace in Boone county until the claws of this wolf are cut."

Cole told him of his plans, as far as he had made any. He was going to gather a bunch of riders he could trust, after which he meant to try to force Radbourne into a position where he would be forced to attack.

The four men rolled up in their blankets and slept till the first gray gleams of dawn began to sift into the sky. One of them brought in the horses while the others made coffee and cooked steaks from a ladino beef McCoy had killed the day before. Breakfast finished, the camper packed the sawbuck saddle cinched to his spare mount and threw a diamond hitch expertly so as to take up all the slack.

The world was still mysterious in the dim morning light when they set out. From the summit of the ridge, after a long climb, they looked down on a caldron of opaline mist which filled the valley into which they were about to descend.

An hour later they were crossing a mesa quivering with heat. Lizards clung to the rocks. Dust eddies whirled in spirals. The soapweed and the cacti were stunted and parched. Even the mesquite leaves were shriveled.

"Dry as a cork leg," Dave commented. "Not a sign of nilaree. Betcha there hasn't been a rain in a year."

All of them were glad to escape from the burning heat into the shadows of the box canyon beyond.

Engagement Cancels Interest.

"Dear Miss Blake: I am eighteen and going to be engaged to a fellow of twenty. Does a girl or a fellow go out with other fellows or girls after they are engaged? RUTH."

There should be no further desire to date with other fellows or girls when you become engaged, Ruth. If you are not content with each other, the engagement shouldn't exist.

Don't Worry About Love.

"Dear Miss Blake: I am not quite sixteen, but I feel I am in love with a boy who goes with my brother. Am I really in love or too young?

"FAITHFUL."

It all means that you like this particular young man more than the others you have met, Faithful. But don't worry your young head about love for some time.

Skin in Area of Eyes Needs Share of Care

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

For some time it was difficult to get women to train themselves to take proper care of their eyes. Three, four, five years ago is was the common sight to see women well groomed and dressed, silhouettes obviously controled, and complexions well pampered, but with eyes looking neglected. Not now, though. To the popularity of eye makeup of the last couple of years I attribute the new eye interest. Attempted eye makeup on a crinkly lid and baggy lower lids and crowfoot corners, all the faults showing up more clearly, set women to sharpening up the whole eye area.

I am not talking about the eye itself. Treatment of it, I believe, is the business of eye specialists and medical men, except as superficial ailments may affect it. But even smoothing out the skin on lid and the whole eye area makes a terrific difference in the beauty of the eye. Since women have gone in for eye creams to be used as conscientiously nightly as their face creams, they see this difference themselves and are keeping up the good work beautifully.

Heretofore, all that ailed this eye-skin area was sheer neglect. The complexion creams weren't allowed to go over the lid in many instances. The consequence was that the lid shriveled for lack of lubricating. It stands to reason that the same process of youth decay would go on in this skin area as would occur on the cheek, forehead, or throat area without a lubricating cream.

If you're a bit behind the parade in respect to this eye area upkeep, better not delay another day. It will come to pass shortly that this section of the face will be scrutinized as critically as the complexion and throat areas are now. Besides, every year makes just that much more inroad on the skin's youthfulness.

One thing you can do with tired eyes or overstrained eyes or sun and wind strained eyes, without medical suggestion, is to use an eye cup of slightly salted water for cleansing and soothing. Also, these herbal eyepads are a fine refreshment for tired eyes.

tain at supper at the Beach club in Winnetka. Monday Miss Betty Durham will give a luncheon at home in Winnetka and Monday night the John de Laittres [Carolyn Erminger] of Minneapolis will give a dinner at the Casino for the wedding party and the out-of-town guests. The following evening, a week from tonight, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur W. Cushman, the bride's parents, will give the bridal dinner at the Indian Hill club for the same ones who will attend the De Laittre dinner. Among those who will be here from out of town, but who are not in the wedding party, are Robert Mitchell and Miss Eleanor de Laittre of Minneapolis, Miss Isabel McMullen of New York, and the Philip Pillsburys of Minneapolis, who will become Chicagoans as soon as they find an apartment here. They are staying temporarily at 240 East Delaware place.

Both Mr. and Mrs. de Laittre will be wedding attendants. Miss Mary Cushman will be her sister's maid of honor and the other bridesmaids are Miss Bell, Miss Armstrong, Miss Hobart, and Miss Lackner. Mrs. Robert Fulton Jr. of New York will be matron of honor. Mr. Fulton will serve Mr. Kimball as best man, and ushering will be Fred Griffiths of Montclair, N. J.; Louis Hall of New Canaan, Conn.; Jonathan Lattimer, Byron Elting, and Frederick Regnery.

The wedding will take place at 5 o'clock in the gardens of the Cushman home in Winnetka, and following a European wedding trip Mr. Kimball and his bride will be at home at 11 Scott street.

Carl Kellys to Give Luncheon for Debs.

Mrs. Carl Kelly and her daughter, Miss Marjorie Kelly, will be hostesses today at a luncheon in the Kelly home on Indian Hill road in Winnetka to which most of the debutantes and several of Miss Kelly's friends among the post-debutantes have been invited.

Mr. and Mrs. Kelly have decided to present their daughter to society at a tea dance Christmas day at their home.

On or about Oct. 1 Mr. and Mrs. Adlai E. Stevenson (Ellen Borden) will be back in Chicago to establish their residence once again. Since a year ago last spring the Stevensons have been living in Washington, where Mr. Stevenson went as assistant to the general counsel for the Farm Relief administration. Now that his work there is finished he and his family are coming back here and Mr. Stevenson will return to his office in a Chicago law firm. A few weeks ago Mr. and Mrs. Stevenson passed through town on their way back from a vacation in Honolulu.

Margaret Schofield Weds William H. Noble.

News of the wedding of Miss Margaret Schofield, daughter of Mrs. Henry Schofield, and William Holden Noble, son of Dr. and Mrs. William L. Noble of Evanston, on Aug. 29 will come as a surprise to many friends of the young couple. Very quietly and without previous announcement they were married in the chapel of the First Congregational church of Evanston and left immediately on a wedding trip into the north woods of Michigan.

Miss Schofield is a graduate of the Girls' Latin school and Northwestern university. Then she took her masters' degree at Radcliffe college, and later studied another year at the Sorbonne in Paris. Mr. Noble is a graduate of Williams college. He started his law course at Harvard university and then finished it at Northwestern university.

Mr. Noble and his bride return today or tomorrow from their wedding trip. After Oct. 1 they will be at home in an apartment on Ridge avenue in Evanston.

The Charles F. Glores' daughter, Frances, is sailing on the 28th for a winter at school in Italy. She will attend Miss Nixon's in Florence.

Miss Myra Little, the Charles G. Littles' daughter, has gone east to visit her brother and sister-in-law, the Charles L. Littles, in New York. She will be at home in ten days and then will prepare to take some graduate work at the University of Chicago.

Elizabeth Coit Visits City on Way to Purdue.

Miss Elizabeth Coit, daughter of Mrs. A. Merrill Coit, who was a debutante last winter, came through town the other day on her way to Lafayette, Ind., where she is entering Purdue university. Miss Coit has spent the summer with her mother and two sisters, Eleanor and Celia, at their home at Green Lake, Wis.

Mrs. Oliver Dennett Grover and her sister, Mrs. Edwin C. Bolton, have returned from an extended motor trip to Quebec, New England, and New York.

Col. Edmond Ross Tompkins of the 6th corps area, who has been here for four years, has been transferred to the quartermaster depot in Washington, D. C., and is leaving Chicago around the middle of the month. Mrs. Tompkins will leave at the same time for California, where she will visit before joining her husband in Washington. While living in Chicago they have been at the Del Prado hotel.

Dr. Julia C. Strawn, who went to Stockholm to attend the International Medical Women's congress, arrived at home last week. She spent a month in England before the congress, and after it she and her sister, Mrs. Ida S. Randall, toured through Sweden and Norway.

CONQUERING CONTRACT

By P. HAL SIMS

Bidding Short-Suited Slams.

Yesterday we examined the procedure of the opening bidder when the responding hand has accepted the slam try. Now for the next bid of the responder.

When Responder Is Unable to Go for a Grand Slam.

1. If you accepted the slam try by bidding five in a suit over four no trumps, and the opening bidder raised that suit to six, the soundest policy is as follows:

[a] In a rubber game pass and play the hand in the suit slam. [b] In match-point tournament play, pass if your distribution includes a doubleton, but bid six no trumps if you have a split hand [4-3-3-3].

2. If you accepted the slam by bidding five no trumps and the opening bidder now bids six in a suit, pass if you have four cards headed by the king or by queen-jack in that suit. Otherwise bid six no trumps. In match point play, most of us would bid six no trumps even with the necessary support for the opener's suit if we had a split hand, but pass the suit slam with a doubleton.

A Rare Contingency.

If it should so happen that the responding hand has two four-card suits, both of which qualify to be bid in this position, bid the lower ranking one first. If opener replies with five no trumps, you can bid your other suit at the six level, and your partner must either pass it with four to a high honor in support, or else bid six no trumps. Nothing has been lost by this reversal of the usual order of suit bidding, but a great, perhaps vital, advantage may be gained if the opener can support your lower ranking suit but not the other. For instance, opener's hand is

Sp. K J	Di. A Q x x
Ht. A K x	Cl. A J x x

responder's is

Sp. A Q x x	Di. x x
Ht. x x x	Cl. K Q x x

and the bidding having been—one no trump, two no trumps, four no trumps; if responder now bids five spades, opener will bid six diamonds and now responder cannot show his clubs except at seven, which would be a crazy gamble on the information available to him. The hand would thus be consigned to six no trumps, where the slam depends on the diamond finesse. However, if responder first bids five clubs, opener will bid five diamonds and on his next bid, over five spades, raise to six clubs, and now the diamond finesse will be for seven odd.

A Comment But Not a Lesson, on Grand Slamming.

Incidentally, responder could not be blamed for going seven clubs on the above hand. He knows his partner has only five cards in the major suits, and that in the red suit he must hold A-K and ace-queen to make up five primary tricks. Plainly there will be at worst a simple finesse against a king for the grand slam.

A Digression.

Leaving these slam tries for a moment, I wish to say a word about the rebidding of a hand on which you have opened the bidding as dealer or second hand with a bid of one in a suit. As you know, a hand thus opened contains natural rebid material in some form if the partner makes any kind of response. Consequently you will, unless partner passes, have occasion to rebid your hand on the next round. If he bids one no trump, your "rebid" may be the freedom from panic with which you can pass this sign-off, holding a short-suited hand. Usually, however, you will rebid your suit or bid a second suit. In most other systems, the fact that you rebid indicates that your hand contains some reserve value in excess of what you needed to bid originally. Your rebid therefore gives quantitative information. In the Sims system, your actual act of rebidding does not necessarily convey a quantitative meaning. It is essentially a qualitative bid which informs your partner further regarding the pattern or type of your hand. It does not, however, say that you have some high card without which you could have bid originally but could not have rebid. The power to rebid was implied in your opening bid. By doing so you merely confirm the soundness of your original bid and assist your partner in picturing the nature of your hand as regards general type and distribution. Reserve values may be there, but are not promised by the rebid unless that rebid is some other than minimum response. The nature of your rebid may both give positive information and also convey a clear negative inference.

NEW YORK SOCIETY

New York, Sept. 10.—[Special.]—Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Brooks Jr. of the Mooring, Lawrence, left last Friday for a week's stay with the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward E. Schoyner, at Biddeford Pool, Me.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Manning, who were with their daughter, Mrs. Paul Bancroft Jr., in San Francisco, have arrived at the Drake.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest G. Vietor return from Europe this week and will be at Mayfair house for the autumn and winter.

Miss Sophie Kilbreth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James T. Kilbreth of Hewlett, passed the week-end with Miss Fifi Mixsell at Darien, Conn.

Hugh Walpole Stirs Sleuth to High Science

Scotland Yarder Shows Stuff in Hollywood.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

Hollywood, Cal., Sept. 10.—[Special.]—Harold Cheevers, recently of Scotland Yard, London, is an old friend of Hugh Walpole. Walpole, who is one of M. G. M. studio's most distinguished recent importations of brains, is rounding out the first couple of months of employment as writer at that movie plant. Missing the good old British accent, with the good old underdone tough beef and the crumpets he doesn't get here at tea time, Walpole wrote to have Cheevers come here and join him as secretary and companion.

Scotland Yard's contribution to the Metro studio arrived on an early morning train, but had lost Walpole's address. It was no great job of sleuthing for Mr. Cheevers to get himself to the front gate of Metro studio, where he found that Walpole hadn't arrived. From this point the old Scotland Yard technique began to count.

Performing a miracle of extraction—never recorded before—by inducing some one at the studio to whisper Walpole's home address to him, Harold Cheevers hied to the writer's local home.

Arrival there, balked again. Walpole wasn't there and nobody around the place knew or seemed to care where he was. So Cheevers went to the next door neighbor's, obtained the names of the two largest book stores in town and at the first of the two he found Walpole. Is that detecting or is that detecting?

Dr. Mordaunt Shairp, author of "The Green Bay Tree," is the third English author to be signed by M. G. M. in two months, John Paddy Carstairs being the other besides Walpole.

The gown which Marlene Dietrich had Travis Banton create for her to wear at the Max Reinhardt dinner was exquisitely molded to the figure and was entirely covered with imported white silk fringe. It made one think of a red hot dish of cooling vanilla ice cream.

Una Merkel and Charlie Butterworth are teamed for comedy purposes in "The Night Is Young" at Metro, Miss Merkel playing Fanni, ballet dancer and companion of the heroine, and Butterworth being Willy, her sweetheart and driver of a Vienna horse car. They figure in musical and comedy interludes through the romance of an archduke [Ramon Novarro] and a ballerina [Evelyn Laye] in the musical production whose libretto is by Oscar Hammerstein II. and music by Sigmund Romberg.

Carl Brisson, Danish singing actor and ex-heavyweight boxing champion of Europe, who was offered a Broadway stage rôle opposite Libby Holman in "Three Cornered Hat," has been compelled by his studio to refuse. Brisson must appear in the movie "All The King's Horses."

Men's Garden Club Prize Won by Winnetkan

M. D. White of Winnetka was awarded the sweepstakes silver cup by judges who announced last night their decision at the close of the Men's Garden club of Chicago three day show held in the Horticultural building at A Century of Progress. With forty different exhibits Mr. White scored a total of 630 points, having won sixteen first prizes, seven seconds, and six thirds in the competition.

The sweepstakes silver cup awarded in the nonmember competition went to H. A. Lautenslager, 1208 West 97th place. He scored a total of 530 points with 60 exhibits.

Other winners in the classes limited to members, with the total scores of each, are: Second, James Neil, Edison Park, 425 points; third, Arthur Wyld, Winnetka, 400 points; fourth, L. M. Hamburger, Winnetka, 350 points; fifth, James Wunsch, Evanston, 235 points; sixth, O. V. Morgan, Elmhurst, 85 points; seventh, William Galitz, Chicago, 75 points; eighth, W. A. Schueler, Chicago, 60 points.

Winners in the class for nonmembers, in addition to Mr. Lautenslager, with points scored by each, are: Second, H. E. Carlson, Chicago, 410 points; third, I. L. Brunner, Brookfield, 365 points; fourth, Martin Schuster, Hinsdale, 305 points; fifth, William Merkle, Chicago, 290 points; sixth, Mrs. A. J. Peterson, Elgin, 165 points; seventh, William Berry, Glencoe, 160 points; eighth, L. W. Webb, Evanston, 130 points.

The winning blossoms will be kept on display in the Horticultural building at A Century of Progress the remainder of this week.

The Central States Dahlia society will open its annual show in the Horticultural building next Saturday morning, lasting until the following Friday.

Mormon Tabernacle Choir Opens Series of Concerts at Fair

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Twice in forty-one years the Mormon Tabernacle choir of Salt Lake City, Utah, has visited Chicago. The first time was during the Columbian Exposition of 1893, when it won second prize in a nation-wide contest of large choirs. The second time is this week. It is giving afternoon and evening concerts in the Ford Symphony Gardens, just vacated by the Detroit Symphony orchestra.

Numbering about two hundred and sixty singers, it disclosed itself yesterday as an uncommonly well balanced and well trained organization.

The programs last an hour and are well worth attendance. Anthony C. Lund, their veteran director, would seem to have ideas on the value of text as well as tone. All the numbers are sung in English, and for so large an organization the words are projected with quite astonishing clarity.

As might be imagined under the circumstances, a good part of each program is made up of sacred numbers, though it is by no means their invariable makeup. The first number yesterday afternoon was the chorale from the third act of Wagner's "Die Meistersinger," sung as precisely and with as nice attention of shading and musical expression as one would hope to hear in any operatic chorus.

Handel, Mendelssohn, Beethoven, and Bach are stressed in most of the programs. There are a number of hymns from the pen of Evans Stephens, who was the director of the choir at the time of its former visit forty-one years ago. Violin and piano solos further diversify each program.

The Swift Bridge of Service, also abandoned by its symphony orchestra, is now getting a series of afternoon and evening concerts by Palmer Clark and his "Sophisticated Symphony" orchestra, who were there before the Chicago Symphony orchestra took possession July 1. Here popular music in merry mood is played with high skill and spirit. Among the headliners are Little Joe Rardin, the Doring sisters, Frank Wilson, Ruth Bassett, and Phil Calkin. Attendance here is likewise pleasant.

Brunch Is Meal for Epicureans Who Sleep Late

Repast Substitutes for Breakfast and Lunch.

BY MARY MEADE.

In the days of old the household clambered out of its feathers with the first cock crow, plunged its tousled head into a pail of cold water, devoured a Gargantuan breakfast, and pitched into a rousing day of good hard work.

But this is the twentieth century; codes and turbines and such are seeing to it that for some of the week, at least, rising comes later, and labor for both the master and missus is lighter and more fun.

Which is the cue for the entrance of "brunches." Look it up in your most complicated dictionary and you'll find it "a slang word denoting a repast taken between breakfast and lunch."

But that's putting the matter entirely too prosaically, and a brunch is miles from the prosaic. It usually falls upon a sleepy Sunday morning. An early waking, a long, luxurious stretch, and back we snuggle into the pillow for another snooze. Then suddenly it's far too late to have breakfast sensibly, really too early for lunch.

Brunch is the answer. A chilly fruit for the eye-opener, a crunchy brown waffle or an open face sandwich, a salad, and a drink—that's a brunch. Something perfectly corking as a starter is a new spiced fruit cocktail. Grape juice and orange juice, both spiced, with a dash of gingerale, begins the day with a tingle. Or half and half tomato and orange juice, frosty from the refrigerator.

Brunch Cocktail.

[For One.]

1 egg yolk
Juice of 2 oranges
1 teaspoon honey, or sugar to taste
Dash of salt

Beat these all together and serve exceedingly cold.

But perhaps chilled grapefruit with honey, or fat bunches of dewy ated blue grapes will open the brunch. Then orange waffles with an orange butter spread will round up the main course. Here is the way of them:

Orange Waffles.

[For Four to Six.]

2 eggs, well beaten
¼ cup sugar
2 teaspoons grated orange rind
1¾ cups flour
2½ teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
1-3 cup orange juice
1 tablespoon lemon juice
½ cup melted butter
Orange segments
Whipped cream

Beat together the eggs, sugar, and orange rind. Sift together the flour, baking powder, and salt. Add the dry ingredients to the first mixture alternately with the fruit juices. Then stir in the melted butter. Cook on hot, ungreased waffle iron. Let the waffles cool and become crisp separately from each other. Make each waffle sandwich from three segments, one on top of the other, filled and topped with slightly sweetened whipped cream, and garnished at each side with orange segments.

ORANGE HONEY BUTTER SPREAD

Blend two tablespoons of orange juice, six tablespoons of melted butter, and six tablespoons of honey. Add a grating of orange rind and serve without heating overcrisp, hot, orange waffles.

Child's Conduct Sure to Change as He Develops

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

So often I get letters from mothers along these lines:

"My baby used to be content to be by himself but now he seems to want to be with me a lot—he tags around and won't play with his toys as he used to."

Or: "My little boy used to be so easy to handle—I never had any difficulty with him. Now he is insistent—almost stubborn—and we have had set-tos. Yet this isn't due to any change in my management."

And: "My little girl usually plays all day in our back yard. But recently she's started to run away. She goes down to the corner where the street car is, or to a neighbor's, and I can't seem to make her stay in the yard. Why is she so disobedient so suddenly?"

Well, children won't "stay put." We sometimes forget that they are growing, and in the early years growing terribly fast—physically and mentally. What is sufficient for a baby at one stage will be insufficient at the next stage. A baby content at three to play quietly, at four will demand more adventurousness. A baby at one age may be sufficient unto himself, at the next he may crave the society of his mother.

Often it is only the insistence of a child's growing demands which makes a mother realize the fact that he is growing, and makes her change in her management of him. Children just won't stay Peter Pans—they have an irresistible habit of growing and changing, in spite of the fact that we long for them not to, like the little girl in the poem:

How pleasant life would be, oh dear,
If daffodils bloomed all the year—
And willow catkins stayed just so,
And our gray kittens didn't grow.

WEDDINGS

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Abbott Sherman of Evanston are announcing the marriage of their daughter, Katharine, to Harvey Henry Benning Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey H. Benning of Hartsdale, N. Y. The ceremony was read on Sept. 1 at the home of the bride's aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Stanford, in Hartsdale, by the Rev. Wallace Mast of the Scarsdale Congregational church. After a month at Lake George Mr. Benning and his bride will spend the winter at Pocono summit in New York, where Mr. Benning will do research work for the American Telephone and Telegraph company.

Mr. and Mrs. John J. Burns of Kenosha, Wis., announce the approaching marriage of their daughter, Florence, to Owen Desmond, son of Mr. and Mrs. Owen E. Desmond of 8180 Essex avenue. The ceremony will take place Saturday in Kenosha.

The DEBUNKER

By John Harvey Furbay, Ph. D.

MIDOL

"Frankly, I didn't believe the ads about Midol, or even friends who used it. My own periodic pain had always been so severe, it didn't seem possible that anything could help. Until one day the nurse in a store where I had succumbed completely, gave me a Midol tablet. Ten minutes later I had resumed my shopping—and was forever cured of my scepticism!"

Grateful endorsement similar to this is frequent. Many women who now go through this trying time in comfort regret the years they ignored or doubted the definite relief to be had from Midol. It acts immediately, and is effective several hours so two tablets should see you through your worst day.

Don't be afraid of the speed with which Midol takes hold; it is not a narcotic. Midol is as harmless as the aspirin you take for an ordinary headache. All drug-stores have these tablets; just ask for Midol—today, so you'll be prepared.

Newer Form of "FOOD IODINE"

From Pacific Ocean Sea Plant Helps Nourish and Normalize STARVED GLANDS!

Thousands Show Startling Improvement with Kelp-a-Malt, New Mineral Discovery. Gains of from 15 to 20 Lbs. Not Uncommon, While Strength and Energy Return with Regulated Glands

For years, science has known of the tremendous importance of FOOD IODINE in the daily diet. Never before, however, has a natural substance richer in FOOD IODINE and in needed body minerals been available in such convenient concentrated form as Kelp-a-Malt.

1300 times richer in FOOD IODINE than oysters, Kelp-a-Malt by regulating internal glands promotes assimilation—the process by which the body converts food materials into firm, solid flesh, new strength and energy.

Kelp-a-Malt, too, offers practically every other needed mineral so essential in keeping healthy and active the digestive glands which produce the juices needed to digest fats and starches—the weight making elements in the daily diet.

Try Kelp-A-Malt for a single week and notice the difference. How your appetite improves, your strength returns. How flattering extra pounds appear in place of scrawny hollows. 5 lbs. in one week guaranteed or money back. Kelp-A-Malt costs but little. At all

What $16,000 buys in The American Weekly

A full page in color more than twice the size of any other magazine page in the world . . . more than 5,000,000 families at a cost of less than ⅓ of a cent per family . . . The attention of the entire family instead of a single buying factor.

IT takes a lot of groceries to feed the more than five million families who read The American Weekly regularly.

Any statistician can estimate how many tons of cereal, baking powder, tea, coffee, meats and canned goods these families consume in a day, week, month or year.

The manufacturer's problem is more difficult. He can buy any one of a dozen kinds of advertising media—magazines, newspapers, billboards, radio or whatnot, in the belief he is doing a thorough advertising job.

But there is one medium that delivers an advertising message to the greatest number of families; one magazine which can prove its ability to sell goods. That magazine is The American Weekly.

This Mighty Magazine entertains, teaches, thrills, and makes millions laugh and cry. It has built a circulation twice as great as its nearest competitor.

And no form of advertising can match its economy.

For $16,000 you can buy a color page in The American Weekly and tell your sales story to more than five million families at a cost of one-third cent per family reached.

That is why the list of prominent advertisers on the left continues to grow year after year.

That is why we say to you, The American Weekly will bring you the most sales for the least money.

Where this Magazine goes

The American Weekly is the largest magazine in the world. It is distributed through 17 great Hearst Sunday Newspapers. In 597 of America's 995 towns and cities of 10,000 population and over, The American Weekly concentrates 67% of its circulation.

In each of 134 cities, it reaches one out of every two families
In 125 more cities, 40 to 50% of the families
In an additional 165 cities, 30 to 40%
In another 173 cities, 20 to 30%

. . . and, in addition, more than 1,885,000 families in thousands of other communities, large and small, regularly buy and read The American Weekly.

Where can you spend your advertising dollar more effectively?

LONDOS FANS LEWIS' HATRED BY BEING LATE

Keeps Challenger Waiting Hour.

King's "No Sucker"

ASKED what he thought about Jack Dempsey's prediction that Art Sykes probably would whip him in their ten round bout Sept. 20, King Levinsky yesterday remarked: "The King can take care of himself. He ain't no sucker."

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Strangler Lewis twisted in his chair and wiggled his feet on the floor of the Illinois athletic commission's office yesterday, enjoying one of his favorite occupations — disliking Jim Londos. Since 1 o'clock Lewis had been waiting for Londos to keep an appointment with the commission to discuss their forthcoming wrestling championship match, and now it was nearly 2.

From time to time Chairman Joe Triner would inquire in a dry, casual tone:

"You don't mind waiting for the champion, do you, Mr. Lewis?"

The wording of the question added to the Strangler's sense of accumulated injury. Why couldn't Triner say "Londos" instead of "the champion"? For Lewis contends that he lost his undisputed title synthetically and that Londos has been dodging him for years.

The King Jests.

Seated behind a desk at the head of the office, the members of the commission attempted to attend with dignity to their dealings with the wrestlers and fighters who filled the room, but serious proceedings were being interrupted continually by King Levinsky, the former fish peddler of Maxwell street. Levinsky will fight Art Sykes in one of the supporting bouts of the Lewis-Londos program, which is to be presented a week from Thursday night at Wrigley field.

It was fortunate indeed that Levinsky furnished comic relief. Otherwise the Strangler might have worked himself into greater and greater fury and tackled Londos on sight in the offices of the commission. Such an outburst would have deprived Chicago wrestling fans of seeing the first release of the Strangler's pent-up antagonism which has been accumulating for years.

Gentlemen, the Champ!

Just a few minutes after 2, Londos arrived. His classic features remained unperturbed as Chairman Triner called him to task for being late and suggested an apology to Mr. Lewis. Londos disregarded the suggestion and paid no attention whatever to his future antagonist. The medical examination was conducted, photographs were taken and routine instructions were given, neither wrestler acting as though the other was in the room. Finally Lewis turned to Londos as though he had just seen him for the first time, and extended his hand.

"How are you, Jim?" he asked, with hearty good fellowship.

Londos took the extended hand, but his features remained impassive.

"I am fine, Mr. Lewis," he said. "And how are you?"

Lewis Really Means It.

Just before leaving Londos relaxed his dignity sufficiently to explain to the commission that he had kept them waiting because of tire trouble.

The ill feeling between Londos and Lewis is by no means synthetic. Lewis frequently complains bitterly:

"When I was undisputed champion of the world I would wrestle any one. I gave Londos a bout whenever he wanted it and I threw him every time. Now they call him champion and for years I've been trying to get a chance at him, but he dodges me. I'm not asking a penny for this bout. All I want is the title. I'll show that Greek who's the real champion."

Londos Isn't Fooling, Either.

Londos, riding at the top, encounters verbal blasts calmly. But he has proved that he has a spirit of championship caliber by agreeing to risk his title once and for all against the Strangler—his most dangerous antagonist. The handsome Greek has disposed handily of every other claimant, so there is nothing left now but the final showdown. The politics of wrestling, sometimes puzzling to the public, have kept these two apart for years. Those entanglements have now been swept away and the road is clear for the greatest wrestling match of this generation.

PASSING FIRST TEST FOR BIG SHOW

A Sock on the Jaw or A Flying Tackle?

Now, perhaps you wouldn't care to receive either of these, even as a gift, but The Tribune has signed up a group of rugged battlers who welcome this kind of treatment—provided they can deal out the same in return.

You'll want to attend the world's championship wrestling bout between Jim Londos and Ed Lewis at Wrigley field Sept. 20. And for good measure you'll see:

DON GEORGE vs. JIM McMILLEN (30 minutes)
KING LEVINSKY vs. ART SYKES (10 rounds)
LEO RODAK vs. EVERETT RIGHTMIRE (10 rounds)
YOUNG STUHLEY vs. SOLLY DUKELSKY (8 rounds)
BARNEY ROSS (4 round exhibition)

Then, too, Jack Dempsey will be on hand to referee one of the boxing bouts.

The prices, including tax, are $6, $3.60 and $2.40. Get tickets at The Tribune Public Service Offices, 1 South Dearborn street, Tribune Tower, and the Hall of Science at the World's Fair.

Address mail orders to Wrestling Ticket Manager, Tribune Tower, Chicago. Make checks payable to the Chicago Tribune.

Vote on Wrestling Judges

Returns in the contest to pick judges for the Londos-Lewis championship wrestling match at Wrigley field Sept. 20 appear below. There are no restrictions except that you must be convinced your candidates are honest and competent. Send your first two choices to the Wrestling Editor, Chicago Tribune. The six leaders will be submitted to the Illinois athletic commission and from this group two will be chosen. The contest closes at midnight Sept. 17. Today's leaders:

LEWIS HEADLOCK IS EASY TO BREAK, LONDOS ASSERTS

Londos on W-G-N

JIM LONDOS, heavyweight wrestling champion, will be interviewed by Bob Elson tonight on the W-G-N sports review at 6:30 o'clock. Londos will talk on his match with Strangler Lewis at Wrigley field Sept. 20.

Jim Londos, heavyweight champion who meets Ed [Strangler] Lewis in defense of his title at Wrigley field, Sept. 20, is one wrestler who does not fear the headlock.

Although most of the big fellows who have felt the crushing grip of the Strangler's pet hold assert it is the most punishing clamp known to the mat sport, Londos, whose experience has covered several thousand matches, declares the headlock is hard to put on a shifty opponent and comparatively easy to break once it is applied.

All of which upsets the general impression about the grip that has brought the championship to Lewis four times and a more or less disputed title on two other occasions.

Claims Perfect Defense.

En route from Round Lake yesterday morning after breaking camp to begin training at the Mid-West Athletic club in Chicago, Londos explained a number of things concerning his actions and reactions about the title melee.

"I know all about the headlock," Jimmy said. "I've used it a lot myself, both in the orthodox manner in which Lewis applies it and reversing it from a standing position in front of my opponents. It is a punishing grip, but I have a perfect defense for it, even when attempted by a huge and powerful man like Lewis.

"The first step in a proper block for the headlock is to keep my arms inside his. In this way whenever he attempts to use the grip all I have to do is raise my arms and his own arm slips over my head.

Watch Out for Slam!

"If he does happen to get the grip on my head, I'll simply reach down,

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The first session of Jim Dykes' White Sox baseball school yesterday was half good and half bad. The bad part of it was that several freshmen, mixed in with some senior talent, were an easy combination for Washington's Senators in the third of the series. The washed-up champions won, 7 to 4, mainly because Cliff Bolton, summoned as a pinch hitter with the score tied and the bases filled in the seventh, blasted a homer into the right field stand.

Until Bolton spread unhappiness around the classroom there was more or less hilarity over the fashion in which Hugo Klaerner, a right hander from the Pine Bluff, Ark., club, was conducting himself in his maiden appearance as a big leaguer. Although slightly confused most of the time as to the exact location of the plate, Hugo was good enough to keep in a tie for six innings and thus create an impression he might be worthy of future experiment. After the seventh, however, Prof. Dykes decided he had seen enough, at least for one day.

Uhlir, Mauldin Hit.

Two other freshmen were among those in action, and they accomplished just enough to sharpen the professor's appetite at the dining table last evening. As a part of the autumn research work, Dykes started Charlie Uhlir, a local semi-pro graduate who offhand would be regarded as too tiny for big league endeavor. Uhlir hit a pair of singles. The other freshman, Marshall Mauldin from the Lafayette, La., team, showed himself as a third baseman and didn't miss anything aimed in his direction. He also contributed a two-bagger.

Jack Russell, ordinarily a relief worker for the champions, was given a starting rôle because of a pitching shortage, and didn't have much trouble sticking to his job until it was completed. He was slightly jarred when Simmons frisked him for homer No. 18 in the first inning, but promptly tightened up and didn't permit any liberties until the fifth, when two of the freshmen aided in collecting two runs for the Sox. Then his mates tied it for him in the sixth and thereafter he functioned perfectly except for a slight, harmless flurry in the eighth.

Klaerner Shaky at Start.

Young Klaerner didn't lose any time showing that he either was slightly nervous in his new job or that he is not especially keen on control. He walked both Stone and Myer with one gone in the first inning, but escaped when Manush fanned and Schulte popped to Bonura. Two men also reached base in the Sox's opening half, but not as the result of gifts. After two were out Simmons slapped his 18th homer into the left field seats and Bonura followed with a single. He died when Appling flied to Stone in right.

Lack of control as well as base hits

In the WAKE of the NEWS

Baseball Forecasts.

WITH New York and Detroit in a fair way to win pennants of the National and American leagues respectively, despite mathematical possibilities still extant and to a certain extent threatening, let's look back to the start of the season and see how the baseball soothsayers fared in their forecasts.

In the National league the result generally was conceded to lie between New York and Chicago, with a small plurality favoring the Giants, and the Pirates ranking third in the picking. Detroit in the American league is a distinct surprise. Washington was strongly favored to repeat.

Poll of 174 baseball writers was made before the season opened by Sporting News of St. Louis, national baseball weekly. Of this number, 68 voted for the Giants for first position, 62 for the Cubs, 34 for Pittsburgh, 1 for Brooklyn, and 1 for Philadelphia. By the point system of counting the ballots the clubs were placed to finish in this order:

New York, Chicago, Pittsburgh, St. Louis, Boston, Brooklyn, Cincinnati, and Philadelphia.

Note, if you will, how closely that ranking conforms to the present National league percentage standing.

In the betting side of the picture the New York bookmaker whose odds are most generally accepted quoted 3 to 2 against the Giants during spring training, 8 to 5 as the season opened, and 7 to 5 on July 1. Similar odds against Cubs were 3 to 1, 5 to 2, and 2 to 1.

In the American league, same Sporting News poll, only 19 of 174 writers picked Detroit. Washington had 101 firsts, New York 39, Boston 11, Chicago 3, and Philadelphia 1. The composite point system placed the teams thus:

Washington, New York, Boston, Detroit, Cleveland, Chicago, Philadelphia, and St. Louis.

That placing is at wide variance with present standings.

In the betting Detroit was 30 to 1 during spring training, 15 to 1 as the season opened, and 2 to 1 on July 1. Washington similarly was even money, 6 to 5, and 4 to 1; Yankees, 2 to 1, 6 to 5, and 7 to 5; White Sox, 20 to 1, 10 to 1, and 1,000 to 1.

Wild Golfing.

A fellow is always thinking good, while golfing.
He cracks the ball with steel or wood, while golfing.
He thinks of many things to do
From crown of head to toe of shoe;
His grip, his swing, his stance, his club,
And then, by gosh, his shot's a dub
While golfing.

He hopes to make the hole in par,
And then he gets an awful jar
To find he landed in the ditch
And then a shot he tries to pitch
While golfing.

He cuffs the ball upon the head.
It does not loft, but lies there dead.
Then he swears: "O, well, O, well."
He had his shoes on when he fell.
But "What the well, Bill; what the well,"
While golfing.

EX-CHAMPION LOSES, 1 UP, TO DETROIT STAR

Gardner Withdraws from Amateur.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Brookline, Mass., Sept. 10.—His name is Bobby Jones, but he needed far more than that name to fire the shot heard round-the-country-club today in the first round of the 38th national amateur golf tournament.

What is more, he had all that it takes to beat a golfer like Francis Ouimet, twice champion and Walker cup captain, 1 up, in the latter's back yard and in his own first national tournament. He is not THE Bobby Jones, but Robert Carpenter Jones of the Detroit, Mich., Joneses, who reached his 18th birthday on the first day of this year. But THE Bobby Jones joined the largest gallery of the day at the tenth tee when word went around that this kid from the provinces had held Ouimet, the home town pride, even through the first nine holes. When the shooting was over THE Bobby posed for several pictures with his namesake.

It is likely that the Detroit Jones henceforth will be known as Bobby the Younger, for the Atlanta Jones couldn't have been in there pitching much better himself today. It requires a few good golf shots to score a 72, one over par, and beat Francis Ouimet, and Bobby the Younger had all of them in his quiver, with a couple to boot.

Two Ex-Champs Default.

The Jones-Ouimet match was far and away the best of the 55 which made up the greatest single day of competition in the history of American golf. Sixty matches had been scheduled, but five players defaulted, among them Robert A. Gardner of Chicago, champion of 1909 and 1913, who was called to Chicago by the illness of his mother, and Harrison R. Johnston, 1929 titleholder, who was kept in St. Paul by business.

Tomorrow brings the second round and 64 more 18 hole matches, the heaviest round of the program. The 64 survivors will meet in the first of the double rounds on Wednesday, reducing the original field of 135 to 64. These will fight through another double-header on Thursday, leaving four players for the 36 holes semi-finals on Friday. The championship match on Saturday also will be over the long route, bringing the total to 137 matches for the week.

Favorites Play Today.

Tomorrow also will bring into the tournament for the first time several of the real favorites, who were allowed to take it easy today by virtue of having drawn first round byes. Among these is George T. Dunlap Jr. of New York City, who won the championship at Cincinnati last year. In his first appearance the freckle-faced George, who contented himself with rooting for Ouimet today, is paired against W. B. McCullough Jr. of Noble, Pa.

Other stars who will play their first match tomorrow are Lawson Little of San Francisco, British amateur champion; Johnny Goodman of Omaha, Neb., runnerup in 1932 and open champion in 1933; Johnny Fischer, University of Michigan Walker cup player; Jack Westland, Chicago's Walker cup representative, and Jess Sweetser of New York, 1922 champion.

Of the former champions who were invited by the U. S. G. A. to compete without qualifying, five won their first round matches and two lost. In addition to Ouimet, Max Marston, Philadelphia broker who was runnerup to Dunlap last year and was a member of the 1934 Walker cup team, went down, 1 up, before a young man from Pittsburgh named Knox M. Young Jr. The golf they played should not be mentioned in the same sentence with that displayed by Jones and Ouimet but for the record. Young shot an 80 and Marston an 82.

Victors Escape Rain.

The five victors were fortunate enough to escape a series of heavy showers late in the afternoon. Heading them was the 50 year old Chandler Egan of Pebble Beach, Cal., champion in 1904 and 1905; Ross Somerville of London, Ont., who two years ago became the first Canadian to win the

CLOUD D'OR WINS THIRD IN ROW AT LINCOLN FIELDS

Rallies in Stretch, Beats Handicap Stars.

BY FRENCH LANE.

A budding champion is sweeping to the front at the race meeting of the Lincoln Field Jocky club.

Cloud D'Or, a son of High Cloud-Heart O'Gold, owned by Mrs. W. T. Westrope of Iowa, is the horse. He galloped to his third straight victory in the Drexel handicap yesterday and trailing home behind him were such fast horses as Fanfern, Jens Son, Trey, Carbina, and Evergold.

Until he started his winning streak Cloud D'Or had been associating with selling platers. He has moved up into the overnight handicap division in his last two efforts and has won these races just as handily as he won when running in claiming events.

Plunge on Audley Entry.

He was made the favorite in this race despite a plunge on the Audley farm entry of Trey and Carbina and some smart backing for Evergold.

Cloud D'Or's job didn't offer much encouragement in the early stages and his task appeared to be hopeless when Trey and Carbina, the Audley farm color bearers, headed into the turn into the backstretch running in first and second positions.

Cloud D'Or crowded his way up between them and shortly after the stretch run started his nose was showing in front. The game rally brought a great cheer from the army of fans who had backed him.

The Audley Farm pair dropped out of contention, while Fanfern and Jens Son rushed up and fought it out for the short end of the purse.

Cloud d'Or's time over the slow track was 1:13 1-5, and in the mutuels he paid $5.48. Jocky J. King sent Cloud d'Or to the triumph.

Dixiana Puts Over Hastinola.

After he had finished out of the money in the first three races, Jocky Paul Keester had to be satisfied with two victories. He scored on Polyphote in the fourth race after leading all the way. He made one of the greatest rides of his career to win the last race on Vox Pop, bringing him from behind and scoring in the last jump. Keester was second on Star Banner and finished third on Jens Son in the sixth race.

The Momence purse at 5½ furlongs for 2 year olds was another good race on the program and it brought an unexpected victory by Hastinola, a daughter of Peter Hastings-Anola from Dixiana stable, when she sailed past the winning post one length in front of Star Banner and My Blonde.

Hastinola paid off at $21.96 in the mutuels despite the fact that her trainer, Clyde Van Dusen, was around telling almost everybody that he thought the filly was a good thing on this kind of a track and in this sort of company.

Hastinola's price soared as a result of a plunge on Grey Streak, a son of Pompey, from the barn of Mrs. John Marsch of Chicago.

Star Banner Challenges.

He was away slowly and while he made up a lot of ground he never threatened the fast running Hastinola, which had galloped very swiftly out in front for the entire distance.

Star Banner made a desperate challenge on the turn leading into the stretch and at one time was up on even terms with Hastinola. Hastinola pulled away. Star Banner continued to challenge in the run down the stretch and Keester rode her in furious fashion, but she could not catch the fleet Dixiana filly. The time was 1:07 3-5.

Von Lehman Wrestles Julius Woronick Tonight

Karl von Lehman will wrestle Julius Woronick tonight at White City, in a one fall match with a 90 minute time limit. Ralph Garibaldi will meet George Jonasen in a 30 minute semi-windup. Buck O'Neil meets Les Fischbaugh, and Casey Jones and Jimmy Demetral of Wisconsin are matched in 30 minute preliminaries.

Time, :24 3-5, :48 2-5, 1:14, 1:28. Two dollar mutuels paid: Hamilton, $8.88 straight, $5.32 place, $3.02 show; Canteron, $7.34 place, $4.68 show; Platinum Blonde, $2.86 show. Winner trained by J. Parmelee. Went to post at 2:15½. At post 2 minutes. Start good from gate. Won driving; second and third same.

HAMILTON, having the most speed, made the early pace under mild restraint, was vigorously shaken up after reaching stretch and weakened in final eighth, but outstayed CANTERON, Latter, moved up gradually approaching the turn, came out in stretch and stood a drive courageously. PLATINUM BLONDE, on inside early, dropped out of it after a quarter and, coming to extreme outside in stretch, closed fastest of all.

SECOND RACE—Five and one-half furlongs. Purse $800. Net value to winner, $600; second, $125; third, $50; fourth, $25.

Winner trained by S. McCarthy. Went to post at 3:50; off at once. Start good from gate. Won driving; second and third same.

MY SURPRISE, away fast but slightly outrun, was forced to outside for room in stretch, swerved over slightly in the drive and, wearing down the leaders, won drawing out. JEWELRY, having speed from the start and under strong riding the final quarter, held on courageously. BRILLIANT QUEEN, well rated and saving much ground, gave way very slowly in the drive.

THIRD RACE—Seven furlongs, out of chute. Purse $800. Net value to winner, $600; second, $125; third, $50; fourth, $25. Daily double, 2d and 3d races, paid $65.10.

Time, :24 3-5, :48 2-5, 1:13 4-5, 1:27 1-5. Two dollar mutuels paid: Score, $14.46 straight, $6.70 place, $3.88 show; Polly's Folly, $6.46 place, $3.38 show; Renaissance, $2.38 show. Winner trained by owner. Went to post at 3:17. At post 4½ minutes. Start good from gate. Won driving; second and third same.

SCORE, having great speed from the start and on inside throughout, continued with determination after being headed and outfinished POLLY'S FOLLY in closing strides. Latter, sent up fast on outside at far turn, followed the pace under mild restraint on the turn and faltered slightly after getting to front. RENAISSANCE, under strong riding the closing three-eighths, did not threaten leaders and weakened in late stages, but outstayed POTESTAS. Latter, rank at start, showed a fair effort.

POLYPHOTE took command quickly, held sway easily to the last sixteenth, where she was made to shake up and, though faltering, was not seriously threatened. LOTTA AIRS, slow to begin and badly outrun early, closed with a rush on outside. OUR HOBBY, away slowly and much used in first quarter, bore over in stretch and held on well.

FIFTH RACE—Five and one-half furlongs. Purse $800. Net value to winner, $600; second, $125; third, $50; fourth, $25.

Time, :23 4-5, :47 3-5, 1:00 4-5, 1:07 3-5. Weather cloudy. Two dollar mutuels paid: Hastinola, $21.96 straight, $7.82 place, $4.88 show; Star Banner, $5.94 place, $2.96 show; My Blonde, $3.02 show. Winner trained by J. Parmelee. Went to post at 4:21. At post 1¼ minutes. Start good from gate. Won driving; second and third same.

HASTINOLA beginning in improved fashion and having speed, saved ground throughout and, holding on well, came away slowly in final eighth. STAR BANNER slipped through small openings when moving up in first quarter, was inclined to beat out in stretch, but held on well. MY BLONDE, a strong factor from the start, came to extreme outside in stretch and stood a drive courageously.

SIXTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse $800. Net value to winner, $600; second, $125; third, $50; fourth, $25.

CLOUD D'OR, reserving off the pace and raced very wide for five-eighths, moved up with a rush after reaching stretch and swerved over when drawing out. FANFERN slipped between the leaders approaching the stretch, stood pressure gamely much of the final quarter and outlasted JEN'S SON. Latter, far back in early stages and brought out for stretch, closed with fine speed.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse $800. Net value to winner, $600; second, $125; third, $50; fourth, $25.

Winner trained by D. McEachern. Went to post at 5:19. At post 2½ minutes. Start good for all but White Legs. Won driving; place same.

VOX POP, away fast and saving much ground the first three-quarters, came out after reaching stretch and, holding on well under severe pressure, was up in closing strides. ASHEN, on inside after opening three-eighths, gamely resisted MISS FLIP'S bid, but weakened right at the end. MISS FLIP went to ASHEN with a rush on stretch turn and, though failing to get up, fought it out gamely.

PIRATES POUND SCHUMACHER TO BEAT GIANTS, 9-7

Score Five Runs in Ninth Inning.

New York, Sept. 10.—(AP)—The New York Giants' defense crumbled today as the Pittsburgh Pirates rallied in the ninth to score five runs to defeat the world champion's, 9 to 7, for their seventh straight triumph. The defeat, the Giants' third in succession, reduced their lead over the Cardinals to four games.

The Giants made six errors, three in the ninth when the Pirates coupled timely hits to chalk up victory. They pounded Hal Schumacher from the mound and continued on Carl Hubbell. Gus Mancuso, Hughie Critz, and Mel Ott drove out homers. Ott's homer was his 33d, and gave him the National league lead.

In the ninth Grace, L. Waner, and Vaughan hit singles, Paul Waner walked, and Vergez, Mancuso, and Leiber contributed errors. Score:

Dobermann Wins Best Dog Title at Northbrook

BY BOB BECKER.

After the smoke of battle had cleared away Sunday night above the show ring of the Northbrook Kennel club dog show, held at the Curtiss-Wright airport near Northbrook, Ill., it wasn't difficult to hear the cheers of Chicago dog fanciers. The reason for the big noise was the winning of the title, "best dog in the show," by Gust von Bad Heidelberg, a Dobermann Pinscher owned by M. V. Reynolds, a Chicagoan.

This stylish, well handled Dobermann, which paid strict attention to its handler in the ring and had eyes and ears only for his commands, was given a big hand when the judge walked out with the big silver cup and made the award.

Just a short time before this judging of the best dog in the show Chicago colors were above the show ring because of the victory of a Chicago owned wire haired terrier as the best terrier in the show. Harry J. Lowenbach's Harlow Brentwood Surprise was the victor. Earlier in the afternoon we had had this snappy little terrier out on the lawn to get acquainted with her. Of course she was dressed up like a fashion plate, chalked and combed until there wasn't a hair on her body out of position.

Tigers Defeat Red Sox, 2 to 1, on Home Runs

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 10.—(AP)—Cracking out two home runs, one in the seventh to tie the score and the other in the ninth, Hank Greenberg paced the Detroit Tigers a 2 to 1 victory over the Boston Red Sox today. The triumph boosted the Tigers' margin to four and one-half games over the Yankees.

Elden Auker, right-hander, was in great form, yielding three hits. Only si balls were hit out of the infield. Rhodes also was effective, except when pitching to Greenberg. He held Detroit to five hits, two of which were made by the giant Jewish first baseman and two by Manager Mickey Cochrane.

ATHLETICS, 9; INDIANS, 6.

Cleveland, O., Sept. 10.—(AP)—George Caster, right hand pitcher recently acquired by Connie Mack from Portland, Ore., held the Indians in check today and his teammates made 13 hits off three Cleveland hurlers to enable Philadelphia to win, 9 to 6. Caster, relieved by Roy Mahaffey in the ninth, was credited with the victory.

Philadelphia routed Ralph Winegarner Cleveland pitcher, in the sixth inning. Hayes walked with the bases full and Caster singled, scoring two more runs. Two more were made before the inning ended.

GREENBERG GOES TO CHURCH, THEN WINS FOR TIGERS

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 10.—(AP)—Hank Greenberg, first baseman for the Detroit Tigers, who hit two home runs today to help the Tigers defeat the Boston Red Sox in a tight pitchers' battle, went into the game with many doubts and misgivings.

As a conscientious orthodox Jew, Greenberg might not have played baseball today if the winning or losing of a single game did not mean so much to Detroit's pennant chance, for today was Rosh Hashana, one of the most important of the Jewish religious holidays. For orthodox Jewry it was a day of abstinence spent in prayer.

Greenberg debated the problem with himself. He asked Mickey Cochrane in the dugout if the Tiger manager wanted him in the lineup. Cochrane said he wanted him to play every day, but would let Greenberg decide the question for himself.

Greenberg also learned from the Jewish church that no dispensation could be given him on the occasion to release him from a matter of personal responsibility.

Then he made his decision. He went to his religious services before the game and then went to the field. He hit one home run to tie the score and another that broke up the ball game, and went back to church.

bothered Klaerner in the second and a run resulted. After Susko had rolled to Bonura a two base hit to right center popped off Sewell's bat. He moved over to third on Kerr's infield out. Klaerner walked Russell, the enemy pitcher, which is always a dangerous procedure. A moment later Bluege pushed a single between short and third to score Sewell with the tying run.

Sox Get Two in Fifth.

The Senators made more futile motions in the fifth. Stone led off with a single, Myer sacrificed, Manush filed to Simmons and Schulte walked. This threat faded when Klaerner deflected Susko's drive into Hayes' hands for an out. Then the Sox got busy after two were out in their half and helped themselves to a couple of runs. Klaerner doubled to left center and Swanson walked. Uhlir whacked a single to center to send Klaerner across the plate. Simmons singled to right and Swanson scored.

Klaerner's two run lead started to melt down into a 3 to 3 tie when he walked Kerr and Russell with one out in the sixth. Bluege struck out but Mr. Stone was different. He caromed a drive off the top of the right field wall for two bases, sending Kerr and Russell home.

Hits Are Wasted.

The Sox also were active in the sixth, but it didn't do them any good. Appling led off with a single to left, Hayes popped out and Mauldin doubled to center. Shea was purposely passed, the idea being that Klaerner wasn't tough depsite his previous double. It proved a swell idea. Klaerner poked into a double play.

The four run unhappiness in the seventh started with Manush's single to short and Schulte's single to center. They were bunted up a notch by Susko. Sewell was purposely passed, filling the bases. This was where Acting Manager Al Schacht upset the Sox strategy. He asked Bolton to bat for Kerr and the former promptly responded with his devastating homer into the right field lower deck. Klaerner finished the inning and then went on his way.

The Sox came up with a run in the eighth, although they made only one hit. Appling walked for a starter and Hayes singled off Harris' glove. Appling got around to the plate on a couple of infield outs.

LINN WINNER AT HINES HOSPITAL BOXING PROGRAM

Included among the personals who officiated and entertained the capacity crowd were Leo Rodak, Art Sykes, Earl Mastro, Johnny Phagan, Sam Abruscato, Eddie Long, Tommy Thomas, Ted Bogan, Frank Sigillo, and Ben Crouch.

Cubs Rest Up to Face Boston and Ed Brandt Today

BY EDWARD BURNS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Boston, Mass., Sept. 10.—The Cubs today rested in preparation for the resumption of their fight to stay in the first division of the National league and are scheduled to play the Braves tomorrow in an effort to prevent the Bostonese from licking them for the 13th time this year. It rained hard this afternoon and the Cubs may get to rest again tomorrow because of weather conditions.

If it clears up, the weary Chicagoans will be represented in the pitching department by Bill Lee. Dutch Brandt probably will furnish the opposition.

Phil Cavaretta, 18 year old first baseman who has been playing with Reading, joined the Cubs today and will remain with the outfit during the remainder of the season, at least. Phil, a Chicago lad, bats and throws left handed. He hit .305 with Reading.

After finishing up here Wednesday the Cubs will go to Brooklyn to play the Dodgers five games in four days. Lon Warnke is scheduled to go after his 21st victory of the year in the final here.

DUNDEE DEFENDS TITLE AGAINST YAROSZ TONIGHT

Pittsburgh, Pa., Sept. 10.—(AP)—Vince Dundee, 30 year old veteran whose family has given boxing two champions, risks his middleweight title tomorrow night against a rugged young challenger, Teddy Yarosz of Monaca, Pa.

Beaten twice by his 24 year old opponent in nontitle bouts, Dundee has trained diligently for the 15 round match to be fought at Forbes field, home of the Pittsburgh Pirates. Promoters expect a crowd of 27,000. Yarosz was a 5 to 4 favorite tonight.

Dundee learned to fight under the teaching of his brother Joe, welterweight champion a few years ago. He has been fighting since 1925 and will defend the title he won last December by whipping Lou Brouillard in Boston.

WORLD SERIES CONFERENCE SET FOR THURSDAY

Baseball Commissioner Kenesaw M. Landis yesterday issued a call for a preliminary conference in his office in the 333 North Michigan Avenue building Thursday morning for discussion of world series plans.

Representatives of each major league club with a mathematical chance to win the respective league pennants—Detroit and New York in the American and New York, St. Louis, and Chicago in the National—were invited to attend.

C. Y. O. Nines Open National Tomorrow

Two Louisville, Ky., teams will arrive at the Union station this morning to compete in the second annual National Catholic Youth Organization baseball tournament, which opens tomorrow morning at Wrigley field. Play will continue until Sunday. The Kentucky teams are St. Elizabeth and St. Bertrand's co-winners of the Louisville Catholic championship.

Mayor to Open Tourney.

Nine other championship teams will reach Chicago before tomorrow noon. They are St. Isidore's, Grand Rapids, Mich.; Holy Assumption, West Allis, Wis.; Knights of Columbus, Springfield, Ill.; Tivoli club, Detroit, Mich.; All-Stars, York, Neb.; All-Stars, Dubuque, Ia.; St. Patrick's, Janesville, Wis., and St. Mary's, Alton, Ill.

Mayor Kelly will open the tourney tomorrow morning by throwing the first ball. The opening game of the meet will bring together last year's champion, St. Adrian's, from Chicago's south side, and St. Peter's of Aurora, Ill. This game will start at 10:30. At 1:30 St. Elizabeth of Louisville, will meet St. Isidore's of Grand Rapids, and at 3:30 Springfield will play Detroit.

Ex-Big Leagues on Board.

Final arrangements completed yesterday included appointments of an advisory board composed of former major league stars to judge the sportsmanship. The board consists of Jimmy Archer, Eddie Stack, Fred Luderus, and Jimmy Hutton.

Pairings for the first round of the meet will be completed today and will be announced tomorrow by Jack Elder, C. Y. O. athletic director.

title, and three gentlemen in their forties—Chick Evans of Chicago, winner in 1916 and 1920; Jesse Guilford of Boston, victor in 1921, and S. Davidson Herron of Pittsburgh, 1919 champion.

Somerville, for whose game every other star in the field has a high regard, moved on with a 2 and 1 decision over E. P. Kirouac of Walpole, Mass. Egan triumphed easily, 3 and 1, over J. W. Brown of Brielle, N. J. Evans won, 3 and 2, from Crawford Rainwater of Atlanta, Ga., who was born in 1916, the year Chick won both the Open and Amateur. Guilford ran over Gordon Taylor, former Canadian amateur champion, 5 and 4. Herron, playing none too well, went out in 45, ten over par, in spite of which he was one up on Young Hal Chase II. of Des Moines, Ia. Herron finally won, 2 and 1.

Chicagoans Advance.

In addition to Westland, Chicago will have at least three of its ablest entries in the second round. They are Johnny Lehman of Olympia Fields, Don Armstrong of Aurora, and Russ Martin of Flossmoor. All advanced with first round victories today.

No bottles, chairs, or ladies' purses were hurled at a golfer listed as J. C. Cameron of Montreal, which seemed quite strange to hocky followers in the gallery. The gent in question is none other than Jack Cameron, one of the ablest whistle blowers in the National Hocky league. When he isn't refereeing Jack plays pretty handsome golf, demonstrating same by winning his first round match from Dick Ashley of Kenosha, Wis., one of the Chicago district qualifiers, 5 and 4.

Eleven Chicago Players Remain in U. S. Amateur

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Brookline, Mass., Sept. 10.—Eleven players from the Chicago district remained in the National Amateur golf tournament tonight, six of them winning first round matches today. Five had automatically entered the second round by drawing byes. This quintet included Jack Westland of Sunset Ridge; Winfield Day of Elmhurst, Wilford Wehrle of Racine, Wis.; Al Andereggan of Lincoln park, and Steve Williams of Evanston.

John Lehman of Olympia Fields and Don Armstrong of Aurora, shot some of the finest golf of the first round, the former defeating Brown Cannon of Denver, Colo., 2 and 1, and Armstrong eliminating Paul Jackson of Oklahoma City, 2 up.

Lehman needed only a par four for a full medal card of 72, which would have equaled Bobby Jones' score, and Armstrong finished with a 73, the second best complete card of the tournament. Russ Martin of Flossmoor was around in 75 to beat Jack Mackie Jr. of Inwood, N. Y., 2 up.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 10.—Attention in the listed bond market today centered mainly in the United States government issues, particularly in called Fourth Liberty 4¼s, which jumped 14-32d point. Other issues of the government group closed irregular, up 6-32d to down 10-32d point. Dealings in the government group reached $7,140,900 of the total turnover of $12,706,900.

The rise of 14-32d point to 101-6-32ds for the 4¼s attested to the favorable response by the financial community to the United States treasury's refunding offer of twelve year 3¼ per cent bonds or four year 2¼ per cent notes. Dealings in the issue aggregated $4,283,200.

Favors Four Year Notes.

The financial community favors the four year notes in the exchange offer as institutional demand has long favored the shorter government issues to the longer. Banks acting for small investors said today that many of these showed a preference for the bonds so that any guesses on the probable ratio of bonds and notes exchanges at this time are considered futile.

Although the terms of the Fourth 4¼ exchange were quite in line with the expectations of many, the bonus offered by the treasury of an extra month's interest came as a welcome surprise.

Corporation List Lower.

Domestic corporation bonds moved irregularly lower with a number of fairly active issues losing a point or more on the day. A feature of the day was the spurt New York Rapid Transit obligations. The Interborough issues jumped 1 to 4 points, with the 6s due in 1932 and the certificates therefor touching new highs for the year. Manhattan Railway first 4s jumped 2 points.

Dealings in foreign loans were featured by the sharp rise in Argentine bonds, which touched new highs for the year on gains of 1-⅝ to 3⅜ points. Other Latin American bonds were generally firm. Most of the European loans were dull. German government issues were down fractionally, as were United Kingdom 4s, due 1990. French government loans lost ¼ to 1⅜ points.

Connecticut General Life Ins.

Investors' Guide: I would be pleased to receive information concerning Connecticut General Life Insurance company. How long has it been organized?—Mrs. F. E. R.

Answer: Connecticut General Life Insurance company, Hartford, Conn., is a stock company, but writes both participating and nonparticipating life insurance. It began business in 1865.

Insurance in force at the close of 1933 held fairly steady at 1,010 million dollars, against 1,098 million the year before. On Dec. 31, 1931, it stood at 1,202 million dollars.

The company in 1933 was able to pay out all disbursements from income. Total income was $39,519,000 and disbursements aggregated $33,976,000.

Admitted assets on Dec. 31, 1933, totaled $162,808,000. Real estate was 11 per cent of assets; mortgages were 2[illegible] per cent; policy loans were 16 per cent; bonds [amortized values], 38 per cent; cash, 1 per cent, and preferred and common stocks [convention values], 5 per cent. The $1,977,000 earmarked contingency reserve was sufficient to write down convention valuations of stocks and of bonds in default to market values.

The reserve basis under which the company operates is strong.

Net rate earned on assets in 1933 was 4.1 per cent, against 4 per cent in 1932, 4.6 per cent in 1931 and 4.8 per cent in 1930. Mortality rate is favorable.

Net surplus to policy holders on Dec. 31, 1933, was $6,813,000.

Consolidated Telephone.

Investors' Guide: May I ask your opinion on Consolidated Telephone company [Wis.] first 5½s, due 1942?—G. H. W.

Answer: The $944,500 Consolidated Telephone company [Wis.] first 5½s, due 1942, are secured by a first mortgage on all assets, tangible and franchises of the former Consolidated Telephone company [Wis.]. In 1929 they were assumed by Commonwealth Telephone company [Wis.].

The latter is a subsidiary of Associated Telephone Utilities company. It supplies telephone service to 33,672 stations in Wisconsin. Sale of electricity to 1,357 customers is a minor activity.

Operating revenues for the 12 months to March 31, 1934, of $903,000 compared with $1,002,000 for the preceding 12 months. Charges were covered 1¾ times. Operating revenues for 1933 were $936,000. Results are not strictly comparable with previous years due to change in the accounting system. In 1932 operating revenues were $1,139,000, against $1,280,000 for 1931. Charges were covered 1.80 times in 1933, 2.39 times in 1932, 2.90 times in 1931 and 2.87 times in 1930.

BANK CONTROL OF MIDDLE WEST IS NEWEST PLAN

Proposal to Buy Out Creditors Dropped.

Reorganization of Middle West Utilities company will be accomplished without the raising of new money or the elimination of secured creditors from a controling interest in the new company, it was learned yesterday.

Announcement is expected from the noteholders in a few days of their abandonment of an option to buy out banks and other secured creditors in order to assume control of the huge Insull holding concern. This decision, it was learned, was reached at a secret conference in New York last Friday when all interested parties except stockholders were represented. This action was said to be influenced by the universally cool reception given to plans for raising the $11,340,000 needed to exercise the option.

Noteholders' Plan Rejected.

It was also learned that the noteholder representatives offered a counter proposal to buy out part of the secured claims, in view of apparent difficulties in raising the full sum. This would have given the noteholders control without satisfying the banks, and was turned down flatly.

The plan of reorganization to be presented to Federal Judge Wilkerson Sept. 20, at a hearing on appointment of a permanent trustee, will be the alternative "three million share plan." Only one class of common stock totaling 3,000,000 shares will be issued. Under this plan 1,710,000 shares will go to the Bankers' Trust company, New York, the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company, First National bank, and Central Republic Trust company, Chicago, and General Electric company.

The remaining 1,290,000 shares will be divided among the noteholders, Halsey, Stuart & Co., the Illinois Northern Utilities company, the North American Light and Power company, and other unsecured creditors.

Banks Will Dominate Company.

The four banking creditors will nominate a majority of the board and dominate the company. Stockholders, whose equity has been questioned throughout, will obtain no direct interest in the reorganized company. They will receive warants to purchase stock—one warant for each share of preferred and one for 25 shares of common. The prices range from $8 to $10 for a share of the new common over a ten year period.

"These warants are much more desirable under this plan than under the noteholders' option," said Donald F. McPherson, attorney for the preferred holders. "A stockholder now may buy a new stock with no security ahead of it. Under the noteholders' option plan 240,000 shares of preferred stock would be sold and warants would be good for only a junior holding."

The preferred stockholders previously expressed a preference for the warants rather than a junior security when the 3,000,000 share plan was being formed.

All Interests Represented.

Abner J. Stilwell, representing the Continental Illinois bank at the New York meeting, refused comment other than to say that all parties will be represented in the reorganization. He said that all creditors agreed to take an active part.

"Any announcement now would be premature," said Mr. Stilwell, "in view of the extremely complicated nature of the undertaking. Interpretation of Section 77B, under which the reorganization is proceeding, is a major problem in itself. We heard lawyers argue for hours about a single point."

All parties agreed that actual reorganization and management will be far more difficult than the knotty question of dividing control of the company, one which has occupied their undivided attention for months. Charles S. Dewey, chairman of the noteholders' committee, denied that the option, now good until Dec. 1, has been junked. He admitted however, that his committee will consider such action in the next day or two.

Dewey Foresees Coöperation.

Mr. Dewey concurred with other statements of those who attended the New York meeting in forecasting agreement on a friendly basis with all parties coöperating to put the old company on its feet.

Asked why common stockholders were not represented, Mr. Dewey raised the question of whether any person actually qualifies to speak for that group. This was taken as a slap at Orville Taylor, attorney for a group representing one-fifth of the common stock, and who led the attack on the noteholders' plan.

Mr. Dewey renewed promises to protect the stockholders' interests "as they exist." He predicted common stockholders will be satisfied, since they made their investments as speculation, and "like many other speculative ventures in recent years, there were not happy results."

United Fruit Increases Dividend; Singer Pays Extra

New York, Sept. 10.—(AP)—Directors of the United Fruit company today declared a dividend of 75 cents on the common stock, payable Oct. 15 to stock of record Sept. 20. In previous quarters the company paid 50 cents a share, and in April, 1934, an extra dividend of 50 cents was ordered in addition to the regular disbursement. Directors of the Singer Manufacturing company declared an extra dividend of $2.50 on the capital stock, payable out of surplus, and the regular quarterly dividend of $1.50, both payable Sept. 29 to stock of record Sept. 10.

Treasury Plan Will Succeed, Bankers Say

BY HOWARD WOOD.

Predictions were freely voiced yesterday by bankers and bond experts that the treasury's 1 billion, 725 million dollar financing scheme, announced Sunday night, would be successful. The opinion was almost universally held that the interest rate had been set sufficiently high to insure acceptance by a satisfactory number of bondholders. Those who refuse to exchange their maturing bonds and certificates for new bonds and notes will be paid in cash out of the treasury's surplus.

The "street" was impressed by the lengths to which the treasury had gone in attempting to make the new issues attractive. Not only was the interest yield set well above the going rate for similar bonds in the open market, but the treasury went back to the war time stunt of offering a "loss leader" in the shape of an extra month's interest payment to those who accepted.

The terms of the treasury's refinancing scheme, announced Sunday night, were, briefly, as follows:

Holders of the 525 millions of notes maturing Sept. 15 are offered in exchange new two year notes paying 1½ per cent interest. Holders of the 1 billion 200 millions of fourth Liberty loan bonds, called last April for redemption on Oct. 15, are offered in exchange either [1] new four year note paying 2½ per cent interest, or [2] new twelve year bonds [callable at the option of the treasury in ten years] paying 3½ per cent interest.

Inasmuch as comparable bonds already outstanding have been selling in the open market at prices making them yield only about 3.15 per cent per annum, the treasury is really offering a premium of about 0.10 per cent per annum in making the interest rate on the new twelve year bonds 3.25 per cent.

The extra month's interest goes only to holders of the called Liberty bonds who exchange them for the new bonds or notes. The new paper they are offered begins to pay interest as of the exchange date, Sept. 15, whereas interest continues on the old bonds up to Oct. 15.

The identity of the holders of the maturing bonds and notes is not known even to the treasury. According to estimates, however, a large part of called Liberties is held by banks and insurance companies. The expiring short term notes are held almost exclusively by banks and corporations, because the low yield on short term treasury paper makes it unattractive to private investors.

Because of the amount of their holdings the attitude of the banks is highly important. Judging by comments in banking circles yesterday the terms of the new issue struck them favorably.

Bond market experts viewed the treasury's decision to limit the new offering strictly to an exchange basis as a shrewd move. By offering no bonds for cash the treasury dodges a test of its credit which would be measured by the size of the oversubscription. Recent weakness in the government bond market stirred up some doubt as to the reception that might be accorded an offering of treasury bonds for cash.

Apparently no stone is being left unturned by the treasury in setting the stage for its refinancing scheme. Even the quotations on the American dollar in foreign exchange transactions were being taken care of. The strength of the dollar against the French franc during the latter part of last week was understood to be due to the treasury department's employment of its big stabilization fund to rig the quotations on the dollar. Dollars were being bought and franc sold. And American gold was being exported to bolster the dollar still further.

With the November congressional elections only two months away the treasury could take no chances on a failure such as attended its big refinancing attempt a year ago.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 10.—Business failures in the United States in the past week fell below the number of any previous record back as far as fourteen years; that is, to the last week of September, 1920. The number, according to reports filed with Dun & Bradstreet's Inc., for the week ended last Thursday, was 174, compared with 202 and 218, respectively, in the two preceding weeks; 255 in the same week of last year, and 420 two years ago.

This year, as well as in the two previous years, the week was shortened by the interruption of the Labor day holiday. So was that of the first week of July, when Independence day was observed. For the week last mentioned 181 business defaults were recorded, which was the lowest number for any week in fourteen years up to that time. Usually in these holiday weeks there is some reduction in number of insolvencies.

Kennecott Copper Votes Distribution of 15 Cents

New York, Sept. 10.—(AP)—Directors of the Kennecott Copper corporation today declared 15 cents on the capital stock, payable Sept. 29, to stock of record Sept. 20. The company paid a similar dividend three months ago.

Bank Criticism Boomerang to U. S. Officials

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 10.—Criticism of bankers by some administration officials for being too conservative in making new loans to industry became a boomerang today when F. M. Law, president of the American Bankers association, attributed responsibility for the situation to lack of uniformity in government examination standards and the stringent requirements of federal examiners.

Addressing the first joint conference today of examiners for the principal government regulatory bodies, he said:

"It stands to reason that as long as examiners believe it to be their duty to constantly hammer on loans that are admittedly good, only because they are slow it will have the effect not only of forcing banks to exert unnecessary pressure on such loans, but will prevent them from making new loans except those that are liquid and of short duration."

Officials Are Present.

Representatives of the controler of the currency, the Federal Reserve board, the Reconstruction Finance corporation and the Federal Deposit Insurance corporation attended the conference, and were addressed, in addition to Mr. Law, by Secretary Morgenthau, Chairman Jones of the RFC, and J. T. F. O'Connor, controler of the currency.

They agreed before the close of the sessions that the bankers had a legitimate complaint and a move toward bringing about a greater degree of coördination between the various federal agencies was obviously in prospect.

Although no real harm might come to a bank from having a large total appear in the examiner's report under the "slow" classification, said Mr. Law, the effect on the management and the board of directors was bad. "These men are human and they will be less inclined to make perfectly good loans which they consider entirely safe, if, in their minds, there is danger of these loans being classified as slow," he said.

Explains Directors' Stand.

"Directors are apt to get 'cold feet' in their own business if they find that practically all so-called slow loans are criticized by the government. In other words, the existing program of slow certification is a distinct deterrent and discouragement to the expansion of credit."

Mr. Law urged that in the case of national banks, one source of examination should be sufficient and that for state banks that were members of the federal reserve system or the FDIC, joint examinations conducted by the state and federal authorities should be arranged.

He suggested that there be greater coördination among federal agencies, at least as to the three following activities:

1. Standard, uniform condition statement after call.
2. Elimination to an irreducible minimum of multiple and duplicating reports required by various banking authorities and simplification of the form of required reports.
3. Centralized examination.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 10.—Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau announced tonight that the tenders for $75,000,000, or thereabouts, of 182 day treasury bills, dated Sept. 12, 1934, and maturing March 13, 1935, which were offered on Sept. 7, totaled $244,930,000, of which $75,365,000 was accepted.

The accepted bids ranged in price from 99.925, equivalent to a rate of about 0.15 per cent a year, to 99.874, equivalent to a rate of about 0.25 per cent, on a bank discount basis. The average price accepted was 99.886, and the average rate about 0.23 per cent a year on a bank discount basis.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 10.—The New York Stock exchange today announced the sale of two memberships, the first at $83,000, a decline of $7,000 from the previous sale, and the second at $78,000, a further decline of $5,000.

The transaction at $78,000 established the price at the lowest level since July 8, 1932, when a seat sold for $76,000. The previous low this year was $83,000, reached on March 27, and the high was $190,000 for several seats sold in January and February.

At the peak of the stock market boom in 1929 memberships sold up to $625,000.

DOLLAR FIRMER ON TREASURY'S REFUNDING PLAN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 10. — Aided by revelation of the treasury's financing program, the dollar gained today against foreign currencies. Gold units eased after the French franc reached the lowest level in three weeks.

The franc declined 1⅝ points to 6.66⅝ cents, being well below the point of 6.69 at which private gold exports are profitable. Pound sterling was unchanged at $5.00¼. The Canadian dollar slipped to $1.030625 from the close on Saturday at $1.0309375. German marks sank 5 points to 40.20 cents. Swiss francs dropped 5 points, Italian lira 2 points, and Dutch guilders 12 points.

There was an advance of 2½ pence to 140 shillings 11½ pence a fine ounce in the price of gold in London, being equivalent to $35.23 compared with $35.18 on Saturday. An amount valued at $264,831 was purchased.

The influence of the treasury announcement on financing lay in the fact that it stilled reports of cash payment of maturities. Such rumors were at least partly responsible for gains by foreign currencies on Saturday despite the operations of the equalization fund in Paris. The rise of the dollar today may result in a profit for the equalization fund, which sold francs short in the Paris market on Saturday.

In the London market the pound closed at $4.99 13-16, down 3-16 cent from Saturday's close at $5. The opening was at $4.99⅞. There was a general trade demand for the dollar and short selling speculators covered after hearing reports that an American equalization fund was supporting the dollar.

The franc in Paris lost 1¼ centimes against the dollar, to close at 6.673 cents to the franc, compared with the unofficial close on Saturday at 6.68 cents and the opening today at 6.677 cents.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 10.—If conditions in the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe's territory continue as they are or improve during the remainder of the year, the road will show an improvement in earnings for 1934, as compared with 1933, according to S. T. Bledsoe, president.

Bledsoe said that car loadings of the Atchison had recently been running about 20 per cent ahead of a year ago, and while almost all commodities had shown gains over last year the bulk of the improvement was due to increased movement of live stock and grain. However, lower rates as a result of emergency charges were an offsetting factor from the viewpoint of earnings, he said.

Despite the drouth, daily shipments of grain had been averaging more than twice the daily average for the like 1933 period, and on some days the movement was four to five times the movement on the same days in 1933, he said.

American Woolen Delays Preferred Dividend Action

New York, Sept. 10.—(AP)—Directors of the American Woolen company today voted to take no dividend action on the 7 per cent cumulative preferred stock "because of the uncertainty of business conditions in the woolen and worsted industries." In the two previous quarters, $1.25 a share was authorized on the senior stock.

Cut Gasoline Half Cent in Chicago Area

Prices of ethyl and regular grade gasoline will be reduced ½ cent in the Chicago metropolitan area this morning. There will be no change in the price of the third grade.

While the major companies were announcing adjustments affecting gasoline prices in 10 states, the independents stated that they will meet reductions here. Service station prices will be moved from 19.3 to 18.8 cents on ethyl and 17.3 to 16.8 cents on regular grades. Tank car prices are 2 cents lower.

Price Differential Reduced.

The third grade will remain at 15.8 cents at stations and 13.8 cents by tank car, thus reducing the differential from 1½ to 1 cent between it and the regular brand. The 2 cent differential remains between regular and ethyl gasoline.

Officials of Standard Oil of Indiana announced a reconstruction of normal price schedules, explaining that the action is necessary to prevent disturbance of the normal division of trade between towns as a result of numerous local wars and price cuts. Adjoining communities which at present have widely varying gasoline prices will be put on a more comparable basis by the change.

Cuts Range Up to 2 Cents.

To effect this leveling, price changes will range between 2 cents and fractions of a cent. The larger cuts will be made where there have been no disturbing price wars. At some points there will be no change.

The area affected includes Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Iowa, Missouri, Kansas, South Dakota, North Dakota, and Oklahoma.

An official of the Pure Oil company said that the adjustments are directed toward establishment of more equitable prices based on Oklahoma field prices and the costs of delivery to various points.

ICKES OFFERS 25 MILLION FOR HOUSING IN N. Y.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 10.—A plan for releasing at once all or part of the $25,000,000 tentatively allotted to New York City for slum clearance and construction of low cost housing was offered to Mayor Laguardia today in a letter by Secretary Ickes.

Dwight L. Hoopingarner, representing the Public Works administrator, reported by telephone that the mayor was personally in favor of accepting the proposition and would take the matter up with the board of estimate this week. The plan proposes that:

1. The government acquire the land necessary for the project and permit its use by the housing authority for a consideration based on the cost of the land, through a long term lease, with the authority having the option to purchase.
2. A grant of 30 per cent of the cost of labor and materials and a loan be made to the housing authority to cover the cost of building, the loan to be secured by first mortgage bonds.
3. Amortization of the loan may extend over a period of 45 years, payments starting about one year after completion of the project, with interest at 4 per cent.
4. New York City, through its housing authority or otherwise, put various assets into the projects to give it a definite share in expenses and maintenance of the projects.

New York City, it is explained, would provide city owned property within the area of each project and cash at least sufficient to cover minimum administration costs of the housing authority.

U. S. SMELTING CRASHES AGAIN; OTHERS BREAK

Traders View Issue as 'Overbulled.'

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 10.—A fresh crack-up in United States Smelting, whose 20 point tumble of last week is now under investigation by the stock exchange, upset the share market again today, causing prices to settle to new low levels for the movement.

Smelting plunged nearly 11 points before bumping solid ground and closed at 113, a net loss of 8¾ points on the day. Only a few weeks ago the stock was selling as high as $141.

Other mining shares went down with the leader, although their losses were not so pronounced. American Smelting finished about 2 points lower and losses of a point or so were marked up against Alaska Juneau, Cerro de Pasco, Howe Sound, and McIntyre. "Big" Smelting was one of the half dozen most active issues of the list and was under pressure all day. Selling orders reached a veritable deluge in the last hour of trading.

Views on Cause of Break.

While the attack on the erstwhile metals group favorite was ascribed last week to pool operations, brokers expressed the conviction today that the liquidation in this and other mining shares was augmented by announcement of the treasury's new financing plans, which proved somewhat of a disappointment to traders who had been hoping for a cash refund instead of an outright exchange offer.

Many, however, have been convinced for some time that the stock had been "overbulled" and the steady run of today's orders made it evident that this conviction had gained considerable ground over the week-end.

Losses in other departments of the market ran anywhere from 1 to 3 points. A scattering of specialties fared considerably worse. Reading dropped 5¾ points on one sale, Atlantic Gulf and West India sold off 4, and Hazel Atlas Glass, 4¾ points.

Steel Near 1934 Low.

United States Steel dipped to a new low for the two weeks' decline and came within a fraction of its year's minimum in spite of trade review statistics showing an advance in steel output to above 20 per cent and a rather impressive rise in the corporation's shipments last month. Bethlehem, Republic, and other steel shares sagged with the leader.

Industrial shares generally gave way easily despite the comparatively light selling leveled in their direction during the major part of the session. American Can, Westinghouse, Eastman Kodak, and others dropped a point or more each.

The rails were again out of favor, and some of the group leaders like Atchison and Union Pacific slid 2 points or more each. Delaware and Hudson, Lackawanna, and New York Central closed a point or so lower. Improved individual loadings reports showing a less than seasonal decline over Labor day week were of little help to the carriers.

Utility Leaders Decline.

American Telephone and Consolidated Gas were weak spots in the utilities division, dropping more than a point each. North American, United Corporation, and American Water Works also attracted considerable selling.

Some of the liquor issues came in for further rough treatment. American Commercial Alcohol was sold down nearly 2 points, and National Distilleries and Schenley gave up half as much each.

The many perplexing elements still present in the speculative situation as the new week began continued to confuse the trading community generally. Even seasoned observers were loath to offer an opinion as to the probable nearby trend, apparently being of a mind that technical considerations, rather than outside influences, will govern the course of values for some time.

U. S. WILL SEEK TRADE ACCORD WITH SWEDEN

Washington, D. C., Sept. 10.—(AP)—The state department announced today it immediately would negotiate a reciprocal trade agreement with Sweden, increasing to ten the nations with which the United States will soon seek new pacts in the hope of increasing trade. Hearings on the proposed Swedish agreement will be conducted Nov. 5.

The principal Swedish exports to the United States have been wood pulp, newsprint, iron and steel, matches, cattle hides, and iron ore.

Sweden has furnished a good market for American wheat, fruits, nuts, tobacco, cotton, hemp, automobile tires, gasoline, kerosene, lubricating oils, copper, machinery, automobiles, and sulphur.

Member Bank Loans Reveal Sharp Upturn

Commercial loans advanced by federal reserve member banks last week showed the greatest increase for any week in the last several months. The report as of Sept. 5, issued last night, revealed a gain of 114 million dollars.

Reasons for the upturn puzzled observers, as banks have complained of the small number of sound sources to which they can advance money. Considerable pressure has been brought to bear by the administration in an effort to expand business loans and last week's upturn was a partial reflection of this, it was said in some quarters.

New York supplied most of the improvement with a gain of 81 millions. Chicago contracted its commercial advances 2 millions but other banks in the 91 cities reporting revealed an expansion of 35 millions.

Security Loans Lower.

Month-end requirements, plus the usual call for "pocket money" over the Labor day holiday, sent deposits tumbling sharply. Gross deposits fell 221 millions and individual deposits sagged 164 millions. New York and Chicago suffered losses of 76 millions in gross and the interior a slump of 69 millions. Individual accounts dropped 30 millions in the eastern city, 74 millions here and 64 millions elsewhere.

Interbank deposits rose all along the line with gains of 15 millions in New York, 5 in Chicago and 28 in the interior, a net upturn of 48 millions. However, the government drew down 105 millions of its funds on deposit with the banks, taking 61 millions in New York, 7 here and 37 elsewhere.

Loans and Investments Rise.

Total loans and investments increased 49 millions, rising 88 millions in New York but easing 30 in Chicago and 9 in the interior. New York sold 39 millions of government bonds and the interior liquidated 51 millions, while Chicago reported a gain of one million.

At the same time New York and the interior bought securities other than governments, the eastern city increasing its portfolio by 26 millions and the interior by 39 millions. Chicago sold five millions, leaving a net improvement of 60 millions.

FREIGHT TRAFIC CUT LAST WEEK BY LABOR DAY

Car loadings reported yesterday for the week ended Sept. 8 showed declines from the preceding week, due to the Labor day holiday.

The Chicago and North Western reported a total of 25,748 cars; down 2,590 from the preceding week, but 3,012 better than a year ago. The Santa Fe handled 25,373 cars, compared with 26,761 and 21,530. A decrease from both comparative periods was shown by the Chesapeake and Ohio with 26,338 cars, against 30,477 and 27,589. Revenue freight loadings of the Milwaukee totaled 25,018 cars, against 27,892 and 21,351.

YIELD OF CORN PER ACRE SET AT RECORD LOW

Total Output Falls; Prices Weak.

A reduction of 122,000,000 bushels was suffered by the nation's corn crop during August, according to government estimates issued yesterday, indicating the smallest crop with two exceptions since 1881.

Total production was placed at 1,485,000,000 bushels and the yield per acre at 16 bushels, said to be the lowest on record. This compares with 1,607,000,000 bushels, estimated as of Aug. 1, with 2,285,000,000 on Sept. 1 a year ago and a five year average of 2,516,000,000 bushels.

Estimated output of oats was raised a million bushels from 545,000,000 last month to 546,000,000. A total outturn of 688,000,000 was predicted at this time a year ago, while the five year average aggregates 1,187,000,000 bushels. However, this year's crop is the smallest ever recorded.

Barley Estimate Increased.

The figures on barley were also lifted slightly, with production placed at 123,000,000 bushels, against 119,000,000 last month, 159,000,000 a year ago, and a five year average of 270,000,000.

The Aug. 1 estimate on winter wheat will not be revised until Dec. 1. However, a slight improvement in spring wheat was reported, with output placed at 92,800,000 bushels, against 90,400,000 as of Aug. 1; 166,000,000 a year ago, and a five year average of 254,000,000.

With indicated production of winter wheat unchanged at 401,000,000 bushels the total crop of wheat is thus revised upward from 491,400,000 bushels last month to 492,800,000. This is well below domestic requirements, as the average annual consumption in the United States approximates 650,000,000 bushels. Heavy inroads on existing surplus supplies will be necessary to feed the nation as a consequence. The aggregate yield of all wheat of 11.2 bushels per acre is the smallest since 1890.

Views on Report Differ.

Opinion varied widely on the corn estimate, the only figures in which grain traders displayed much interest as little change in other grains had been expected. Many felt the report was bearish, as the average of the five Chicago crop statisticians put corn production at 1,446,000,000 bushels as of Sept. 1, or 39,000,000 bushels below the official estimate.

Others had argued that the crop has shown some improvement and felt that any figure below one and a half billions was a bullish market influence despite the fact it exceeded local forecasts. They based their opinion on the fact that the crop is only slightly more than 50 per cent of normal, and a billion bushels under domestic consumption needs.

Although silent as to their plans for the new crop year, farm administration officials were reported to be conceding privately that if the board's predictions materialized, changes would have to be made in the corn control program for 1935. They were confident that more acreage would be planted to corn under the AAA plan for 1935 than last year. An expansion of fall wheat acreage had already been announced.

The flaxseed crop was estimated at 5,253,000 bushels, the lowest total ever recorded. Drouth and withering tem-

330 NEW YORK STOCKS STILL TO BE REGISTERED

Companies Must Apply by Tomorrow.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 10.—The New York Stock exchange has not yet received application for temporary registration under the securities exchange act from 330 of the 1,412 issuers whose shares are listed on its board. Up to 11 a. m. today the exchange had received 845 applications and was making plans to apply itself on behalf of 237 other issuers.

Of the 845 applications received, 36 are being held by the exchange pending the correction of certain errors. The 237, for which the exchange may apply under rule JE-2 of the securities and exchange commission, are the issues of foreign governments, foreign corporations, companies in receivership or bankruptcy, and companies in the process of reorganization.

Forwarded 526 Previously.

The exchange yesterday made public a list of 526 issuers whose applications were forwarded to Washington between Aug. 29 and the close of business on Saturday.

The deadline for the receipt of applications is Wednesday, Sept. 12, because the exchange must file with the control commission by Sept. 15.

One incident caused by the registration rules of the commission was an application, announced today, by the Atlantic Coast Line railroad for listing $81,342,700 common stock and $51,326,000 first consolidated mortgage 4 per cent bonds on the Baltimore & Ohio exchange.

Baltimore Records Burned.

These issues were listed in Baltimore more than thirty years ago, but all records of the listing were destroyed in the fire of 1904. In order to remove any shadow of doubt of the status of these issues in Baltimore the new application was filed. At the same time the Coast Line asked for listing of additional blocks of underlying mortgages and new listings of other divisional issues. The railroad also has filed its application for registration on the New York Stock exchange.

The New York Curb exchange announced that 129 fully listed companies out of 268 eligible had applied for temporary registration up to the close of business on Saturday.

HUPP MOTOR TO GET $500,000 AS SUIT IS SETTLED

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 10.—Settlement of a suit by Archie M. Andrews, director and largest stockholder of the Hupp Motor Car corporation, Detroit, against former directors and depositories of the company was disclosed today as the result of a decision by Supreme Court Justice Edgar J. Lauer approving the action of the attorneys in ending the action by the terms submitted.

The Hupp company will receive more than $500,000, which was stated in the petition to the court to be sufficient to enable the company to carry out its financial and manufacturing program for the remainder of the year. A change in the active management also is brought about as part of the settlement.

The suit was filed a year ago to recover sums deposited with Ladenburg, Thalmann & Co. of this city and A. G. Becker & Co., Chicago. It alleged certain directors were negligent in purchasing the Chandler-Cleveland Motor corporation in 1929 with the aid of Ladenburg, Thalmann & Co. The Chandler-Cleveland business was discontinued subsequently.

The petition of Mr. Andrews for court approval of the settlement states that he as chairman of the executive committee is seeking a head of the company to succeed Charles D. Hastings as president and general manager. Hastings is still chairman of the board.

CANADA LEADER FLAILS FEDERAL MIXING IN TRADE

Planned Economy Impotent, Says W. S. Evans.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WINNIPEG, Man., Sept. 10.—Stinging criticism of government activites in business was voiced here today by W. Sanford Evans, president of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, before the ninth annual meeting of that body. Until there can be a planned economy of demand extreme caution must be exercised in adopting a planned economy of supply, he told the assemblage.

"Indeed," he declared, "I suggest as among our needs an anti-trust law on economic planning."

Assigning the chaotic conditions of today to the world war, Evans asserted that if the world has come under a régime of planned economy, as many hold, then it is simple historical truth that for fifteen years of the world's most critical years international economic planning has shown itself impotent.

Outlines Post-War Adjustment.

"At the close of the war business found itself with a system of production seriously out of balance. A gigantic readjustment was necessary, but work of reëstablishment was not left to the business system. Instead, other agencies kept control. In order to wipe out public and other debts or to create temporary export advantages some nations deliberately pushed inflation to absurdity.

"Huge national stabilization funds and various forms of exchange control have kept the condition artificial, and as some nations never abandoned the idea of experimenting uncertainty and fear prevail with respect to the very basis on which commerce must be transacted.

"Question is not raised as to the intelligence or earnestness of the governments concerned. It is the system. Majorities of people must act through governments, and the understanding necessary for prompt action in technical business comes slowly while business requires prompt action and is always undergoing change.

Special Actions Control Business.

"Special action since the war has controled business fundamentals. Its impulses and objections were largely nationalistic and not economic. Under these conditions the business system is not accountable for the main character of results, for it has not been free to operate on its own principles and laws.

"The planned economists declare the business system has failed and something new must be tried. But I submit that the major premise is incapable of proof on the facts and and simply is not true."

Evans declared that in previous economic disturbances of every kind, all classes of experiments have been tried but that inevitably a return has been made to an economic system having a large range of individual planning and initiative, and relying for regulation of quantity and price mainly upon the test of an open market.

SMALLEST APPLE CROP IN SEVEN YEARS FORECAST

Washington, D. C., Sept. 10.—(AP)—The season's apple production was estimated today by the agriculture department at 111,703,000 bushels, the lowest forecast as of Sept. 1 since 1927. The department said the crop might be shorter even than 1927's and the smallest since 1921.

Present indications are, the department said, that the crop would be 29 per cent smaller than the 1927-'31 average and 22 per cent less than last year.

A very slight improvement in the Sept. 1 condition as compared with Aug. 1 was attributed by the department to rains accompanied by lower temperatures in the apple producing regions. The east especially was benefited and the department said the fruit was sizing well.

PRICES OF HOGS DROP 20 TO 50C; QUALITY POOR

Cattle Values Also Are Pounded Hard.

Hog prices fell sharply, yesterday, the bulk of sales showing losses of 20 to 25 cents, with some new crop lightweights off as much as 50 cents compared with the close last week. It was the sharpest break since the market turned reactionary 12 days ago, after touching the highest levels in three years.

The current decline has continued since Aug. 29 without interruption, and one-fourth of the gain scored during the long rise has been erased. Current prices still are $2.50 above the low spot of July and $3.50 to $3.60 above the June low time. Until Aug. 30 the hog market had not registered a break in 36 consecutive sessions, the rise being one of the longest, if not the longest, in market history.

Finished Hogs Scarce.

The character of the receipts since the setback began indicates that the available supply of hogs ready for market is as short as the packing industry had expected. Much of the slight increase in receipts at the leading markets the last few days consisted of the new crop light hogs, mostly unfinished because of the high price of corn. Consequently current receipts represent a smaller tonnage of pork than that indicated by the numbers of hogs on the market.

There was another decline in the price of fresh pork, but the loss was milder than it has been at any time since the reaction.

Selected 220 to 275 pound butchers sold to local interests topped yesterday's market at $9.45, including the $2.25 processing tax to the federal government, which left $7.20 as the price farmers obtained. Of the $9.05 average, tax included, farmers were paid $6.80, the lowest since Aug. 22. Practically all hogs listed at $9.25 and above, including the tax, averaged more than 200 pounds, while a range of $8.50 to $9.00 took in a lot of the new crop hogs weighing 150 to 170 pounds, leaving $6.25 to $6.75 for the farmer, or fully $1.00 less than at the high time less than two weeks ago.

Cattle Break Sharply.

Cattle were pounded severely on final rounds, closing 35 to 50 cents lower after a weak to 25 cents lower opening. Liberal supplies of commercial stock was suggestive of liquidation of unfinished stock. The seven leading markets received a combined total of 96,000 head of farmer-owned cattle, as against 67,000 the previous Monday. A year ago the run was 89,000. There also were 48,500 government cattle at the seven points yesterday. Commercial calves numbered 18,000 at the seven points, against 12,000 the previous Monday and 12,000 a year ago.

A fair share of the best "fed" stock sold weak to 25 cents lower here during the early rounds, but many large strings of cattle went into the late afternoon session on 50 cent lower bids. A survey near the close indicated that a good sized supply would go over for today's trade. Plain short-fed steers got the worst drubbing late in the day.

Cattle Top Is $10.50.

Choice 1,340 pound steers topped the price list at $10.50, while long yearlings averaging 1,108 pounds sold at $10.35. The bulk of steers cashed within a range of $6 to $10.

Lambs held fairly steady in face of the declines in all other live stock yesterday. Top grades of native and western range lambs sold to packers around the $7 line, while a scattering of selected natives to city butchers reached $7.25.

A feature of the trade was the brisk demand for young breeding stock. Yearling ewes averaging 110 pounds sold up to $6.50, the highest price paid for breeding stock since November, 1930. Top feeding lambs stopped at $6.00. This is the first time in three years that breeding yearlings have outsold best light young feeding lambs.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK

[The following figures on hog prices include $2.25 per hundredweight collected by the federal government as processing tax. There is no processing tax on cattle or sheep. The price quotations given below are per 100 pounds of live animal.]

COTTONSEED OIL.

NEW YORK, Sept. 10.—(AP)—COTTONSEED OIL—Bleachable was lower today but after declining 6 points to 10 points under liquidation, partial rallies followed on buying by refiners and southern interests in the January and March positions. The easiness was influenced by the action of cotton and lard. Sales were 79 contracts. The market closed at losses of 6 points to 9 points. Bleachable spot: normal; September closed 7.30c; October, 7.35c; December 7.47c; January, 7.53c; March 7.68c.

HIDE FUTURES.

Hide futures declined 16 to 30 points in New York Monday with sales of 28 lots of 1,120,000 lbs. Closing bids—Old contracts—September, 6.35c; December, 6.75c; March, 6.90c. Standard contracts—September, 7.60c; December, 7.90c; March, 8.15c; June, 8.40c; September, 1935, 8.75c.

AGREE ON BUYING DRIVE TO SAVE GASOLINE TRADE

Big Units to Remove Surplus.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 10.—(AP)—A plan intended to prevent a threatened collapse of the wholesale gasoline market and at the same time to clamp the lid down more tightly on illegal petroleum production was approved today by Secretary Ickes.

Brought forward by the industry and recommended by its planning and coördination committee, the proposal provides for purchase of surplus gasoline by major oil companies in the entire area east of the Rocky mountains. Most of the gasoline will be obtained from small, independent refiners.

Oil circles considered this to be one of the most significant steps yet taken in the joint campaign for government and private enterprise to restore stability to the $12,000,000,000 industry.

Expect Price Relief.

Regarded in informed quarters as an alternative to price fixing, the plan, the oil administration said, is expected to bring more effective relief from low refinery prices which have been depressed by huge gasoline stocks in storage and the dumping of gasoline made from "hot," or illegally produced, oil.

Holders of excess gasoline are to sign agreements not to process any oil produced illegally in return for a chance to dispose of their surplus.

Ickes has been told that purchases probably will begin at once and that they should total about 1,700,000 barrels in the first month. They may continue around 1,258,000 a month for several months.

"Hot" Oil Is Threat.

In urging the plan on the administration, the planning and coördination committee said any effort to provide outlets for quantities of distress gasoline would fail if supplies of "hot" oil and its products "continue to provide price undermining competition in established markets for legally produced crude and products."

Ickes said recently 80 per cent of the refiners in east Texas, under the plan in operation there, were living up to their agreements not to handle illegal oil.

A program committee, a special subcommittee of the planning and coördination committee, will supervise the gasoline buying for the industry. It was this same committee which worked out the plan.

PROVISIONS DROP SHARPLY DUE TO SELLING BY LONGS

Longs were on the selling side of lard futures yesterday and with stop loss orders uncovered prices receded rather sharply. Cash interests were persistent buyers on the decline, presumably removing hedges against shipping sales, but the close was 12½ to 17½ cents lower. Sharp breaks in hogs and in cottonseed oil had some effect on sentiment. Cash lard closed at $9.37, loose at $9.60, and leaf at $10.50.

Trade in bellies was relatively light with the close 12½ to 20 cents lower. Cash lots were held at $13.92. Prices follow:

WOOL MARKET

BOSTON, Mass., Sept. 10.—The Boston wool market is practically at a standstill. The closing of many wool manufacturing plants on account of the textile strike has further reduced raw wool requirements which had been very small for many weeks previous to the strike. While there is no current trading upon which to base market quotations, holders of greasy combing wools are maintaining a waiting attitude and are not making changes in asking prices.

BUTTER CLOSES LOWER; EGGS UNCHANGED TO HIGHER

Butter closed ¼ to ¾ cent lower on the Chicago Mercantile exchange yesterday, news being regarded as slightly bearish. Eggs were unchanged to ¼ cent higher.

Movement of butter into storage over the week-end at four leading markets aggregated 770,000 pounds, or 219,000 pounds more than a year ago. Increased selling developed following the posting of the unfavorable statistics and disclosed a lack of aggressive buying. Eggs were firmer early, but reacted later on profit taking and hedging sales.

Sales: Butter, 77 cars; eggs, 149 cars. Prices follow:

BURNHAM

OFFERS OPPORTUNITIES FOUND ONLY AT BURNHAM'S.

FOR 63 YEARS THE WORLD'S LARGEST BEAUTY SCHOOL.

When you visit Burnham's you'll understand why more girls enroll in this school than in any other and you'll be amazed at the unexpected and exclusive advantages which our 63 year record of turning out the best operators enables us to pass on to you —such as positions on ocean liners, positions with the best shops which DEMAND Burnham graduates, the opportunity of earning while learning, free tools, unlimited practice on live models, easy terms, and many other advantages.

Once explained you'll see how Burnham teaching methods will enable you to master Beauty Culture quicker, easier, surer—and why these methods develop the type of operator shop owners want.

If you ACT now you can arrange to pay for most of your tuition after you graduate. Call, phone or write for FREE BEAUTY BOOK.
